[In force, July, 1890.]

I. MEMBERS.

1. The Society shall consist of Resident, Corresponding, and Honorary Members.

Resident members shall be persons residing in the State of Connecticut; and no others shall be entitled to vote in any meeting of the Society.

Honorary and corresponding members shall be persons residing out of the State of Connecticut, and shall not be subject to any admission fee or tax.

Honorary members shall be persons who may have rendered important public service to the State of Connecticut, or to the cause of historic inquiry, or literature generally.

2. No person shall be voted for as an honorary, corresponding, or resident member, until at least one month after his nomination by the Committee on Membership; and every such vote shall be taken by ballot, at a regular meeting, at which not less than ten members are present.

3. Every nomination for the election of honorary or corresponding members shall be based on the application, in writing, of two resident members, stating the reasons for such nomination, and the qualifications of the persons proposed for membership.

4. Whenever a vote shall be taken on the admission of a member, and there shall be found two ballots against his admission, the presiding officer shall declare the election postponed. At the next regular meeting, if the recommendation of the committee shall be renewed, he may be admitted by the votes of two-thirds the members present.

5. Resident members shall pay, on admission, three dollars, and two dollars every subsequent year, if they reside within, and one dollar if they reside without, the limits of the town of Hartford; or, in lieu thereof, any person entitled to be a member, may constitute himself a life member by paying at one time, the sum of twenty-five dollars.

6. Should any person, elected as a resident member, omit to signify his acceptance of such election, within one month after receiving notice thereof, and to pay the admission fee, he shall forfeit the privilege of becoming a member. The payment of the annual assessment shall hereafter constitute a condition of continued membership, and the neglect or refusal to pay the same, for the period of six months after the annual meeting of the Society, shall be deemed a withdrawal from the Society.

7. A copy of the by-laws shall be presented, within one month after the adoption of this by-law, by the Recording Secretary, to every resident member, to be signed and returned to the Secretary; and members who shall subscribe the same shall thereafter be considered as accepting the provision respecting the annual assessment and the conditions of membership.

ANNUAL ADDRESS.

IN compliance with the provisions of the laws of our Society, by which it is made incumbent upon the President "to deliver, or provide for, an address at the annual meeting" of the Society, the undersigned, at the request of the President, proceeds to perform that duty.

The Society has now had an active existence of fifty years, and if, on looking back, we can discover that we have neglected any duty that should have been performed to enlarge its usefulness, and extend an interest in its objects and welfare among the people of Connecticut, there could be no more fitting time than the present to resolve upon infusing into it a more vigorous life. It must necessarily feel the reviving influences imparted to all the institutions associated with it under the general guardianship of the Wadsworth Atheneum, when all the munificent plans that are now projected to enlarge the objects and scope of that corporation are carried out, as they will be in the near future.

MEMBERSHIP.

The total membership of the Society is 208, divided as follows: Resident members, 173; honorary members, 10; corresponding members, 25.

The increase in membership during the last year has been: Resident members, 61; honorary members, 3; corresponding members, 2.

o·k

The following have qualified as life members during the past year: Albert C. Bates, Richard A. Wheeler, Theodore Lyman, Charles Dudley Warner, Mrs. A. H. Holley, Jabez H. Hayden, Jonathan F. Morris, George H. Clark, J. Coolidge Hills, Ephraim H. Hyde, Jr., Rowland Swift, Jacob L. Greene, Rodney Dennis, Jane T. Smith, George M. Woodruff, J. Deming Perkins, Thomas G. Welles.

I would suggest that a committee on statistics be appointed, whose duty it shall be to keep a perfected record of the membership of the Society, prepare suitable notices of deceased members, and report the same at the annual meetings.

ANNUAL FIELD DAY.

The "Annual Field Day" of the Society, a festival day recently inaugurated, which, it is hoped, will never be neglected, was most delightfully passed in the old historic town of Deerfield, Mass., on the 4th day of June last. On arriving at the town we were received by the officers of the Pocumtuck Valley Memorial Association, Hon. George Sheldon and Nathaniel Hitchcock, and politely escorted by them over the scenes of the Bloody Brook massacre, the massacre at the fort, and all the other scenes of historic interest with which this ancient town is crowded. Not the least of the objects of interest visited was the "Memorial Hall," in which is gathered one of the most complete collections of Indian relics, and domestic furniture of the early settlers of the country, to be found in New England, all properly assorted and catalogued for ready reference. The members of the Society present were: Sherman W. Adams, Horace Cornwall, Frank B. Gay, Julius Gay, Everett S. Geer, Joseph O. Goodwin, H. Sidney Hayden, Jabez H. Hayden, J. Coolidge Hills, Horace E.

MONTHLY ESSAYS AND PAPERS.

Early in the past year a committee was appointed, charged with the duty of providing to be read, at each regular meeting, an essay or historical paper. The result has been to systematize the order of business at our monthly meetings and very greatly to increase the attendance upon them and the interest in them. It is to be hoped that this committee will hereafter be placed among our standing committees.

The first monthly meeting of the Society after the annual election of officers in May last, was held on our Annual Field Day, in Memorial Hall, in Deerfield, on the 4th day of June. Judge S. W. Adams read a poem upon the late celebration in this city of the two hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the formation of the first Constitution of Connecticut.

At the regular meeting of the Society in July, Dr. C. J. Hoadly described the reception in Hartford of the news of the fall of Louisburg, in June, 1745, and read an original letter descriptive of the same from Judge Daniel Edwards.

At the October meeting, Mr. Frank F. Starr presented a paper comprising the original correspondence between the State of Tennessee and Nathan Starr, of Middletown, the manufacturer of two swords which were made for the State, and presented to Gen. Andrew Jackson, and Gen. Edmund P. Gaines, for their military

At the October meeting, Mr. Frank F. Starr presented a paper comprising the original correspondence between the State of Tennessee and Nathan Starr, of Middletown, the manufacturer of two swords which were made for the State, and presented to Gen. Andrew Jackson, and Gen. Edmund P. Gaines, for their military services. The interest of the correspondence, which covered a space of about six years, consisted in an account of the extreme difficulty which the State had in forwarding the money to pay for the swords, and illustrated the embarrassment of commercial intercourse between the Mississippi Valley and New England in that early day.

In November, Mr. William H. Lee, of New York and Hartford, presented an elaborate paper upon the life and character of Major-General John Paterson, of the Revolutionary Army, and the history of the Paterson family.

In December, Mr. Forrest Morgan read a paper on the "Character and Distribution of the Huguenot settlements in America, and their effect on our national life and character." At the same meeting Mr. George J. Hagar, of Newark, N. J., addressed the Society upon "State Aid to Historical Societies."

At the January meeting, Dr. Gurdon W. Russell read a portion of an extended paper which he has prepared upon "Up Neck in 1825." Although limited in in its title to a portion of the old town of Hartford, it embraces a wide sweep of town history, which it is hoped will some day see the light in a permanent form.

At the February meeting, Judge S. W. Adams read a paper on "The naming of Wethersfield." Also a paper descriptive of "Life in a man-of-war ship during the Rebellion," drawn from his own personal experience.

At the March meeting, Mr. Henry F. Waters, of Salem, Mass., gave the Society an extremely interesting account of his personal experience among the public archives of England in prosecuting his genealogical investigations.

Although limited in its title to a portion of the old town of Hartford, it embraces a wide sweep of town history, which it is hoped will some day see the light in a permanent form.

At the February meeting, Judge S. W. Adams read a paper on "The Hanging of Wethersfield." Also a paper descriptive of "Life in a man-of-war ship during the Rebellion," drawn from his own personal experience.

At the March meeting, Mr. Henry F. Waters, of Salem, Mass., gave the Society an extremely interesting account of his personal experience among the public archives of England in prosecuting his genealogical investigations.

The last paper provided for, and the last of the year, was read at the April meeting by Rev. Eugene F. Atwood, of Bloomfield. His theme was Philo Penfield Stewart, a native of Sherman in this State, a born inventor, a missionary, a philanthropist, and one of the founders of Oberlin College, Ohio.

Correspondence with our Committee on Monthly Papers has recently been solicited by the New Haven County Historical Society, with reference to an interchange of papers. It is proposed that papers of general interest presented to either Society be read before the other. In accordance with this excellent suggestion Mr. Forrest Morgan consented to read in New Haven, on the 26th inst., his paper upon the Huguenot settlements in America, presented to our meeting last December, and Prof. Simeon E. Baldwin, of New Haven, will present to us, some time in July, a paper upon the constitutional history of this State. This mutually profitable and agreeable intercourse between the two Societies should continue unbroken.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE SOCIETY.

Although the Society has a very large and valuable collection of original historical papers, it is now twenty years since it has published any selections from them. I am pleased to announce that we have now in press the papers of Governor Joseph Talcott, covering that portion of the history of the State from 1724 to 1741. The labor of editing these papers has been assumed by Miss Mary K. Talcott, a lineal descendant of the Governor, who will be ably assisted by Mr. Forrest Morgan. It is expected that these papers will fill two volumes of the same general style of our Collections, already published, but somewhat larger. A similar addition to the services. The interest of the correspondence, which covered a space of about six years, consisted in an account of the extreme difficulty which the State had in forwarding the money to pay for the swords, and illustrated the embarrassment of commercial intercourse between the Mississippi Valley and New England in that early day.

In November, Mr. William H. Lee, of New York and Hartford, presented an elaborate paper upon the life and character of Major-General John Paterson, of the Revolutionary Army, and the history of the Paterson family.

In December, Mr. Forrest Morgan read a paper on the "Character and Distribution of the Huguenot settlements in America, and their effect on our national life and character." At the same meeting Mr. George J. Hagar, of Newark, N. J., addressed the Society upon "State Aid to Historical Societies."

At the January meeting, Dr. Gordon W. Russell read a portion of an extended paper which he has prepared upon "Up Nock in 1835." Although limited in its title to a portion of the old town of Hartford, it embraces a wide sweep of town history, which it is hoped will some day see the light in a permanent form.

At the February meeting, Judge S. W. Adams read a paper on "The planting of Weatherfield." Also a paper descriptive of "Life in a man-of-war ship during the Rebellion," drawn from his own personal experience.

At the March meeting, Mr. Henry F. Waters, of Salem, Mass., gave the Society an extremely interesting account of his personal experience among the public archives of England in prosecuting his genealogical investigations.

The last paper provided for, and the last of the year, was read at the April meeting by Rev. Eugene F. Atwood, of Bloomfield. His theme was Philo Penfield Stewart, a native of Sherman in this State, a born inventor, a missionary, a philanthropist, and one of the founders of Oberlin College, Ohio.

Correspondence with our Committee on Monthly Papers has recently been solicited by the New Haven County Historical Society, with reference to an interchange of papers. It is proposed that papers of general interest presented to either Society be read before the other. In accordance with this excellent suggestion Mr. Forrest Morgan consented to read in New Haven, on the 26th inst., his paper upon the Huguenot settlements in America, presented to our meeting last December, and Prof. Simeon E. Baldwin, of New Haven, will present to us, some time in July, a paper upon the constitutional history of this State. This mutually profitable and agreeable intercourse between the two Societies should continue unbroken.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE SOCIETY.

Although the Society has a very large and valuable collection of original historical papers, it is now twenty years since it has published any selections from them. I am pleased to announce that we have now in press the papers of Governor Joseph Talcott, covering that portion of the history of the State from 1724 to 1741. The labor of editing these papers has been assumed by Miss Mary K. Talcott, a lineal descendant of the Governor, who will be ably assisted by Mr. Forrest Morgan. It is expected that these papers will fill two volumes of the same general style of our Collections, already published, but somewhat larger. A similar addition to the

DECEASED MEMBERS.

Since our last annual meeting three of our members have been removed by death—Stephen A. Hubbard, January 11, 1890; Junius Spencer Morgan, April 8, 1890, and Edwin D. Tiffany, April 12, 1890.

Stephen A. Hubbard was born in Sunderland, Mass., August 20, 1827. He served an apprenticeship as a printer in Amherst, Mass., and followed his profession in New York City and Winsted, Conn., before coming to Hartford. In 1867 he became connected with the Hartford Courant as one of its proprietors, and remained in that connection to the time of his death. He joined our Society April 3, 1877, and from that time onward was one of our most zealous and useful members. Thoroughly interested in all that pertained to the interests and objects of the Society, no one was more relied upon than he was in all its practical work. His death was a serious loss to the Society, and was sincerely mourned by us all as a personal loss.

Junius Spencer Morgan was a native of West Springfield, Mass., where he was born April 14, 1813. His family removed to Hartford when he was four years old, and here he remained, with the exception of about ten years spent in business in Boston and New York, till 1854, when he joined the famous banking house of George Peabody & Co. in London. The death of Mr. Peabody, ten years afterwards, placed him at the head of that house, where he continued till the time of his death. He joined this Society December 6, 1843, four years after its organization, and how well he kept it in memory during his residence in a

His family removed to Hartford when he was four years old, and here he remained, with the exception of about ten years spent in business in Boston and New York, till 1854, when he joined the famous banking house of George Peabody & Co. in London. The death of Mr. Peabody, ten years afterwards, placed him at the head of that house, where he continued till the time of his death. He joined this Society December 6, 1843, four years after its organization, and how well he kept it in memory during his residence in a foreign land, and how ardent his friendship for it was, is proved by the frequent valuable contributions he made to its treasures, and especially by that rare and princely gift, recently made, our acknowledgment of which could only have reached him a few days before his death. And what more fitting place than this could there be to publish that acknowledgment!

"The Connecticut Historical Society, in acknowledging the gift from Mr. Junius S. Morgan of the colossal work, 'Facsimiles of manuscripts in European Archives relating to America, 1773–83,' is conscious that no ordinary form of thanks is adequate to express its feeling at once of the donor's generosity, and of his fine judgment in the selection of a gift. Not alone is it of a cost far beyond the present or probable resources of the Society, and therefore most unlikely to have come into our possession in any other way, but it will be incomparably the most massive and most valuable collection of original documents on American history yet published; being especially of unique value as consisting of photographic facsimiles of the documents themselves, thus putting the humblest student on a level, in capacity of original research, with the wealthy and leisured or official classes, who can visit foreign capitals and ransack foreign libraries without stint. This enormous collection, to which this Society gave its indorsement years ago, has been made possible only by private subscriptions, necessarily limited; and therefore Mr. Morgan, in becoming for our benefit one of the small number of subscribers, is not alone conferring on this Society a benefit of incalculable historic value, but is aiding to make certain the accomplishment of the work itself, and thus earning the gratitude of Americans and students of American institutions everywhere. The period covered by the collection, including as it does the proximate genesis of the Revolution, that war itself, and the negotiations by which our independence was assured, is perhaps the most important, probably the most intricate, and certainly in foreign lands the least understood period of our history; and the work is therefore not only an intellectual but a patriotic service of high order.

"In view of these facts, the Connecticut Historical Society as a body, and individually, express to Mr. Morgan their deep and enduring gratitude and appreciation for his most generous and judicious gift to themselves, his aid in securing from failure a stupendous and valuable historical labor, and his patriotic services as an American, in aiding a truer knowledge of his country's acts and motives in her crucial time; and their trust and belief that the studies which this gift will stimulate and enable to be carried on, will mature into work that in honoring Hartford will also honor her munificent son.

"It is the will of the Society that the foregoing expression of thanks be properly engrossed and forwarded by the Secretary to Mr. Morgan."

Edwin D. Tiffany was a native of Sturbridge, Mass., where he was born December 15, 1810. He learned the trade of a printer in Southbridge, and came to Hartford in 1830. He afterwards formed a partnership with Newton Case and others and founded the large establishment now known as The Case, Lockwood & Brainard Co. In 1857 he retired from the printing and publishing business with an ample fortune, and has since been engaged in banking and financial affairs. He was a member of this Society from its organization.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

Your attention is called to the Annual Report of the Librarian. Especially would I call to your notice what he suggests in regard to classifying and cataloguing our entire collection. With the most ample means, in expert hands, this would be a work of years at best. But it is so essential to the very existence of the Society, that nothing should stand in the way of our laying out the work and proceeding with it as rapidly as our means will permit. You cannot encourage people to deposit articles of historic value with us unless you can give them an assurance that their contributions will be carefully preserved, but it is of little consequence merely to preserve them if they are not arranged and catalogued so as to be plainly exhibited, or readily referred to as occasion may require. Much has been done the past year in the way of gathering up and arranging our unbound collection of newspapers, but very much yet remains to be done to perfect this work. The work of labeling and re-labeling our articles on exhibition has recently been faithfully performed by our custodian.

What the Librarian says of our Library Fund should be carefully noted. This fund is at present too small to be of much practical account. During the last year we have strained our resources in this respect to the utmost, and yet our purchases have been almost as nothing compared with what has been offered us and what we need. The opportunities for securing such rare and valuable books as we need to supplement our own collection, seldom occur except at the sales of private libraries, and the circle of these is necessarily narrowing year by year. All private libraries of great value at some time are either thrown upon the market or go by bequest to public institutions. In the latter case they are at once withdrawn from the reach of the buyer forever. In the former case they are largely purchased and placed in the same collections, and become equally inaccessible to purchase. In this way it cannot be many years before all rare and valuable books will have been gathered up and passed along into these permanent public collections, where they will remain forever. What is done, then, by way of securing the needed additions to our collection, must be done soon. How to secure the needed addition to our Library Fund is the problem before us. We have an unknown friend who is frequently pointing out to us its solution, but unless troops of others will join him in the same good work, the solution of the problem is yet far off. Would it be unreasonable to ask the State, whose name we bear, and which alone receives whatever there may be of honor and usefulness connected with our work, to encourage us by annual, substantial, material aid.

CONCLUSION.

We may, in conclusion, congratulate ourselves that an increased public interest has arisen in the past year in the welfare of our Society, as shown by the large additions to our list of members, and the attendance upon our monthly meetings. It should be our aim always to render our Society and our rooms more and more popular and attractive, so that we may have the means of exerting an increasing educating influence, at the same time that we present a standing evidence of a high order of public intelligence.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN W. STEDMAN,

First Vice-President.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

The report of the "doings of the librarian and the condition of the library," as provided for in the by-laws, may be made brief or long, as regards the past year's work or the needs and condition of the library. The work, which could easily have been made to fill all my time, had to be compressed largely into odd minutes, noon hours, and spasmodic evening efforts.

There have been received by gift, and acknowledged to the donor in almost every instance, 1,331 articles. By purchase there have been added 60 volumes and 7 pamphlets, and by exchange 5 volumes and 61 pamphlets, making the total addition for the year, 1,464 separate pieces. This may be divided about as follows: 406 volumes, 994 pamphlets, and 64 miscellaneous gifts — pictures, photographs, war relics, broadsides, etc. It is impossible to say, in the absence of a catalogue, how many of the pamphlets are duplicates, or to tell the net increase to the library. The report of a year ago gave the total additions as 557, which shows that 907 more articles were received this year than last. The appended list of donors will show those to whom we are indebted.

At the head of the list of donors during the year stands the name of Mr. Junius Spencer Morgan, of London, who conferred an inestimable benefit on the Society in giving a subscription to Stevens's "Facsimiles

The report of a year ago gave the total additions as 557, which shows that 907 more articles were received this year than last. The appended list of donors will show those to whom we are indebted.

At the head of the list of donors during the year stands the name of Mr. Junius Spencer Morgan, of London, who conferred an inestimable benefit on the Society in giving a subscription to Stevens's "Facsimiles of manuscripts relating to America," 3 volumes of which have been received; and also by presenting volume 1 of Cesnola's "Catalogue of Cypriote Antiquities in the Metropolitan Museum." It is understood that Mr. Morgan gave instructions to have the 2d and 3d volumes of the latter forwarded when published. With him may well be noted President Battell, the anonymous donor towards a book-fund, and the unobtrusive, unrecorded giver, Vice-President Stedman. The various historical societies throughout the country have sent their regular publications, and a larger number of individuals than usual have favored us, of whom the following deserve special mention, viz.: Forrest Morgan, W. H. Lee, C. J. Hoadly, F. F. Starr, C. W. Darling, Miss Helen Whiting, E. J. Cleveland, S. W. Adams, R. C. Winthrop, Jr., J. C. Kinney, Mrs. M. C. Weld, E. S. Tyler, and E. Geer's Sons.

Among the important publications received are Lindsley's Military Annals (Confederate) of Tennessee; Hotten's Original List of Emigrants; The Celebration of the 100th Anniversary of the Adoption of the Constitution of the United States; Tuckerman's Lafayette; a collection of over 40 volumes on the Quakers; the Michigan Pioneer Collections, with a valuable lot of other books relating to that State; some 40 MSS. relating to Connecticut history, from Robert C. Winthrop's collection; also an oil portrait of Gen. Daniel Tyler, son-in-law to Gen. Israel Putnam, and his aide when in command at Bunker Hill. The following family histories have been added, with one or two exceptions all by gift: The Chittenden, Jessup, Johnson, Clark, Earle, Baldwin (supplement), Howard, Dod, op Dyke, Lee, Sage, Perkins, Cutler, Gardiner, Thurston, Winchell, Stone, and Craighead. The past year has been marked by the purchase of a number of books needed in the department of New England local history. Among them may be mentioned Bailey's Historical Sketches of Andover, Mass.; Jewett's History of Barnstead, N. H.; Doolittle's History of the Congregational Church in Belchertown, Mass.; Barry's History of Framingham, Mass.; Jenness's Documents in the English Archives Relating to the Early History of N. H.; Mauduit's Short View of the History of Massachusetts Bay with respect to its Charter; Ricketson's History of New Bedford, Mass.; Lapham's History of Paris, Me.; Stearns's History of Rindge, N. H.; Reed's History of Rutland, Mass.; Runnels's History of Sanbornton, N. H.; Eaton's History of Thomaston, Me.; Bourne's Wells and Kennebunk, Me.; Lincoln's History of Worcester, Mass., and others. Through the kindness of our President, Mr. Battell, we were able to buy in the Barlow sale, two of the scarce works by Rev. Thomas Hooker, "The Covenant of Grace Opened," and "The Faithful Covenanter," also the Records of the Governor and Council of Vermont, a full set, besides other books. Parker's History of Londonderry, N. H., Hills's History of Mason, N. H., Ballou's History of Milford, Mass., History of Rochester, Vt., Brooks's History of Medford, Mass., Stark's History of Dunbarton, N. H., Temple's Palmer, Mass., Wheeler's Brunswick, Me., and the Norwich (Conn.) Courier, December, 1804–November, 1807, are among the list of purchases from second-hand dealers, and exchanges. All of the additions in local and family history, numerous government and other publications and reports — those likely to be most desired — have been catalogued in the Watkinson library. The printing and distribution of the volume, "250th anniversary of the adoption of the first Constitution of Connecticut," and work on the pamphlet relating to the Society, should be mentioned. The use of the library has been as general as in years past; in the lines of United States history and politics, noticeably so, owing to the demands of one of the literary clubs.

The Society has but a small book-fund, commenced and twice added to by a most modest friend; some plan should be devised for increasing this to fair proportions. Our collection of books and manuscripts is already large and rich in quality—notably so in certain lines. But no one (saving two or three) has or can have any idea of the contents of our shelves and cases. A catalogue made on approved and modern models, by a practiced cataloguer, is an imperative necessity. On occupying our new and enlarged quarters, an entire rearrangement and classification of the library and other collections must be made. It is none too early to carefully look into the matter, that it may have due consideration in season.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK B. GAY,

Librarian.

[In force, July, 1891.]

I. MEMBERS.

1. The Society shall consist of Resident, Corresponding, and Honorary Members.

Resident members shall be persons residing in the State of Connecticut; and no others shall be entitled to vote in any meeting of the Society.

Honorary and corresponding members shall be persons residing out of the State of Connecticut, and shall not be subject to any admission fee or tax.

Honorary members shall be persons who may have rendered important public service to the State of Connecticut, or to the cause of historic inquiry, or literature generally.

3. Every nomination for the election of honorary or corresponding members shall be based on the application, in writing, of two resident members, stating the reasons for such nomination, and the qualifications of the persons proposed for membership.

4. Whenever a vote shall be taken on the admission of a member, and there shall be found two ballots against his admission, the presiding officer shall declare the election postponed. At the next regular meeting, if the recommendation of the committee shall be renewed, he may be admitted by the votes of two-thirds the members present.

5. Resident members shall pay, on admission, three dollars, and two dollars every subsequent year, if they reside within, and one dollar if they reside without, the limits of the town of Hartford; or, in lieu thereof, any person entitled to be a member, may constitute himself a life member by paying at one time, the sum of twenty-five dollars.

ANNUAL FIELD DAY.

Plymouth, Mass., was selected last year as the place for holding the Field Day of the Society. Leaving Hartford at 9 o'clock on the morning of Tuesday, June 3, by the New England road, we arrived at Boston in time for dinner, and reached Plymouth at 4 P. M., where we were comfortably entertained at the Samoset House. A committee of the Old Colony Historical Society, headed by Hon. William T. Davis, the historian of the Old Colony, here took us in charge and were constant in their attentions during our stay. The regular monthly meeting of the Society was held in the parlors of the Samoset in the evening. An interesting incident of the evening was the reading, by request, of the oration of Edward Everett on the 22d day of December, 1824, at Plymouth, by Joseph G. Woodward, Esq.

On Wednesday morning early, carriages being in readiness, we were taken in succession to every spot of historic interest in the town. From the base of the great monument, with the harbor and adjoining country spread out before us, Mr. Davis gave a vivid description of all the localities and events so familiar in name to those who have been interested in the story of the Mayflower and its passengers. Attention was called to the part that citizens of Hartford had taken in the construction of the monument itself. The museums, the cemeteries, the ancient houses, and the famous Rock itself, were all visited and commented upon by our intelligent guide. The pleasures of this beautiful day will be vividly remembered by those who participated in them as long as they live.

The sequel to this delightful visit may be found in the accompanying correspondence, premising that accurate dimensions of the chair mentioned were taken by Mr. Fenn, who also secured a photograph of it, so that his copy is an absolute facsimile of the old chair in the Plymouth collection.

The correspondence is worthy of a permanent place in our records:

HARTFORD, April 6, 1891.

MY DEAR MR. DAVIS: —

The members of the Connecticut Historical Society have a permanent pleasure in recalling their Field Day at Plymouth last summer. They feel that the profit and the delight of their pilgrimage were due in great part to your courteous readiness to give them the benefit of your thorough knowledge of the history of the colony, its people and places. The emotions excited by the vivid and picturesque account of the landing to which they listened while standing in the shadow of the monument on the hill, will not be forgotten.

It will gratify them greatly if you will be good enough to accept from their hands a chair which has to-day been sent to your address. You will doubtless observe that it is after the model of the BAILEY CHAIR, which seemed a better device for the comfort of man than any other chair in the Plymouth collection. It is of oak, grown in Hartford County, Connecticut, and was made under the supervision of Mr. Linus Tryon Fenn, a member of our Society. The tablet is of Charter Oak, furnished by the Honorable John W. Stedman, President of the Society.

To hope that you may live so long that when old age shall come you may find its stout arms of service in your daily life would surely be kind to others if not to yourself.

With sentiments of the highest regard, I am

Sincerely yours,

J. G. WOODWARD.

REPLY.

J. G. WOODWARD, ESQ.,

DEAR SIR: — Your letter advising me of the gift of a chair from members of the Connecticut Historical Society was received on Wednesday, and last evening the chair reached me in good condition. As much as I shall value the chair itself, the beauty and solidity of which I admire, I attach more value still to the spirit which has prompted the gift. While I need no such recognition of any courtesies which it may have been in my power to extend to visitors in our ancient town, it affords a gratifying assurance of their appreciation, and thus furnishes a stimulus to further effort in the same direction.

The chair has already assumed the character of an heirloom in my family, and will pass in time to my son, Howland Davis, and his son Howland, who are descended from ten of the Mayflower passengers.

Please accept my warmest thanks for yourself and your associates in the gift, and be assured that on any future visit to Plymouth, which either of you may make, I shall take pleasure in describing to you more fully the historic landmarks of the Pilgrim Land.

MONTHLY ESSAYS AND PAPERS.

The papers and essays provided, during the year, by the committee appointed for that purpose, have attracted large audiences, and many of them have been of exceptional ability and will probably appear hereafter in the collections of the Society.

At the July meeting Hon. Simeon E. Baldwin, of the New Haven County Historical Society, read an elaborate paper upon the "Two Constitutions of the Colony of Connecticut."

The first paper read after the resumption of the regular meetings in the fall was on October 8th. It was by P. H. Woodward, Esq., upon the "Life and Character of Col. Thomas Knowlton." Mr. Woodward afterwards, upon invitation, read the same paper to the New Haven County Historical Society.

At the November meeting the President read a paper entitled "Some Things that I Remember in Hartford Sixty Years Ago."

Professor Samuel Hart, of Trinity College, read a paper at the December meeting upon "The Convocation and College of Doctors of the Episcopal Church in Connecticut."

At the January meeting Jonathan F. Morris, Esq., read copious extracts from the diary of Col. Jeremiah Wadsworth while he was a commissary of the Revolutionary army.

The February meeting was interested in an elaborate paper by Miss Ellen D. Larned, the historian of Windham County. Her subject was "Spent Lights," or a review of the lives of several men once very prominent and very influential in public affairs in Eastern Connecticut, but now almost wholly forgotten.

Charles H. Clark, Esq., of the Hartford Courant, read a paper at the March meeting upon "Connecticut and her Constitution in 1818."

At the April meeting Jabez H. Hayden, Esq., of Windsor Locks, read a paper upon the "Beginnings of the Town of Windsor."

At the closing meeting of the Society for the season in May, Nathan Starkweather, Esq., presented a paper upon the public men of Connecticut and their term of office in former days.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE SOCIETY.

At the time of making the last report I hoped to be able to announce this year that the Talcott Papers, then in preparation, were published. The committee having the matter in charge have, however, been unable to complete their work. As it has progressed they have found it necessary to consult other American collections of papers, and even the English collections, and the work will not be completed for several months to come. It is more important that it should be accurately done than that it should be hurried.

DECEASED MEMBERS.

We have lost from the roll of our honorary members during the past year, Hon. George Bancroft, of Washington City, January 18, 1891, and from our corresponding members Rev. Dr. George Morgan Hills, of Burlington, N. J.

The deaths among our resident members have been: Leonard Holmes Bacon, August 3, 1890; Newton Case, September 14, 1890; John Perkins Cushing Mather, February 12, 1891; William Henry Gross, March 17, 1891; George Maxwell, April 2, 1891; and John Coddington Kinney, April 23, 1891.

LEONARD HOLMES BACON was a life member of the Society in consideration of his subscription to the building fund of the Wadsworth Atheneum in 1841. He was a son of Dr. Leonard Bacon, a prominent physician of this city, and was born in Hartford, September 17, 1817. During his early life he was active in public affairs in his native city, and from September 6, 1844, to March 10, 1847, was major of the Governor's Foot Guards. For many years he pursued medical studies in his father's office, and although he never took a medical degree he acquired such a useful education that when he emigrated to California in 1849 he practiced medicine there successfully in connection with his business enterprises. He returned to Hartford in 1866, with an ample fortune, but owing to impaired health he passed his winters in Florida and his summers on the seacoast, so that he was scarcely known to the present residents of the city. He was one of the early promoters of Cottage City, on Martha's Vineyard, where he passed his summers for many years, and where he died. His wife was a daughter of the late William W. Turner, principal of the American Asylum for the Deaf and Dumb. His only son, who survives him, is Dr. William T. Bacon of this city.

Newton Case was a native of Canton, in this State, where he was born March 12, 1807. He came to Hartford in 1828, and in 1830 entered into the copper-plate printing business. In January, 1833, he formed a partnership with the late E. D. Tiffany, and commenced the book-printing business. This business proving satisfactory, in 1838 they admitted Leander C. Burnham into the partnership, and purchased the large printing establishment of Philemon Canfield, and combined it with theirs under the firm name of Case, Tiffany & Burnham, and located it in the old county jail building on Pearl street, it being then abandoned for jail purposes. From this beginning grew the large corporation of The Case, Lockwood & Brainard Company, with which Mr. Case was connected to the day of his death. He was largely interested in most of the corporations of the city, and in many large enterprises South and West. He will be longest remembered in Hartford by his princely contributions to the Hartford Theological Seminary. The new library building connected with this seminary, called the "Newton Case Library," is wholly a gift from him, and he gave largely to the fund for the purchase of books to fill it. By his will the seminary receives a munificent bequest, and will finally get the bulk of the large estate that he left.

Mr. Case was not active or prominent in the affairs of our Society, but he was always interested in its welfare, and early qualified himself to become a life member.

NEWTON CASE was a native of Canton, in this State, where he was born March 12, 1807. He came to Hartford in 1828, and in 1830 entered into the copper-plate printing business. JOHN PERKINS CUSHING MATHER, vice-president of this Society from May 24, 1850, till his death, was a native of New London, where he was born on the 23d day of September, 1816. He was the only child of Capt. Andrew Mather of New London, and Mary Wetmore Mather, a native of Middletown. On his father's side he was descended directly from the famous Richard Mather, and on his mother's side he traced his lineage back to Christopher Christophers, a Barbadoes merchant who settled in New London in 1665. His father commanded the United States revenue cutter stationed at New London for many years.

Young Mather was prepared for Yale College at the "Union School," New London, then presided over by James W. McLane, the successor in office of Nathan Hale, its first instructor. He graduated in 1837, in the famous class which included Samuel J. Tilden, Morrison R. Waite, W. M. Evarts, Edwards Pierrepont, Benjamin Silliman, and other distinguished men. Returning to his native town he entered the law office of Hon. Lyman Law and was admitted to the bar in 1839. He was mayor of New London from 1845 to 1850; represented New London in the General Assembly in 1848; on the death of Hiram Weed, Secretary of State in 1850, was elected by the legislature to fill his place, and continued in that office by popular vote till 1854; from 1858 to 1861 was collector of customs of the port of New London; in 1878 and 1879, represented the old seventh district in the State Senate; for many years held the office of Judge of Probate for the district of New London, and from 1874 to 1886 was Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of New London County, when he retired on account of having reached the age of seventy years. Under the will of Leonard Bulkeley, he was appointed a member of the Board of Trustees of the Bulkeley School, a school for the instruction in the higher branches of the boys of New London, and chairman of the Board from its organization in 1852 to the day of his death. No citizen of New London was more prominently identified with this school or more deeply interested in its welfare than Judge Mather. He was one of the founders of the New London County Historical Society, and after the death of Hon. Lafayette S. Foster became its President.

For the last three years Judge Mather has perceptibly failed in health, but it was only for two or three weeks before his death that he was confined to his house by weakness. He left no family, and by his will the bulk of his property went to distant relatives, who were scarcely personally acquainted with him.

The habits of Judge Mather were quiet and studious. His temperament did not fit him for a leader in debate at the bar or in the legislature, but his clear, judicial mind, and great information on all practical subjects, joined to a uniformly courteous address, gave him a strong influence among his associates wherever he was placed. His opinions were carefully and conscientiously formed and tenaciously adhered to. He was a remarkably well read man, especially in history and politics, and had an iron memory for details. He was a safe and wise counsellor. It is rare to meet a man so thoroughly capable of explaining the history and effect of any particular public event or the character and career of our public men. He was especially well informed on all subjects relating to Connecticut. In his death this Society loses one of its most intelligent members, and the State a citizen who was faithful, useful, and respected in the many public positions he filled in her service.

William Henry Gross was born in Hartford, November 3, 1835. He entered a book store early in life, and in 1858, united with Flavius A. Brown in the firm of Brown & Gross, the oldest and best-known

WILLIAM HENRY GROSS was born in Hartford, November 5, 1835. He entered a book store early in life, and in 1855, united with Flavius A. Brown in the firm of Brown & Gross, the oldest and best-known bookstore in Hartford. Here he passed his life. The house published many valuable works, and had a large trade in standard books.

Mr. Gross had always an intelligent interest in historical affairs, but was only actively connected with this Society since 1888. He was a valued and useful member, and greatly respected by all who enjoyed his acquaintance.

George Maxwell was born in Heath, Mass., July 30, 1817, and lived in that town till he was seventeen years of age, working upon a farm, when he went to Greenfield, Mass., as a clerk in a store. In 1843 he came to Rockville in this State and remained there in business to the time of his death. He commenced manufacturing in a small way, and gradually grew to be one of the largest and most prosperous manufacturers in the State. He was largely interested in nearly every prominent business enterprise in his section of the State, and took a deep interest in all State associations and institutions that were approved by his judgment, such as the Hartford Theological Seminary, the Connecticut Temperance Union, the Connecticut Sons of the American Revolution, etc. He represented Vernon in the Legislature in 1871, and his district in the Senate in 1872.

Mr. Maxwell was eminently a strong and reliable man, whose counsels were freely sought in public and private affairs, and whose influence was always for whatever was good and of good report.

John Coddington Kinney was born in Nassau, N. Y., on the 21st day of February, 1839. The following year his father, Rev. E. D. Kinney, removed with his family to Darien in this State, where they have since resided. He was educated at Yale College, graduating in 1861, and passed directly into the army of the Union where he served till the close of the war in 1865. He was with the Thirteenth Connecticut Volunteers during their experience in Louisiana, and from there was transferred to the signal service and was with Farragut at the time of the battle in Mobile Bay. Returning from the war he took charge of the editorial department of the Waterbury American, and soon after connected himself with the Hartford Courant. He was U. S. Marshal for the district of Connecticut from 1882 to 1886, and in 1890 was appointed postmaster at Hartford, which office he held at the time of his death. He was also Major of the Governor's Foot Guard from 1882 until the close of his life.

Major Kinney was eminently social and enthusiastic in his support of all societies of a public nature. His name was connected with nearly every Army and Navy Society to which he was eligible, and with all that interested Yale College. He was one of the original organizers of the Connecticut Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. In whatever society he placed himself, he at once became a leader, and was looked up to as a reliable executive officer. His connection with this Society only dates from last November. In his report our Librarian speaks of his valuable donations to our library.

Librarian's Report.

The Librarian's report presents a gratifying account of the progress of that department of the Society. Our wants are clearly pointed out, and at no distant time, when all the improvements are completed that are now in progress in our building, a vigorous effort must be made to supply them. I commend the interesting facts which he reports, and his practical suggestions, to your attention.

Conclusion.

During the past year we have progressed in cataloguing our library so far as to have made a complete list of our collection of unbound newspapers. This is an important step in advance. It may not be advisable to attempt anything further in this direction until the radical alterations and additions in our building are completed which are now in progress. These changes may not be completed for a year and a half to come, or possibly more, and when completed may involve many changes in the arrangement of our collection which cannot now be foreseen.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN W. STEDMAN,

President.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

To the President and Members:

The annual reports of the Secretary and Librarian of a society such as ours cannot avoid a certain sameness from year to year, or present an entertaining variety, or touch on a new and wide range of topics. The work in our comparatively limited library field is always the same, yet changes with the infinite variety of the human mind and its wants. The man who to-day takes the answer to his question as a matter of course, or with pleasure and perhaps surprise, returns to-morrow with a harder problem and more sanguine expectation. Then, very likely he is disappointed at finding nothing on his subject. In answer to his question "Why don't the Society get that book, or periodical; it will be of the greatest value?" he is told, that there is no money to buy with; that additions come almost entirely by gift. Now, if he is wise and has understanding, he is grateful to all the givers, who have made our collection such a storehouse as it is, but desires, that full soon, the time will come when provision can be made for intelligently filling up the gaps.

Meanwhile, the gifts continue to come in, and during the past year have been many and valuable, though not so large in number as in 1889–90. One encouraging sign is found in the number of the members who have put something in the Society since the last annual meeting (27). There may be mentioned, Messrs. B. R.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

To the President and Members:

The annual reports of the Secretary and Librarian of a society such as ours cannot avoid a certain sameness from year to year,-or present an entertaining variety, or touch on a new and wide range of topics. The work in our comparatively limited library field is always the same, yet changes with the infinite variety of the human mind and its wants. The man who today takes the answer to his question as a matter of course, or with pleasure and perhaps surprise, returns to-morrow with a harder problem and more sanguine expectation. Then, very likely he is disappointed at finding nothing on his subject. In answer to his question "Why don't the Society get that book, or periodical: it will be of the greatest value?" he is told, that there is no money to buy with; that additions come almost entirely by gift. Now, if he is wise and has understanding, he is grateful to all the givers, who have made our collection such a storehouse as it is, but desires, that full soon, the time will come when provision can be made for intelligently filling up the gaps.

Meanwhile, the gifts continue to come in, and during the past year have been many and valuable, though not so large in number as in 1889-90. One encouraging sign is found in the number of the members who have put something in the Society since the last annual meeting (27). There may be mentioned, Messrs. B. R.

Allen, R. Battell, Miss L. A. Brainard, W. F. J. Boardman, C. W. Bowen, C. H. Clark, E. J. Cleveland, W. Cothren, H. T. Drowne, F. B. Gay, J. J. Goodwin, S. A. Green, C. J. Hoadly, A. S. Kellogg, Mrs. J. C. Kinney, H. E. Mather, F. Morgan, Mrs. A. H. Pitkin, G. W. Russell, W. C. Sharpe, J. Shepard, F. F. Starr, J. W. Stedman, J. Terry, G. L. Walker, R. C. Winthrop, and P. H. Woodward.

The total number of additions since the last report is 1,161, which may be divided as follows: 243 volumes, 896 pamphlets, and 22 miscellaneous articles. Of these, 1,087 were donations, consisting of 230 volumes, 825 pamphlets, and 22 other articles. By purchase and exchange there were obtained 13 volumes, 71 pamphlets.

Among our donors should first be mentioned the unknown friend who so modestly but faithfully remembers the Society each year with a subscription for a book fund. This year the gift ($200) was accompanied by the unwelcome assurance that nothing more could be expected for the future unless the Society takes steps to increase this, or make a permanent and much larger fund for the benefit of the library. Another notable giver is Mr. William F. J. Boardman of Hartford, who presented nearly 100 volumes and over 30 pamphlets. This is especially valuable as containing fifteen genealogies, many of them scarce and none of them in the library; while nearly all of the other books and pamphlets were written or printed in Connecticut, and Hartford. The late Mr. Junius Morgan's gift of Stevens' "Facsimiles of Manuscripts in European Archives relating to America," continues with great regularity, volumes 4–8 having been received. It is worthy of note that more than 115 documents by or in some way relating to Silas Deane, Esq., have already appeared in these "Facsimiles." The more this work

Another notable giver is Mr. William F. J. Boardman of Hartford, who presented nearly 100 volumes and over 50 pamphlets. This is especially valuable as containing fifteen genealogies, many of them scarce and none of them in the library; while nearly all of the other books and pamphlets were written or printed in Connecticut, and Hartford. The late Mr. Junius Morgan's gift of Stevens' "Facsimiles of Manuscripts in European Archives relating to America," continues with great regularity, volumes 4-8 having been received. It is worthy of note that more than 115 documents by or in some way relating to Silas Deane, Esq., have already appeared in these "Facsimiles." The more this work is examined the more wonderful it seems. If it were the undertaking of a great government, backed by all of the forces at its command, it would be considered a magnificent thing; as the effort of one man, an American, it is a stupendous monument to human knowledge, historical zeal, and self-denying labor and devotion. We, as an American Historical Society owe a debt to Mr. B. F. Stevens and to Mr. Morgan not to be measured by the money value of the work.

The late Major John C. Kinney desired that this Society should have certain of his books, pamphlets, and papers. Mrs. Kinney has sent to us the Proceedings of the General Society of the Cincinnati, 1784–1884, with papers, letters, etc., relating to the proposed re-establishment of the Cincinnati in this State, in 1888; also the official correspondence, documents, regimental reports, etc., relating to the "Buckingham Day" celebration in 1884; the regimental reports on "Battle-flag Day," 1879; letters and other documents relating to Connecticut's participation in the Centennial Celebration of the Constitution, Philadelphia, 1887, and many more on her part in the Centennial of Washington's Inauguration, New York, 1889. In addition there have been received some 50 or more books and pamphlets from the same source.

The Historical Societies, and many other institutions through the country have sent us their publications, while among the large individual givers may be mentioned Hon. C. C. Baldwin of Cleveland, Hon. Robbins Battell of Norfolk, William Cothren, E. Geer's Sons, Hon. S. A. Green of Boston, Forrest Morgan, Mrs. Stephen Terry, the Travelers Insurance Co., and the United States Government. The American Antiquarian Society of Worcester has sent two or more packages of books and pamphlets, many of them being Connecticut imprints and school books. The Rhode Island Historical Society is examined the more wonderful it seems. The American Antiquarian Society of Worcester has sent two or more packages of books and pamphlets, many of them being Connecticut imprints and school books. The Rhode Island Historical Society kindly completed our set of its proceedings. Letters and other manuscripts have been received from Mrs. J. C. Kinney, Mrs. C. C. B. Sexton, James A. Smith, A. B. Talcott, Mrs. John L. Talcott, and Frank B. Gay.

Among the books of special value to our readers, added during the year, are the following:

Davis's Ancient Landmarks of Plymouth; Facsimile of the Domesday Book, relating to Essex; Da Costa's Pre-Columbian Discovery of America (2d ed.); Paine's Ancient Woodstock records (scrap-book); Minnesota in the Civil and Indian Wars; Boston Record Commissioners' Reports; Bowen's Boundary Disputes of Connecticut; Butler's History of Farmington, Me.; Hanson's History of Gardiner, Me.; Taylor's History of Great Barrington, Mass.; Powers's History of Sangamon County, Ill., with genealogies; Young's History of Wayne County, Ind.; Williams's History of Danby, Vt.; Teller's History of Ridgefield, Conn.; Smith's History of Dutchess County, N. Y.; Starr's Sketch of New London; Hanson's Old Kent County, Md., with genealogies; Historical Catalogue of the Massachusetts Society of the Cincinnati; Portrait gallery and biographical sketches of the New York Chamber of Commerce, with others of as much interest. In the line of family history and genealogy: American Ancestry (5 vols.); Willett, Candee, Mallery, Newell, Norton, Bryan, Wadsworth, Pynchon, Cook, Catlin, Allyn, Backus, Goodwin, Plumb, North, Mather, Bird, Torrey, Thayer, Smith, Goodrich, Greenleaf, Jillson, Mowry, Bicknell, Dunster, Crosby, Herrick, Burleigh, Cutter, Hutchinson, Root, Whittier, Chapman, Lane.

The above-named books and many others have been entered in the "class list" in the Watkinson Library; no new lists, however, have been attempted. The ordinary correspondence of the Society has been kept up with, nearly. This feature of our work becomes more important and exacting each year. Genealogical and historical queries have come from nearly every state in the Union, and Canada, England, and France. The formation through the country of Societies of Sons of the American Revolution has stimulated interest in searching out pedigrees to a remarkable degree; and a surprising number of family lines seem to converge in Connecticut sires. As an instance, the Society received four letters in one day on this matter, all from New York city; while the calls for information in person are many and persistent. A new class of calls, and unexpectedly large, has resulted from our shelving of the directories of various cities, given us by E. Geer's Sons.

For a number of years the Society had stored in the Atheneum-street building a quantity of unbound and unassorted newspapers. Whether they were of much or little value no one seemed to know. In view of the expected removal of the old buildings, it was decided to have them arranged. This was done by outside assistance, during the summer and autumn, but the result is not all which could be wished. Although a great many papers of value and interest were found, the yearly series in very many cases are broken, while duplicates are numerous.

It is admitted by all, that newspapers are the one great source of printed material for the making of history. Also that the historical societies at the East are far behind those at the West in collecting this material. We should certainly keep files of the Connecticut papers; but it is not desirable to heap on our floors a mass of odd numbers of unrelated periodicals from every section of the Union, because they date back a generation or two. Many of these papers would be of value in other libraries, and an exchange might be made of mutual benefit. The most we can say regarding this work is, that we have at last over 600 packages tied and labeled, and a fairly complete list of their contents and of a considerable portion of the bound newspapers belonging to the library.

No other new work has been attempted by the librarian during the year, unless a number of evenings passed in reading proof and comparing originals with the printed matter of the forthcoming volume of the Talcott Papers, can be so called.

In closing, will you permit a suggestion or two as to needed work which may be done in the Society, or encouraged by it outside. We should be represented at and take a part in all local commemorative or historical celebrations, and at as many outside the State as possible. We should show a live interest in all the changes taking place in Hartford, to commend or condemn. A necessary thing to do, and a valuable addition to make, would be photographs of the old buildings and streets of the city. To those of us who have visited the Bostonian Society, perhaps the most remarkable part of its collection are the hundreds of views of Boston, especially the Boston which has disappeared by fire, change, or progress. Surely some of our members can do this work for Hartford.

The coins and medals, now scattered through various cases, should be brought together and catalogued or labeled. The Society has members competent for this also.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

FRANK B. GAY,

Librarian.

In closing, will you permit a suggestion or two as to needed work which may be done in the Society, or encouraged by it outside. We should be represented at and take a part in all local commemorative or historical celebrations, and at as many outside the State as possible. We should show a live interest in all the changes taking place in Hartford, to commend or condemn. A necessary thing to do, and a valuable addition to make, would be photographs of the old buildings and streets of the city. To those of us who have visited the Bostonian Society, perhaps the most remarkable part of its collection are the hundreds of views of Boston, especially the Boston which has disappeared by fire, change, or progress. Surely some of our members can do this work for Hartford.

The coins and medals, now scattered through various cases, should be brought together and catalogued or labeled. The Society has members competent for this also.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

FRANK R. GAY,
Librarian.

By-Laws of the Society.

[In force, July, 1892.]

I. MEMBERS.

1. The Society shall consist of Resident, Corresponding, and Honorary Members.

Resident members shall be persons residing in the State of Connecticut; and no others shall be entitled to vote in any meeting of the Society.

Honorary and corresponding members shall be persons residing out of the State of Connecticut, and shall not be subject to any admission fee or tax.

Honorary members shall be persons who may have rendered important public service to the State of Connecticut, or to the cause of historic inquiry, or literature generally.

2. No person shall be voted for as an honorary, corresponding, or resident member, until at least one month after his nomination by the Committee on Membership; and every such vote shall be taken by ballot, at a regular meeting, at which not less than ten members are present.

3. Every nomination for the election of honorary or corresponding members shall be based on the application, in writing, of two resident members, stating the reasons for such nomination, and the qualifications of the persons proposed for membership.

4. Whenever a vote shall be taken on the admission of a member, and there shall be found two ballots against his admission, the presiding officer shall declare the election postponed. At the next regular meeting, if the recommendation of the committee shall be renewed, he may be admitted by the votes of two-thirds the members present.

5. Resident members shall pay, on admission, three dollars, and two dollars every subsequent year, if they reside within, and one dollar if they reside without, the limits of the town of Hartford; or, in lieu thereof, any person entitled to be a member may constitute himself a life member by paying at one time the sum of twenty-five dollars.

6. Should any person elected as a resident member omit to signify his acceptance of such election within one month after receiving notice thereof, and to pay the admission fee, he shall forfeit the privilege of becoming a member. The payment of the annual assessment shall hereafter constitute a condition of continued membership, and the neglect or refusal to pay the same for the period of six months after the annual meeting of the Society shall be deemed a withdrawal from the Society.

7. A copy of the by-laws shall be presented, within one month after the adoption of this by-law, by the Recording Secretary, to every resident member, to be signed and returned to the Secretary; and members who shall subscribe the same shall thereafter be considered as accepting the provision respecting the annual assessment and the conditions of membership.

II. OFFICERS.

1. The Officers of the Society, to be elected at the annual meeting by ballot, and to hold their offices for one year and until others shall be chosen, shall be — a President, not exceeding eight Vice-Presidents, a Recording Secretary, a Corresponding Secretary, a Treasurer, a Committee on Membership, to consist of seven members; Committees on the Library, and on Publication, each to consist of three members.

The preceding officers and the chairman of the several committees shall constitute the Standing Committee of the Society.

A Librarian and Cabinet Keeper shall be appointed, on the nomination of the Standing Committee, whenever such appointment shall be deemed advisable.

2. The President shall be, ex officio, chairman of the Standing Committee; shall preside at all meetings of the Society and Standing Committee; call, by himself or Secretary, all meetings of the Society, and deliver or provide for an address at the annual meeting.

3. The Recording Secretary shall have custody of the files, records, and seal of the Society; shall give notice to new members of their election, and furnish them certificates of membership; keep an accurate journal of the transactions of the Society and Standing Committee; and, when directed by the proper officer, call meetings of the same.

4. The Corresponding Secretary shall conduct the correspondence, in behalf of the Society.

5. The Treasurer shall receive the admission fees, and report the names of the persons paying the same to the Recording Secretary; and shall also receive all other moneys due, and all donations or bequests of money made to the Society; shall pay, to the order of the chairman of the Standing Committee, such sums as may be required for the ordinary expenses of the Society and such as the Society may otherwise direct to be paid; shall keep a true and faithful account of all moneys received and paid by him, and of the property and debts of the Society; and shall, at the annual meeting, render a particular statement, to be examined and after constitute a condition of continued membership, and the neglect or refusal to pay the same for the period of six months after the annual meeting of the Society shall be deemed a withdrawal from the Society.

2. The President shall be, ex officio, chairman of the Standing Committee; shall preside at all meetings of the Society and Standing Committee; call, by himself or Secretary, all meetings of the Society, and deliver or provide for an address at the annual meeting.

3. The Recording Secretary shall have custody of the files, records, and seal of the Society; shall give notice to new members of their election, and furnish them certificates of membership; keep an accurate journal of the transactions of the Society and Standing Committee; and, when directed by the proper officer, call meetings of the same.

audited by a committee who shall be appointed at such annual meeting for that purpose.

6. The Librarian, under the direction of the Library Committee, shall arrange and have charge of all books, pamphlets, manuscripts, and other articles deposited in the rooms of the Society; and shall, before every annual meeting of the Society, make a full report to the Library Committee of his doings as Librarian during the past year, and of the condition of the Library.

7. To the Committee on Membership shall be referred all the propositions for the admission of members. No nomination for membership shall be considered or acted upon by the Committee during a regular meeting of the Society.

8. The Committee on the Library shall, before each annual meeting, make a careful examination of the books and other articles deposited in the rooms of the Society, and shall report thereon to the Standing Committee, including in such report the annual report of the Librarian. They may make purchases for the Library, under the direction of the Society, within the income of the Library fund, or to such an amount as may be appropriated by a vote of the Society for such purpose.

9. The Publication Committee shall have the superintendence of all publications ordered by the Society. They shall, from time to time, report to the Society respecting the selection and arrangement of such papers, from the library of the Society or other sources, as are most suitable for publication in volumes of the Society's Collections.

10. The Standing Committee shall act generally in behalf of the Society, fill all vacancies in any offices until the next regular meeting of the Society, and make an annual report to the Society. Any three members of this Committee may constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and a notice for a meeting of the Society shall be deemed a notice for the meeting of this Committee.

2. A regular meeting shall be held on the first Tuesday evening of each month, unless suspended by a vote of the Society.

3, Special meetings shall be called by the President, or, in his absence, by the Recording Secretary, on the application of three members.

4. Previous notice of any meeting of the Society shall be given in one or more public prints. And at any meeting, duly called and notified, seven members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, audited by a committee who shall be appointed at such annual meeting for that purpose.

2. No donation shall be exchanged or disposed of unless the Society have a duplicate of the same.

3. All deposits left with the society shall be carefully preserved, and may at any time be taken by the depositor, in person, or delivered on his written order. But every deposit which shall not be so reclaimed or withdrawn shall, after the decease of the depositor, be entered as a donation, and become the property of the Society; unless, at the time of making the deposit, other conditions shall be prescribed by the depositor.

V. LIBRARY.

1. The Rooms, with all books, manuscripts, pictures, and articles belonging to or deposited with the Society, shall be under the immediate charge of the Librarian, acting under the direction of the Library Committee.

2. The Library shall be opened for the inspection of the public, and the examination of books and manuscripts, and transcription therefrom, at such time, and on such conditions, as shall be prescribed by the Library Committee; and no book or manuscript shall be taken from the room, without a special vote of the Society, except by the Committee on Publication.

VI. PUBLICATION FUND.

The legacy left to the Society by the late President, the Hon. Thomas Day, the avails of all life memberships, and all special donations and subscriptions which may be made thereto, shall constitute a Publication Fund — the income of which shall be applied, under the direction of the Publication Committee, toward the expense of such publications as may be ordered by the Society.

VII. ALTERATIONS.

Any alterations of these by-laws shall be submitted to a regular meeting, held prior to that on which the vote on the same is taken.

VII. ALTERATIONS.

Any alterations of these by-laws shall be submitted to a regular meeting, held prior to that on which the vote on the same is taken.

Annual Address.

IT is gratifying to report an unabated public interest in the prosperity of this Society. The attendance at our regular monthly meetings has been the largest in our history. As the great additions and improvements in the Atheneum Building, to be occupied by this and our associate societies, approach completion, it is more clearly seen what greatly increased possibilities for usefulness open up for them all.

MEMBERSHIP.

The membership of the Society now numbers 282. Resident members, 207; life members, 42; honorary members, 9; corresponding members, 24; an increase for the year of 29, all in resident members.

Those who have qualified as life members during the year are, Henry Roberts and William G. Boardman.

ANNUAL FIELD DAY.

The Annual Field Day of the Society was held in Lebanon on the 15th day of June, 1891, in connection with the Connecticut Society of Sons of the American Revolution, who on that day celebrated the restoration of the old War Office of Governor Jonathan Trumbull. It was the anniversary of the proclamation of our National Flag by Congress in 1777, which has been adopted as Flag Day by the patriotic societies of the country, and placed upon the calendar for annual observance hereafter forever.

The Connecticut Society of Sons of the American Revolution received the old building as a gift from Mrs. Bethiah H. Wattles, and restored it, as far as possible, to its original condition, so that now it appears as durable as when it was built, one hundred and sixty years ago. The celebration of its restoration was earnestly participated in by the citizens of Lebanon, who made bountiful provision for the entertainment of the thousands present. The day was really a notable one in the history of Connecticut. Addresses were delivered by Senator Joseph R. Hawley, Jonathan Trumbull, Rev. Leonard W. Bacon, Congressman Charles A. Russell, Jonathan F. Morris, and Rev. Dr. Samuel G. Buckingham, a brother of our War Governor.

This Society was represented by a large number of its members on this interesting occasion.

MONTHLY ESSAYS AND PAPERS.

The papers read before the Society the past year were of exceptional, and some of them of very great, ability.

The first paper read before the Society, after the last annual meeting, was by Hon. T. S. Gold of West Cornwall, on Tuesday, June 2, 1891. His subject was the Foreign Mission School established in Cornwall in 1816. The school was broken up in 1828, because of two marriages of the pupils — one a Cherokee Indian, and the other a Sandwich Islander — with two young ladies of the highest social standing in Litchfield County. The lecture forcibly illustrated the state of public opinion in Connecticut at that time, even among the highly educated and religious classes, in regard to the social standing of those who were considered as belonging to the inferior races of men.

President Jonathan Trumbull, of the Connecticut Society of Sons of the American Revolution, read a paper before the Society on the 15th day of September last, giving a minute history of the old Gov. Trumbull War Office in Lebanon, and what was found in it. This valuable paper was afterwards published as the preface to the report of the celebration in Lebanon on the 15th of June, heretofore spoken of.

At the October meeting of the Society, held on the 6th, Rev. Joseph H. Twichell read a paper on "The Five Assaults on the Charter of the Massachusetts Bay Colony," being a foretaste of his notable work, soon after published, on the life of John Winthrop.

Prof. Williston Walker read a paper before the Society on the 3d of November last, on "The Half Way Covenant system of Church Membership," tracing the fierce controversy on the subject in New England from its origin in 1634 up to the beginning of the present century, when it practically died out.

On Tuesday, December 1st, Prof. Simeon E. Baldwin of New Haven read a thorough and exhaustive paper before the Society on "Our Present State Constitution and its Amendments."

Julius Gay of Farmington read a paper before the Society on January 5, 1892, on "Schools and Schoolmasters of the Olden Time," especially as they were known in the old town of Farmington.

At the regular meeting of the Society on the 2d of February last, Miss Ellen D. Larned of Thompson read a scholarly paper entitled "A Revolutionary Review."

Prof. Henry Ferguson of Trinity College, at the meeting of the Society March 1, presented an original and highly interesting study of "Sir Edmund Andros."

At the regular meeting of the Society on the 5th of April, State Librarian Dr. Hoadly read a paper on the "Warwick Patent," correcting the errors on that and other kindred subjects, by Johnston and other historians.

The concluding paper of the season was read on the evening of May 3d, by Rev. Dr. George H. Clark. It was a vigorous and conclusive defense of the character of Oliver Cromwell, as misrepresented by Hume and other English and American writers. He praised Carlyle as the first great writer, who had the ear of the world, to do justice to Cromwell. It is understood that Dr. Clark, who has given years of study to this subject, will soon publish the result of his studies.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE SOCIETY.

The first volume of the Talcott Papers was issued from the press to-day. It is in every respect a superb volume. It is safe to say that few volumes from the American press have ever surpassed this in beauty of typographical execution. The editor, Miss Mary K. Talcott, has had a much more laborious work to perform than was anticipated, and does not promise the concluding volume for some months to come. In the meantime it is proposed to publish a volume of the papers which have been read before the Society, or which are among its collections.

DECEASED MEMBERS.

Lyman Copeland Draper, LL.D., of Madison, Wis., an honorary member of this society, died on the 26th day of August, 1891. His labors in behalf of the Wisconsin Historical Society cover a period of over thirty-eight years.

The deaths among our resident members since our last report, have been: Erastus James Bassett, July 26, 1891; Henry Bill, August 14, 1891; Albert Palmer Pitkin, February 21, 1892; Noah Porter, March 4, 1892; and Thomas Glastonbury Welles, March 19, 1892.

Erastus James Bassett died at his residence in Hartford, on the 26th day of July, 1891. He was born in

DECEASED MEMBERS.

LYMAN COPELAND DRAPER, LL.D., of Madison, Wis., an honorary member of this society, died on the 26th day of August, 1891. His labors in behalf of the Wisconsin Historical Society cover a period of over thirty-eight years.

The deaths among our resident members since our last report, have been: Erastus James Bassett, July 26, 1891; Henry Bill, August 14, 1891; Albert Palmer Pitkin, February 21, 1892; Noah Porter, March 4, 1892; and Thomas Glastonbury Welles, March 19, 1892.

ERASTUS JAMES BASSETT died at his residence in Hartford, on the 26th day of July, 1891. He was born in Stockbridge, Mass., on the 27th day of March, 1820. For the last thirty years of his life he was connected with the Ætna Fire Insurance Company of this city, as an agent and adjuster of losses, and in that capacity was the best known man in the United States. He visited every part of the country many times, and was, therefore, well informed in regard to the country and our public men.

Mr. Bassett was a respected member of this Society, and deeply interested in its prosperity. He was a true man in every relation of life, frank and free in the expression of his opinions, of clear judgment, and reliable and relied upon by all who enjoyed his acquaintance.

Henry Bill of Norwich was born in the north parish of Groton, now the town of Ledyard, Conn., May 18, 1824. After suffering with disease for many years he died at his summer cottage in Groton on the 14th day of August, 1891.

Mr. Bill's early experience was that of every hard-worked farmer's boy in Connecticut. He attended school only in the winter months till he reached the age of fifteen years. Then to the age of twenty he alternately taught school in the towns of Preston, Plainfield, and Groton, and assisted his father in farming. From this time for three years he traveled through the Western States as a book agent for his kinsman, James A. Bill of Lyme. Returning to Connecticut in 1847, he located in the city of Norwich and established the book publishing business on his own account, which he followed with great success for about twenty-five years. Failing health then obliged him to turn his business into a joint stock corporation and retire from all active pursuits except the care of his estate.

Mr. Bill's interest in public affairs was always warm and positive. In 1853 he was elected to represent the 8th senatorial district in the State Senate as a democrat, being the youngest member of that body. In 1856 he warmly espoused the free soil cause, and from that time through his life was a supporter of the republican party. He was a presidential elector on the Grant ticket in 1868, and with this exception never held any public office except as before stated. He was one of the strong men upon whom Governor Buckingham relied during the civil war for advice and assistance, and at its close interested himself in the welfare and education of the colored people of the South, giving largely of his time and means in this direction.

Soon after war he donated to the Congregational Society of his native town his family homestead for a parsonage, and in connection with this founded a free public library, which was kept in the church. In his last will and testament he provided for a separate building for the library, which has since been built. From early life he was a member of the Congregational Church, and was connected with the Broadway Church in Norwich during his residence in that city. He was emphatically a self-made man, tenacious of purpose and strong to execute what he had planned, and has left a lasting impress for good upon the community where he passed the active period of his life.

Albert Palmer Pitkin was born on the 27th day of February, 1829, in East Hartford, in the old Pitkin homestead, on the land granted by the Indians in 1684 to his ancestor, William Pitkin. He died at his residence in this city on the 21st day of February, 1892.

Mr. Pitkin's business through life was that of a boiler and steam-heating apparatus manufacturer, in which department of industry he had a wide and enviable reputation. In the midst of a busy life he found leisure to pur-

and positive. In 1853 he was elected to represent the 8th senatorial district in the State Senate as a democrat, being the youngest member of that body. sue historical and genealogical inquiries. In 1887 he published a genealogy of the Pitkin family, a work of great research, which procured for him recognition from the learned societies of this country and England. He was a director of the Farmers and Mechanics Bank of this city for over forty years, and was for many years a member of the city government. He was also a member of the First Congregational Church and of many charitable organizations. He was warm-hearted and friendly, and always stood very high in the community as a just and upright man.

NOAH PORTER, ex-president of Yale College, died at his residence in New Haven on the morning of the 4th of March, 1892. He was born in Farmington, Conn., on the 14th day of December, 1811, a descendant of Robert Porter, one of the original proprietors of Farmington. His father was pastor of the church in Farmington for nearly sixty years.

Dr. Porter graduated at Yale College in 1831, and for two years was rector of the Hopkins Grammar School in New Haven, and was a tutor in the college for two years following, when he was ordained the pastor of the Congregational Church in New Milford. He was afterwards a settled pastor in Springfield, Mass., for three years, when he returned to Yale in 1846 as professor of metaphysical and moral philosophy. Here he remained for forty years. In 1871 he succeeded Dr. Woolsey as president of the college. This position he resigned in 1886. From that time he was engaged in authorship. No great question attracted public attention that did not receive his attention in our standard reviews or in a more permanent form of literature. He was also selected to revise and perfect the latest edition of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary. His writings place him among the commanding intellects of his age. Although far removed personally from all contact with those who dispense government patronage, he was at one time offered the position of minister to England, which he declined. If he had any ambition it was to be a power behind the throne, which he was, and continued to be to the last.

THOMAS GLASTONBURY WELLES, son of that eminent son of Connecticut, Gideon Welles, died in Concord, New Hampshire, on Saturday, March 19, 1892. He went to Concord three days before to visit his son, who was there at school and sick (he died a few days afterwards), and on the way contracted a cold which ended suddenly in pneumonia and death. He was born in Glastonbury on the 4th day of June, 1846. His parents removed to Hartford when he was very young, and he was educated in the Hartford public schools. In 1862 he entered the Naval Academy at Annapolis, but soon after volunteered in the military service, and from lieutenant in Co. F, 1st Conn. regiment, was promoted to captain, and served afterwards as aid to Gens. McCook, Grant, and Ord, and was brevetted lieutenant-colonel for bravery on the field in the military operations before Richmond.

After the close of the war he accompanied Admiral Farragut in the Franklin on his celebrated European cruise. Returning home, he married and took up his residence in Hartford, where he remained during his life. He was a very intelligent man and had a warm interest in the affairs of this Society. He gave liberally to the fund which was raised to carry forward the improvements which are now going on in the Atheneum Building.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

The report of our Librarian is a very thorough and interesting paper. It presents that department of our

If he had any ambition it was to be a power behind the throne, which he was, and continued to be to the last.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

The report of our Librarian is a very thorough and interesting paper. It presents that department of our Society in a manner that will attract your attention, and that will meet the approval of us all. We cannot be too grateful to our friends to whom he refers, who seem to keep us in constant remembrance.

Report of the Librarian.

Mr. President and Members of the Society:

In presenting this, my 9th annual report as Secretary and Librarian, I do so with feelings of pleasure and of regret, but hardly of satisfaction. The regret is largely sentimental, while the pleasure is very real. According to the inscription on the front of the Wadsworth Athenæum, fifty years have passed since, in 1842, a home for this Society was therein established. This year, 1892, marks our re-establishment, not only in the rooms provided for by the deed of trust made by the late Daniel Wadsworth, but in the conveniently accessible room lately occupied by the Watkinson Library. This will give us, in addition to this hall and the two rooms under it, a large, well-lighted, handsomely shelved library hall—perhaps as pleasant as that of any similar society in the whole country.

To make ready for the occupancy and entire rearrangement of our rooms, the old order of things had to be broken up. Your Library Committee, with the President and one or two others of the membership, have held several meetings for the devising of plans for the new order.

The Chairman of the committee, Rev. W. DeLoss Love, has found time even in the midst of the demands of a busy city pastor's life, to take charge of the general overhauling, and too much praise can hardly be given him for the care, oversight, and personal labor he has given to the moving and packing away of the manuscripts, books, papers, and other articles of our library and museum.

At the April meeting the Library Committee was given power to employ assistants, to shelve certain of our books in the new rooms of the Watkinson Library, and generally to make any other changes from the former ways. By permission of the Watkinson Library, the manuscripts and some other valuables were temporarily placed in its vaults, and one of our members, Mr. Albert C. Bates, has been employed to arrange and make a list of them. Mr. Bates has some exceptional qualities which fit him for this work, and the Society was fortunate in securing him. Mrs. C. K. Hull, the custodian, has made extensive lists of articles in the cases and museum, and these lists should be very useful in arranging the collection.

With all the means for gratulation — and there have never been more in any year of the Society's history — the evident and pressing need of more funds, a trained assistant, more interest and work from among the members, is very apparent. The work to be done before we can properly and adequately fulfill our duty to the State, is certainly far beyond the calculations made in advance by your committee, and cannot be appreciated by those whose only service is attendance on the monthly meetings. The librarian and individual members of the committee earnestly desire your interest and coöperation.

A cardinal principle of success in any field of effort is to be able to anticipate a demand, and then to supply it in the most economical and satisfactory way. Owing to cramped quarters, lack of funds and competent assistance, this library has not entirely succeeded in its public functions. Although rich in manuscript collections, it has been impossible to consult them. With the cases, shelves, drawers, boxes, and cupboards fairly bursting with their contents of books, pamphlets, and papers, without a classified arrangement or catalogue, a large part of the library has been practically useless. It is confidently hoped that after the repairs are completed, and the library is shelved in its new quarters, many of these objections will rapidly disappear.

A cardinal principle of success in any field of effort is to be able to anticipate a demand, and then to supply it in the most economical and satisfactory way. Owing to cramped quarters, lack of funds and competent assistance, this library has not

The donations of the past year have been many and valuable, though not equal in number to those of last year. It is not easy to express to our thoughtful friends, our sense of obligation for their kind remembrance and gifts. The formal thanks of the Society returned to each donor, are hardly an echo of the words which would be said by the Library Committee, and all of the numerous users of our collection. However, the donors may justly feel that it is not alone by the readers of to-day that they are heartily thanked, but by those unnumbered ones of later generations. The total number of additions since the last report is 879, which may be divided as follows: 245 volumes, 533 pamphlets, and 101 miscellaneous articles. Of these, 855 were donations, consisting of 230 volumes, 524 pamphlets, and 101 other articles. By purchase and exchange there were obtained 15 volumes and 9 pamphlets.

Twenty-five members of the Society have put something in our library during the year, viz.: B. R. Allen, W. F. J. Boardman, C. W. Bowen, Robbins Battell, E. J. Cleveland, William Cothren, J. S. Davenport, E. Geer, F. B. Gay, S. A. Green, C. J. Hoadly, H. P. Hitchcock, Samuel Hart, A. S. Kellogg, W. DeL. Love, the late J. S. Morgan, Forrest Morgan, E. P. Parker, F. F. Starr, J. A. Smith, J. H. Treat, Jonathan Trumbull, Miss Mary K. Talcott, G. L. Walker, C. T. Wells.

Mr. W. F. J. Boardman, who lets scarcely a month pass without giving the library something, has presented 69 volumes and 226 pamphlets. Not content with picking up Hartford and Connecticut imprints for us, he very thoughtfully sent a sum of money to Mr. Frank F. Starr, while the latter was in England last summer, to be expended for the library. Volumes I.–IV., 2d series, of the East Anglian are among the books purchased from this gift. The scarce first series of the magazine is in the associated Watkinson Library, and the set is of great value to American genealogists who are working among the families from the "home counties" in the south of England. Among Mr. Boardman's other gifts were a nice copy of A. G. Greene's "Recollections of the Jersey Prison Ship," genealogies of the Rollins, Abbot, Munroe, Nelson, Makepeace, and Bisbee families, with a large number of New England local histories.

Mr. Junius S. Morgan, though dead, is constantly brought to mind by the receipt of Stevens's "Fac-similes of Documents Relating to American History, in Foreign Archives." Four more volumes have been added to this noble example of human industry and historic zeal.

Mr. Robbins Battell has presented a large number of pamphlets and volumes, while Rev. W. DeLoss Love, Mr. Starr, and Dr. Hoadly have made large additions to our collections of fast and thanksgiving proclamations.

Mr. Frank F. Starr brought from London the following important gifts: "Census of Great Britain, 1831, including the Parish Register Abstract"; "Probate of Wills, Great Britain, 1829"; Marshall's "Handbook to the Ancient Courts of Probate" (50 copies only printed); Wright's "Court-Hand Restored," 9th edition, 1879; Marshall's "Genealogist's Guide," 2d edition, 1885, and Waters's "Parish Registers in England," 2d edition, 1887. To those interested, it would be hard to overestimate the value of these volumes. Mr. Starr is a practical genealogist, who knows the necessities for work in the English field, and the service done him by these helps he kindly opens to all others.

A library such as this occupies a very distinct place in the community, and its field of usefulness extends far beyond merely local bounds.

Its use is well defined from the outset, its service to the public can be foretold, its calls provided for, and the reasonable wants of its readers easily supplied. It is, of course, a commonplace that it aims to satisfy a definite demand, which demand does not follow a sudden literary craze, neither is it the unintellectual whim fostered by a society "fad." In some respects this would seem to give it considerable advantages over the public library for general readers, by the narrowing of its lines of purchase and administration. However true this may be, there is another side; the individuality of the reader is much more pronounced, and his wishes imperious. Any one of a dozen books may satisfy the visitor at the circulating library, while there is but one in all the world for our reader.

A library must have a book fund if it is to develop in a well-rounded way. Never before has the Society needed one so much, or had so good an opportunity for its use.

While waiting for the fund may we remind again the friends of the Society that contributions of biographical, historical, and genealogical pamphlets and books, are desired, and especially family letters, diaries, interleaved almanacs, copies of wills, deeds, distributions of property, records from the family Bible, and any thing which can throw even the smallest light on past local history, or the dead worthies of our State. The Society has large and absolutely safe fire-proof vaults for the proper keeping of such valuable material. It is hardly necessary to say, that no improper use will be made of family papers, and the giver's wishes will be carefully respected.

3. Every nomination for the election of honorary or corresponding members shall be based on the application, in writing, of two resident members, stating the reasons for such nomination, and the qualifications of the persons proposed for membership.

At the next regular meeting, if the recommendation of the committee shall be renewed, he may be admitted by the votes of two-thirds the members present.

5. Resident members shall pay, on admission, three dollars, and two dollars every subsequent year, if they reside within, and one dollar if they reside without, the limits of the town of Hartford; or, in lieu thereof, any person entitled to be a member may constitute himself a life member by paying at one time the sum of twenty-five dollars.

6. Should any person elected as a resident member omit to signify his acceptance of such election within one month after receiving notice thereof, and to pay the admission fee, he shall forfeit the privilege of becoming a member. The payment of the annual assessment shall hereafter constitute a condition of continued membership, and the neglect or refusal to pay the same for the period of six months after the annual meeting of the Society shall be deemed a withdrawal from the Society.

7. A copy of the by-laws shall be presented, within one month after the adoption of this by-law, by the Recording Secretary, to every resident member, to be signed and returned to the Secretary; and members who shall subscribe the same shall thereafter be considered as accepting the provision respecting the annual assessment and the conditions of membership.

Annual Address.

THE past year has been one of great change and improvement in the condition and affairs of this Society. All the plans for the enlargement and reconstruction of the Athenæum Building have been completed, and the result to this Society has been the addition to the room occupied by us of the large and perfectly equipped room for library purposes formerly occupied by the Watkinson Library, and the construction of ample fire-proof vaults for the preservation of our most valuable treasures. This gives us a distinct library room large enough for the accommodation of all our books for a long period to come, and leaves us our spacious front hall free for the display of our paintings, engravings, and our collection of historical relics and curiosities of every description.

These changes have involved a great amount of labor and considerable expense. The labor has been performed by and under the direction of our Library Committee, whose voluntary services in this respect have been priceless. Our gratitude is especially due to Rev. W. DeL. Love, the chairman of that committee, to whom we are indebted for the arrangement and display of our collection in the large hall, and the general classification of our books and manuscripts. The expense has been borne by a generous subscription of the members of the Society.

MEMBERSHIP.

The Society now numbers 287 members, an increase during the past year of 16. Resident members, 211; life members, 46; honorary members, 7; corresponding members, 23. The increase in membership has been entirely in resident members.

ANNUAL FIELD DAY.

The Field Day of the Society for 1892 was passed in the old town of Salem, Mass. Leaving Hartford on Wednesday, June 15th, and resting over night in Boston, the party, forty-two in number, reached Salem at 9:30 the morning of Thursday. Here they were taken in charge by a committee of the Essex Institute, and escorted through the town, visiting all the principal spots of historic interest, which were fully explained by the committee. Returning to the rooms of the Institute at Plummer Hall, the company were welcomed by Mayor Rantoul and the officers of the Institute, and then partook of a substantial banquet, which was concluded by speeches by members of the Institute and of this Society. The party reached home on Thursday evening. A more interesting, instructive, and completely enjoyable day in every respect never characterized a Field Day of this Society.

The members of the Society expressed their appreciation of their visit to Salem in the following resolutions, prepared by a committee consisting of J. F. Morris, Dr. H. P. Stearns, P. H. Woodward, B. R. Allen, and C. B. Whiting, signed by them and by the President and Secretary of the Society, suitably engrossed and framed, and personally presented in Salem by Mr. Woodward of the committee:

Resolved, That the thanks of this Society be given to the ladies and gentlemen of the Essex Institute of Salem for the generous reception extended to the members of this Society on the occasion of their visit to that historic spot on the 16th instant, and especially for the great pains which they took in showing to us the various sites and relics of interest.

That we congratulate the people of Salem on the prevalence and depth of the sentiment which has preserved so much that illustrates the life of former times, and especially of the earliest days of the English settlement.

That our thanks are especially due to those whose attentions made our visit a source of continuous pleasure and instruction, and more especially to the officers and ladies of the Essex Institute and their assistants for the elaborate and generous banquet prepared for us in Plummer Hall, and the hearty words of welcome spoken by Professor Edward S. Morse, the chairman of the Committee of Reception, and by His Honor Mayor Robert S. Rantoul.

And we assure our Salem friends that we returned from our visit conscious that the experiences of the day, besides adding to our knowledge, had keenly stimulated our historic zeal, and we trust that we shall have the pleasure hereafter of welcoming to Hartford the Essex Institute, and of thus renewing and extending an acquaintance so delightfully begun.

MONTHLY ESSAYS AND PAPERS.

The first of the monthly papers for the year was read by Dr. R. W. Griswold, October 5, 1892. His subject was "Old Days at Rocky Hill." It is understood that Dr. Griswold has spent a great deal of time and labor upon this subject, and has an elaborate history of the town ready for publication. The book will be a valuable contribution to Connecticut local history.

The next paper, November 5, 1892, was read by Forrest Morgan, Esq. His subject was "The Dorr Rebellion in Rhode Island." The causes, conduct, conclusion, and lessons of that affair were very fully and lucidly presented.

December 5, 1892, Judge Sherman W. Adams read a paper on "The Settlement of Naubuc and Nayaug." It was in line with the paper of Dr. Griswold read in October.

"The Puritan and the Pilgrim" was the title of a paper read by John L. Denison, Esq., on the 3d of January, 1893, in which a comparison of the two was very clearly drawn.

Up to this time all the meetings of the year were held at the Board of Trade rooms, which were courteously tendered us free of expense.

The first meeting in the renovated and reconstructed hall of the Society was on February 7, 1893. This meeting was greatly interested in a paper by the chairman of the Library Committee, Rev. Mr. Love, in which he gave a full account of the treasures of the Society as he had brought them to light in removing and rearranging them during the past winter.

At the regular meetings of the Society on the 7th of March and the 3d of April, 1893, Henry T. Blake, Esq., of New Haven, read his first and concluding paper on "Connecticut's East India Company, or the Story of Wyoming." This review of this interesting period of our history was masterly, and it is to be hoped that the author may publish the result of his studies for the benefit of the public.

At the meeting of the Society on the 2d of May, Hon. James G. Batterson gave a very interesting paper upon the theme of looking backward, in order that we may wisely look forward. He referred to leading historical and geological subjects, closing with brief personal reminiscences of the poet Percival, and his report on the geology of Connecticut. During his lecture he gave a minute account of the famous Rosetta stone of Egypt, and presented the Society with a plaster copy of it taken in the British Museum.

DECEASED MEMBERS.

The members of the Society who died during the past year were: William Wickham Welch, July 30, 1892;

The members of the Society who died during the past year were: William Wickham Welch, July 30, 1892;

George Putnam Brinley, August 24, 1892; William Henry Wiley, November 4, 1892; David Williams Patterson, November 13, 1892; Henry Wadhams Buel, January 30, 1893; Lettie Morris Gemmill, March 19, 1893; Allyn Stanley Kellogg, April 3, 1893; Roderick Henry Burnham, April 21, 1893; and William Erastus Collins, May 19, 1893.

One corresponding member of the Society died during the past year — DANIEL STEELE DURRIE of Madison, Wis., who was for nearly thirty-seven years librarian of the Wisconsin State Historical Society. He was born in Albany, N. Y., January 2, 1819, and died August 31, 1892. He was descended from John Steele, the first secretary of the Colony of Connecticut, and Governor Bradford of the Plymouth Colony. Mr. Durrie's contributions to the history and genealogy of the country are well known. The library he collected is supposed to be one of the most valuable in the United States, and is his enduring monument.

WILLIAM WICKHAM WELCH, M.D., died at his home in Norfolk, Conn., July 30, 1892. He was born in Norfolk, December 10, 1818. He studied medicine, and received his degree at the Medical Department of Yale College in 1838. This profession he followed with distinction through life, turning aside from it only to serve the public. In 1848, 1850, and 1881 he represented his native town in the lower house of the Connecticut Legislature; in 1851 and 1852 he was a member of the State Senate; and in 1855 to 1857 he represented his district in the 34th Congress of the United States.

George Putnam Brinley was born in Hartford, April 10, 1842. On his mother's side he traced his lineage, through the Wadsworths, Russells, and Talcotts, to Governor Bradford of Plymouth and Thomas Hooker of Hartford. On his father's side he was a lineal descendant of General Israel Putnam. From his birth he had a serious affection of the heart, which made his life painful and uncertain, and prevented any serious exertion of either body or mind. In early life he was engaged in banking and insurance, but at the age of 35 he retired to the quiet and uneventful life of a farmer, where he remained till his death, which occurred at his home in Newington, August 24, 1892.

Mr. Brinley was a devout and faithful member of the Protestant Episcopal church. He was gentle and courteous in his manners, and had the entire confidence of all with whom he came in contact. He was a very intelligent man, and a close reader in all departments of literature. He became a member of this Society May 8, 1877, and was for a long time a member of the American Antiquarian Society of Worcester.

William Henry Wiley was born in Wakefield, Mass., September 12, 1821. After a severe sickness of about three weeks, he died at his home in Hartford, November 4, 1892. He had, however, been in declining health for several years. At the age of ten years he came with his father's family to Hartford, where he remained through life. He was originally in the boot and shoe business, but in 1875 started in a small way the manufacture of overgaiters, mainly for military use, which developed into a very large and lucrative business, embracing valuable contracts with the government. He was deeply interested in religious and political affairs — a zealous member of the Baptist church, and an ardent Republican in politics. In all that pertained to the interests of this Society he was ever to be relied upon for good counsels and substantial assistance.

David Williams Patterson, the famous genealogist and historian, died at his home in Newark Valley, N. Y., November 18, 1892. He was born in Union, N. Y., July 15, 1824. Receiving a common-school education, he studied dentistry in Rochester, and finally located in West Winsted, in this State, in 1846, in the practice of his profession. He was very successful, and in 1865 abandoned his profession, returned to his father's home in Newark Valley, and devoted his entire time through life to historical and genealogical studies, for which he had always a great fondness. His most elaborate work was the "Whitney Genealogy," in three large quarto volumes, prepared by order of a wealthy member of the family. He spent five years of time and $30,000 in money upon it.

Dr. Patterson left a large collection of unpublished manuscripts, which, it is hoped, will now come into the possession of some society which is able to give them to the public.

A friend of Dr. Patterson gives this estimate of his character: "He was a man of great firmness of character, one who thoroughly detested sham and humbug, and whose rugged honesty was such that he always gave open and free expression to his dislike of men and things; and this disposition was not lessened by the natural irritation that came of the exacting nature of his work, which is especially trying to a sensitive organization. He was most scrupulously honest, and in all his transactions he was rigidly correct. Quick to resent a wrong, real or fancied, he was equally considerate of the legal rights of others. His friendships were as strong as his dislikes, and his best friends were those who understood and appreciated his work, and were in sympathy with his peculiar literary tastes."

DAVID WILLIAMS PATTERSON, the famous genealogist and historian, died at his home in Newark Valley, N. Y., November 18, 1892. He was born in Union, N. Y., July 15, 1824. Receiving a common-school education, he studied dentistry in Rochester, and finally located in West Winsted, in this State, in 1846, in the practice of his profession. He was very successful, and in 1856 abandoned his profession, returned to his father's home in Newark Valley, and devoted his entire time through life to historical and genealogical studies, for which he had always a great fondness. His most elaborate work was the "Whitney Genealogy," in three large quarto volumes, prepared by order of a wealthy member of the family. He spent five years of time and $30,000 in money upon it.

He came to Hartford about twenty years ago, where he resided for about ten years, when he purchased a residence in Bloomfield, and removed to that town. CONCLUSION.

In conclusion, I congratulate the Society upon its present condition and its future prospects. Our library accommodations and our hall for the exhibition of our treasures are all that the most ardent friend of the Society could desire. And we are gratified to announce that our General Assembly has now given us a helping hand to assist in carrying a burden for the general benefit of the State, so long borne by individuals. We receive from the State treasury hereafter an annual appropriation of one thousand dollars. This will enable us to employ competent assistance to catalogue and arrange and prepare for publication our historical collections, which have been so long hidden out of sight.

JOHN W. STEDMAN,
President.

Appropriation by the Legislature.

SEC. 2. Said appropriation shall be paid in equal quarterly installments to the Treasurer of said Society upon the order of the Comptroller, who is hereby directed to draw his order for the same.

SEC. 3. Said Connecticut Historical Society shall deposit in the State Library three hundred copies of each catalogue, report, or other work published by said Society pursuant to the provisions of this act; and the State Librarian shall distribute or dispose of the same as other publications are distributed under State authority.

Approved, April 19, 1893.

Report of the Librarian.

Mr. President, and Members of the Society :

By the spring of 1892, the work of remodeling and enlarging the Athenæum had so far progressed that the completion of the vault in the new portion of the building, the use of which for the time was kindly granted by the trustees of the Watkinson Library, was the signal for the commencement of the Society's task of moving. And early on the morning of May 2d the portion belonging to the Society, of the Charter granted by King Charles to the Colony of Connecticut in 1662, was carefully deposited, doubtless for the first time in its long and eventful history, in a place more secure than the famous Charter Oak. The other manuscripts were rapidly gathered from the dusty cupboards and boxes where they had long lain, many of them undisturbed for years, and placed with the charter. In a week all of them were beyond the reach of fire.

Under the direction and oversight of the Library Committee it was my pleasant task during the long summer days which followed to delve among these dusty records of the past, there to rediscover long forgotten treasures, and bring to light precious documents whose value had hitherto been overlooked, owing to the mass of less interesting but nevertheless valuable material in which they had been concealed. Weeks of work at last brought order and arrangement out of the chaotic state in which many of them had formerly been, owing to lack of facilities for their proper arrangement.

In December they were removed to our own vaults, where they are now classified on the shelves according to the subject to which they refer, and each collection is arranged chronologically. Some progress has also been made in the work of cataloguing the more important collections.

But what of the books and curiosities? A few of the particularly rare books, pamphlets, and broadsides, and some early files of newspapers were also carried into the vaults. Then commenced the work of removing the files of Congressional documents and other government reports, and a part of the bound newspapers, from the lower Watkinson rooms where they had been stored for lack of suitable accommodations, into our own rooms. After several shifts to avoid the builders, they have at last been placed in our commodious lower room: the government reports in cases ranged about the walls, the more valuable newspapers in the lower vault near by; the others in temporary cases and piles about the room. Permanent cases for their reception are much needed. The bound volumes of newspapers number about 550, and many valuable files are yet unbound, while some of the bound volumes should be rebound for their better preservation.

Meanwhile, the Watkinson Library had been moved into its new and elegant home, and the room it had outgrown had been fitted to receive the Society's library. During September the books were brought out from the high cases in which they had so long reposed, and were classified and arranged on the shelves in our new library room. When the task was completed it could be seen that the room was comfortably filled, and that the Society had a library of some classes of which it may justly be proud, and which, as a whole, compares favorably with the libraries of other similar societies.

The thousands of pamphlets which in the general confusion had been placed everywhere and anywhere, and had lost all semblance of their former classification and arrangement, were next assorted and put in their proper places.

Mention may here be made of our rich collection of broadsides, for the better arrangement of which some provision should be made.

During this time the Society's hall had been renovated and painted, a new entrance provided from the main hallway, and the majority of the tall cases, no longer needed to hold books, had been removed. This gave opportunity for systematic classification of the historical paintings, which were now rehung.

Last of all, an attack was made upon the miscellaneous collection of relics and curiosities, for the display of which our increased room gave a better opportunity. These were classified, many of them relabeled, and some, which had outlived their interest as curiosities, were removed from sight. This work was barely completed in time for the exercises at the rededication and opening of the building to the public on January 2, 1893.

Those of you who did not have occasion to visit our rooms while these changes were in progress can hardly appreciate the labor they involved, or the unforeseen difficulties which seemed constantly to arise.

The vote passed at a recent meeting concerning the disposal of duplicates has already been productive of good results, and the large number of duplicate books and pamphlets still on hand gives assurance that it will be the means of adding many valuable works to the library. Among the books already obtained by exchange of duplicates are "Vital Record of Rhode Island," in three quarto volumes; nineteen volumes of "New Hampshire State Papers"; also genealogies of the Stiles, Butler, Lee, Boughton, Stanton, Sears, Cole, Dows, Hurlbut, Pierce, Beckwith, Fillow, Dimond, Carter, and Stephens families. These make a large addition to our valuable collection of genealogies, which is more used than any other class of books in the library.

Our record of donations for the year shows that our old friends do not forget us, and that new friends are joining with old in increasing our store of books, manuscripts, and curiosities. The donations for the year have been 301 books, 1,160 pamphlets, and 632 miscellaneous articles, including manuscripts. There have also been obtained by purchase 15 books, 319 pamphlets, and one miscellaneous, and by exchange 40 books and two pamphlets; making the receipts for the year 356 books, 1,481 pamphlets, and 633 miscellaneous articles, a total of 2,470 pieces.

Among these it is a pleasure to note the gift by Mr. Roland Mather of several lots from the last Brinley sale, particularly the "Connecticut Gazette" for about five years between 1774 and 1781, which, by filling a break in our file, makes our set one of the best in existence. The volumes of "Stevens's Facsimiles," the gift of the late Junius S. Morgan, continue to come to us regularly as soon as published. Our good friend, Mr. W. F. J. Boardman, continues to come in with his hands filled with scarce pamphlets, little known volumes, and rare imprints, which he never carries away at his departure. Mr. F. F. Starr also favored us during the year with over 300 pamphlets, nearly all Connecticut matter; and Judge Sherman W. Adams has also given about 100 pamphlets, quite a number of which are rarities. But by far the most valuable gift is that received from our generous friend, Mr. James J. Goodwin, consisting of the various manuscripts purchased for him at the late Brinley sale. The steady increase in the use of our books, occasioned, in part at least, by the general awakening of an interest in genealogical matters, emphasizes the necessity for a full catalogue, the absence of which is a continual embarrassment to the best interests of the library.

Appended to this report will be found a list of our bound newspapers and a general outline of our manuscript treasures.

By-Laws of the Society.

[In force, May, 1894.]

I. MEMBERS.

1. The Society shall consist of Resident, Corresponding, and Honorary Members.

Resident members shall be persons residing in the State of Connecticut; and no others shall be entitled to vote in any meeting of the Society.

Honorary and corresponding members shall be persons residing out of the State of Connecticut, and shall not be subject to any admission fee or tax.

Honorary members shall be persons who may have rendered important public service to the State of Connecticut, or to the cause of historic inquiry, or literature generally.

2. No person shall be voted for as an honorary, corresponding, or resident member, until at least one month after his nomination by the Committee on Membership; and every such vote shall be taken by ballot, at a regular meeting, at which not less than ten members are present.

3. Every nomination for the election of honorary or corresponding members shall be based on the application, in writing, of two resident members, stating the reasons for such nomination, and the qualifications of the persons proposed for membership.

4. Whenever a vote shall be taken on the admission of a member, and there shall be found two ballots against his admission, the presiding officer shall declare the election postponed. At the next regular meeting, if the recommendation of the committee shall be renewed, he may be admitted by the votes of two-thirds the members present.

5. Resident members shall pay, on admission, three dollars, and two dollars every subsequent year, if they reside within, and one dollar if they reside without, the limits of the town of Hartford; or, in lieu thereof, any person entitled to be a member may constitute himself a life member by paying at one time the sum of twenty-five dollars.

6. Should any person elected as a resident member omit to signify his acceptance of such election within one month after receiving notice thereof, and to pay the admission fee, he shall forfeit the privilege of becoming a member. The payment of the annual assessment shall hereafter constitute a condition of continued membership, and the neglect or refusal to pay the same for the period of six months after the annual meeting of the Society shall be deemed a withdrawal from the Society.

7. A copy of the by-laws shall be presented, within one month after the adoption of this by-law, by the Recording Secretary, to every resident member, to be signed and returned to the Secretary; and members who shall subscribe the same shall thereafter be considered as accepting the provision respecting the annual assessment and the conditions of membership.

II. OFFICERS.

The Officers of the Society, to be elected at the annual meeting by ballot, and to hold their offices for one year and until others shall be chosen, shall be—a President, not exceeding eight Vice-Presidents, a Recording Secretary, a Corresponding Secretary, a Treasurer, a Committee on Membership, to consist of seven members; Committees on the Library, and on Publication, each to consist of three members.

The preceding officers and the chairmen of the several committees shall constitute the Standing Committee of the Society.

A Librarian and Cabinet Keeper shall be appointed, on the nomination of the Standing Committee, whenever such appointment shall be deemed advisable.

2. The President shall be, ex officio, chairman of the Standing Committee; shall preside at all meetings of the Society and Standing Committee; call, by himself or Secretary, all meetings of the Society, and deliver or provide for an address at the annual meeting.

3. VI. PUBLICATION FUND.

The legacy left to the Society by the late President, the Hon. Thomas Day, the avails of all life memberships, and all special donations and subscriptions which may be made thereto, shall constitute a Publication Fund — the income of which shall be applied, under the direction of the Publication Committee, toward the expense of such publications as may be ordered by the Society.

VII. ALTERATIONS.

Any alteration of these by-laws shall be submitted to a regular meeting, held prior to that on which the vote on the same is taken.

Annual Address.

IT is gratifying to report an increased interest in the prosperity of the Society for the past year, as evidenced in attendance at our monthly meetings, and by a readiness to assist in every good work suggested to advance the Society's usefulness. This liberality was notably shown in the call which was made for subscriptions for the purchase of the Patterson Library. Nearly four-fifths of the purchase price was contributed by the members of the Society.

MEMBERSHIP.

The present membership of the Society is 313, an increase for the past year of 26. Resident members, 283, of whom 48 are life members; honorary members, 7; corresponding members, 23. The increase in membership has been entirely in resident members.

ANNUAL FIELD DAY.

The Society's Annual Field Day was enjoyed in the old town of Windsor on the 14th day of June, 1893. Returning through East Granby, the old Newgate Prison was visited, and all its interesting features inspected and its abandoned caverns explored. The party numbered forty-eight.

On arriving in carriages at the southern part of Windsor, the party was met by Jabez H. Hayden, H. Sidney Hayden, M. W. Hayden, and Thomas W. Loomis, who politely volunteered to act as escort during the day. All the places of historic interest in the town were visited, including the Plymouth meadows, where the first house was erected, the ancient burying ground, the home of the ancestors of ex-President Grant, and the famous mansion house of Chief Justice Oliver Ellsworth, which is to-day in the same condition that it was in when Gen. Washington was an honored guest of his friend, the Chief Justice. All places of interest in the town were marked by flags, and fully explained by the intelligent guides. No town in New England, not marked by some great battle or Indian massacre, can furnish more places of interest to the student of history than the old town of Windsor, and the members of the Society very greatly enjoyed the day spent there.

The visit to old Newgate, the barbarous and inhuman receptacle of the State criminals in a past generation, was a striking object lesson to those interested in the progress of enlightened Christian sentiments among the people. Overlooking one of the most beautiful and inspiring natural scenes in New England, the internal arrangements of the prison, for the mere existence of the inmates, were as revolting and horrible as anything we read of in the Middle Ages. Yet this was Connecticut's principal penal institution down to a time within the memory of men now living.

MONTHLY ESSAYS AND PAPERS.

Rev. Dr. George H. Clark of this city presented to the Society the first paper of the year on Tuesday evening, Oct. 3, 1893. His theme was John Wheelwright, an Episcopal clergyman, of Bilsby, England, who was held in contempt of church for non-conformist doctrines and emigrated to Boston in 1636. His fortunes and misfortunes formed a theme for a deeply interesting paper, characterized by great original research.

His fortunes and misfortunes formed a theme for a deeply interesting paper, characterized by great original research.

The paper on the 7th of November was furnished by State Librarian Hoadly, and was upon the subject of "The Hiding of the Charter." He explained that there was a duplicate copy of the original charter of Connecticut sent out from England in the year 1663, and that it was this copy that was in the possession of Capt. Wadsworth and was concealed by him at the time of the visit of Sir Edmund Andros to Hartford in 1687. Dr. Hoadly's thorough knowledge of Connecticut history could not have been more clearly shown on any other subject than this. He was complimented by the attendance of the largest audience that ever assembled in the Society's rooms, who warmly expressed their pleasure in his treatment of the subject.

The monthly meeting in December was addressed by ex-President Hon. Henry Barnard. He spoke of "Hartford's South Side," and was reminiscent from his earliest recollection in 1815. He was listened to with great interest.

At the January meeting J. G. Woodward, Esq., read a highly interesting paper upon the life and character of "Elizabeth Canning," a noted woman of the last century, who was banished from England and settled in Wethersfield, where she died in 1773. The subject has been a favorite one with historical students, and Mr. Woodward, in this paper of his, has the credit of clearing up more of the mysteries of the case than any other writer.

Professor Williston Walker read a paper before the February meeting of the Society upon "The Services of the Mathers in New England Religious Development." The Mathers referred to were of course Richard, Increase, and Cotton. Professor Walker has made a thorough study of this and kindred subjects, and is the highest authority upon them. He presented his subject in a deeply interesting manner.

DeLoss Love read a paper upon "Samson Occom — the Christian Indians of Connecticut and their emigration to the Oneida country." The paper was one of unusual interest from its exhaustive treatment of a portion of Connecticut history not generally understood, and its portrayal of the life and character of the most remarkable man known to us of the Indian race.

At the April meeting of the Society Mrs. Charles H. Smith read a paper, prepared almost wholly from original sources, upon "The Extinct Niantics." The history of the tribe from the early settlement of the country was given, with very full sketches of the life and character of each one of the ten last survivors, down to the last one properly a tribal Indian, who died in 1870. The paper was an excellent one, and well received.

The eighth and closing paper of the year was read before the Society at its May meeting by Bishop Thomas M. Clark of Rhode Island. His subject was "William Blake, painter and poet." The career of this remarkable man was vividly sketched, and his works, both as painter and poet, described and criticised in an appreciative and charitable spirit.

Six of our members have dropped from the roll of the Society by death during the past year: — George Lucius Bulkley, Aug. 30, 1893; Andrew Christie Bayne, Oct. 12, 1893; Austin Parks Huntington, Nov. 23, 1893; Francis Gowdy, Jan. 21, 1894; Alvan Pinney Hyde, Feb. 5, 1894; and Frederick Spencer Brown, May 6, 1894.

DECEASED MEMBERS

Six of our members have dropped from the roll of the Society by death during the past year: — George Lucius Bulkley, Aug. 30, 1892; Andrew Christie Hayne, Oct. 12, 1892; Austin Parks Huntington, Nov. 23, 1892; Francis Gowdy, Jan. 21, 1891; Alvan Finney Hyde, Feb. 5, 1891; and Frederick Spencer Brown, May 6, 1891.

GEORGE LUCIUS BULKLEY was born in North Granville, N. Y., February 20, 1822, and died while on a temporary visit, at the same place, August 30, 1891. His business life was spent in the dry-goods trade in

New York city. Many years ago he settled in Hartford, and passed the remainder of his life here in a quiet and uneventful manner, in the enjoyment of an ample fortune. He was highly respected by all with whom he came in contact. His wife and three children survive him.

Captain ANDREW C. BAYNE was born in Perthshire, Scotland, on the 21st day of May, 1841, and died very suddenly, October 12, 1893, while on a carriage drive through New York State, at a village near Utica. He came to this country very young with his family, who settled at New York Mills, N. Y. At the beginning of the War of the Rebellion he enlisted as a common soldier, but soon was advanced to official grades till he reached the rank of captain. He was engaged in Maryland and Virginia in active service through the entire war, and on four occasions was severely wounded. At the close of the war he entered the regular service as second lieutenant, and continued there till 1871, when he was retired for disabilities incurred in the line of duty. He engaged in the business of fire insurance, and in 1885 was appointed general agent for Eastern New York of the Ætna Insurance Company of this city. In 1888 he was elected secretary of the company, and in 1892 was advanced to the office of vice-president, which place he filled at the time of his death.

Captain Bayne was a man of remarkable business capacity, enthusiastic and energetic in all things that engaged his attention. He was active in religious work, in Grand Army work, and was a man of fine historic and scholarly tastes. By his death our Society sustains a serious loss. He left a widow, but no children.

Austin Parks Huntington was born in Chicago, December 7, 1857. He died in the island of Martinique, West Indies, November 23, 1893. He graduated from Harvard University, and soon after commenced the practice of law in New York city. Failing in health, he abandoned his profession and made an extensive tour in Europe and the East. On his return he established himself in mercantile business in New York. Again compelled by failing health, he abandoned this pursuit and settled in Norwich, Conn., the home of his ancestors, after an extensive tour in Europe. He was a lineal descendant, in the third generation, of General Jabez Huntington, of revolutionary fame, and was much interested in historical matters. He was a man of rare literary tastes and culture, and of attractive personal qualities.

Colonel Francis Gowdy was born in East Windsor, on the 21st of February, 1821. He died in Clinton, Conn., January 21, 1894. In early life he passed several years in Louisville, Ky., but afterwards, and until a few months of his death, resided at the place of his birth. He retired from business and removed to Clinton for the benefit of his health, and soon after passed away. His business was that of a farmer and distiller.

Colonel Gowdy was an active, public-spirited man. He represented his native town in the Legislature of the State in 1870 and 1871, and in early life was prominent in military affairs. He was frank and positive in the expression of his opinions. Strictly honest himself, he hated anything like trickery or double-dealing in others. He loved his friends, and was social in his disposition. He had read much, had a good memory, especially for historic events, and delighted to converse on historical topics. He left a widow and two children.

Alvan Pinney Hyde was born in Stafford, Conn., March 10, 1825. He died in this city, February 5, 1894. He was fitted for college at Monson Academy, and entered Yale University in 1841. He graduated in 1845, and at once commenced the study of law in the office of the late Judge Loren P. Waldo in Tolland. He was admitted to the bar in 1847, and opened an office in Stafford, where he remained for two years, when he married a daughter of Judge Waldo, and returned to Tolland, assuming the office of president of the Tolland County Bank. He represented the town of Tolland in the State Legislature in 1854, 1858, and 1863, but after that never held public office. In 1864 he removed to Hartford, and soon after the famous law firm of Waldo, Hubbard & Hyde was formed, and continued till the death of the senior partners. After that time, and till his death, his partners were Charles E. Gross, and his sons, William Waldo and Frank E. Hyde.

Mr. Hyde was one of the leading members of the bar of the State, was of a kind and generous nature, and deeply interested in all that pertained to the history and prosperity of his native State.

Frederick Spencer Brown was born in East Hartford, February 25, 1822. He died at his residence in this city on the 6th day of May, 1894.

Mr. Brown, in early life, engaged in the tobacco trade, and pursued this business in connection afterwards with extensive dealings in real estate, till 1878, when he was elected town and city collector of Hartford, a place which he filled with great popularity to the time of his death. was more frequently consulted by them, and the advice of no one was received with greater respect. His tastes were domestic, scientific, literary, and antiquarian, and he had a large collection of books, pictures, and articles of curiosity to testify to his zeal in studies of such subjects. He was friendly and helpful to all around him, and his death was widely and sincerely mourned.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

The report of the Librarian will be read with especial interest. He gives a full account of the famous Patterson Library, which the Society purchased the past year for the sum of five thousand dollars. This is supposed to be the largest and most valuable individual collection of genealogical books and manuscripts in this country. This, added to our present collection, gives us a leading position in this department of historical literature. It would be unjust not to add, in this connection, that for our ability to purchase the Patterson collection we are indebted to the untiring zeal and perseverance of one of our most valued members, Miss Lucy Brainard.

PRESENTATION OF BOOKS.

At our March meeting Mrs. Kate B. Knight, of Lakeville, chairman of the Woman's Board of World's Fair Managers of Connecticut, presented the Society with the collection of the literary works of the women of Connecticut which had been on exhibition at the Fair in Chicago. The books were in the handsome inlaid mahogany and glass case in which they were exhibited. CONCLUSION.

In concluding this my fifth and last annual address, I wish to express my gratitude for the entire harmony and good-will which have prevailed among the officers and members of the Society during my term of service, and for the great advance in its prosperity and usefulness which has resulted from this condition of concord and unity. That such conditions may continue to characterize the Society in all its limitless future is the earnest prayer of

Librarian's Report.

Mr. President and Members of the Society:

WITH the indorsement of the library committee I have the honor to submit the following report: The year now brought to a close has been an eventful one for this society and a busy one for its librarian. Work has been continued along the lines laid out at the time of re-opening the library; which, briefly, have been to render the material already in the library — books, pamphlets, newspapers, and manuscripts — as available as possible to all who might wish to consult them.

The use of the library has been large. Not a day has passed without bringing some readers, while our banner day brought thirty. An idea of their average number can be gained from the fact that during the months of January, February, and March they numbered over one thousand. This period, however, may be considered as our busy season.

A large majority of the users of our books are genealogists of one kind or another. Many are in search of their family tree, others anxious to trace their descent from some worthy ancestor whose deeds will entitle them to admission to one or more of the various patriotic societies which have recently sprung into such popularity. Whether this genealogical interest will continue, or is only a popular craze which will soon die out, is a question that cannot now be answered. Should it continue, the books most used must soon be replaced by new copies.

The large number of members of the society who make use of the library is very gratifying, as is also the still larger number who have regularly attended our monthly meetings.

The sum of $200 set apart by the Standing Committee to be expended for binding has proved exceedingly useful. Among the books bound are 175 pamphlet genealogies; 16 volumes of the Middlesex Gazette, containing the file of that paper for 48 years, the longest and most complete file known; the set, 17 volumes, of the Pennsylvania Magazine of History and Biography. Other books bring the total to about 230. It is to be hoped that a similar appropriation will be made for the coming year.

The most important event of the year was the acquisition of the Patterson library. The following report on this library was presented to the society at its March meeting:

REPORT ON PATTERSON LIBRARY.

March 6, 1894.

At the last meeting of the Society it was stated that at this meeting a report would be made by the librarian upon the Patterson library. As no instructions were given, your librarian was left somewhat in doubt as to the nature and extent of the expected report; but he will endeavor to touch upon such points as already have been or are likely to be made the subject of inquiry.

Leaving the historical manuscripts and old newspapers out of consideration, the most valuable as well as the most consulted departments of our library are the genealogies and local histories. While the Society already had a very respectable collection on these lines, yet there was still much to be desired. The announcement of the death of Dr. D. Williams Patterson, and that his working library of genealogy and local history was to be offered for sale by his executor caused the question to be asked among our members — Cannot some arrangement be made by which we can obtain this library? Williams Patterson, and that his working library of genealogy and local history was to be offered for sale by his executor caused the question to be asked among our members—Cannot some arrangement be made by which we can obtain this library? The story of the effort to raise sufficient funds and the details of the correspondence resulting in its purchase are too familiar to need repeating at this time.

On January 23d the library arrived carefully packed in thirty-eight boxes and two barrels. The opening of the boxes revealed, besides the manuscript collection, which is of the utmost importance and will be considered in detail later, a rich collection of standard works of genealogy and local history, interspersed with biography, rare imprints and reprints, and such general works as might be expected in any similar collection of books. The library consists of about 1,100 bound volumes and fully as many unbound volumes and pamphlets, or 2,200 titles in all, for your librarian has given up in despair the attempt to make a close distinction between a volume bound or unbound and a pamphlet.

The local histories, which number about 200 bound volumes, embrace works on each of the New England States, New York and Pennsylvania, particularly the Wyoming region, a few on New Jersey and Ohio, and some scattered works on other States, even to an early history of Texas. Among these may be named, speaking at random, Shattuck's History of Concord, Felt's Annals of Salem, Bolton's History of Westchester County, Littell's Genealogies of the Passaic Valley, Early Settlers of Stamford, Conn., and Early Settlers of Southold, Long Island.

The genealogies consist principally of the older works printed, for the most part, before 1870. Many of these are rare and very difficult to obtain. Some, in fact, have not been priced for years in the dealers' catalogues. Among these may be named Clark, Holt, Griffing, Morse, Mudge, Shattuck, and Richardson. They number about 330 works, and not a day has passed that some of them have not been used.

There are a number of reprints of rare books, such as Mather's Early History of New England, of which 260 copies were issued to subscribers; also privately printed books, such as Bushnell's Crumbs for Antiquaries, of the first number of which 50 copies were printed. There are also the Sabin and Woodward series of reprints, a part of the Hamilton Club series, and a number issued by Hoffman. These were all issued in small editions, seldom over 300 copies, while in one case only 28 copies were printed.

The bound volumes not classed as genealogies, local histories, or rare reprints number about 300.

Some, in fact, have not been priced for years in the dealers' catalogues. Among these may be named Clark, Holt, Gilman, Morse, Madge, Shattuck, and Richardson. They number about 350 works, and not a day has passed that some of them have not been used.

The bound volumes not classed as genealogies, local histories, or rare reprints number about 300.

The pamphlets number over 800, and while very miscellaneous, are as a lot exceedingly valuable. Among them are to be found many small local histories, historical sermons and addresses, funeral and other sermons, college catalogues and addresses, reports of various institutions, about 75 church catalogues, biographical sketches, etc.

All of the above mentioned are new material not previously to be found in this society or the adjoining Watkinson Library; and this brings me to the matter of duplicates. The number of books and pamphlets found in the Patterson library which were already owned by this Society or the Watkinson Library is considerable; but they are without exception works which will find a ready sale at good prices. Such are Savage's Genealogical Dictionary, Bond's History of Watertown, and the New England Historical and Genealogical Register.

The following is a list of the principal manuscripts:

The pamphlets number over 800, and while very miscellaneous, are as a lot exceedingly valuable. Among them are to be found many small local histories, historical sermons and addresses, funeral and other sermons, college catalogues and addresses, reports of various institutions, about 75 church catalogues, biographical sketches, etc.

All of the above mentioned are new material not previously to be found in this society or the adjoining Watkinson Library, and this brings me to the matter of duplicates. The number of books and pamphlets found in the Patterson library which were already owned by this Society or the Watkinson Library is considerable; but they are without exception works which will find a ready sale at good prices. Such are Savage's Genealogical Dictionary, Bond's History of Watertown, and the New England Historical and Genealogical Register.

Finally, there are thousands of letters received by Doctor Patterson during his genealogical work; and the large and miscellaneous assortment of bits and scraps, an assortment made up of odd facts and scattered data whose value it is difficult to estimate. Included in these miscellany are the "pumps," as the Doctor facetiously called them, large sheets of questions by means of which he was wont to secure needed genealogical information.

Already several letters have been received from points as far distant as Chicago asking for information from these manuscripts.

During the past winter an arrangement was made with the Hartford Public Library by which the bound volumes of newspapers belonging to that library were permanently deposited with this society. A new case was built for their accommodation, and 218 volumes have been received. A list of the papers is as follows:

The fifth and last part of the late George Brinley's library was sold in February, 1893. At that time Mr. Charles A. Brinley, the executor, acting for the heirs of his father's estate, very generously donated to this Society a large number of manuscripts belonging to the estate which did not appear in the printed catalogue of the library. By agreement these manuscripts were forwarded not directly to the society but to Mr. Jonathan F. Morris. By him they were examined, assorted, and added to, from his well-known collection of Wadsworth papers. When received by the Society, this splendid collection, the joint gift of Messrs. Brinley and Morris, consisted of over 3,300 distinct manuscripts. The correspondence of Col. Jeremiah Wadsworth, the commissary-general of the American army during the Revolution, makes up about 2,800 of these. The correspondence includes Col. Wadsworth's letter books as well as the letters received by him during this trying period. Among these, both the historian and the collector of autographs would find much to gladden their hearts. These 2,800, with perhaps 1,500 which the Society previously possessed, form an unrivaled collection of Wadsworth manuscripts. In addition to these there is a large box of miscellaneous Wadsworth papers, consisting for the most part of bills, receipts, and accounts. The collection next in importance was over 400 manuscripts relating to the Connecticut Gore Land Company, consisting of letters, statements, petitions, bills and accounts, briefs, and copies of early records, covering the entire period of that company's troubled existence. Added to about 200 already belonging to the Society, these form a complete manuscript history of that company.

While all donations are of value and interest to us, and the Society desires to return its thanks to every donor, it will not be out of place at this time to call attention to a few donations that are of special interest. As on some previous years, our largest donors have been Frank F. Starr and W. F. J. Boardman, the former giving 477 and the latter 596 books and pamphlets. Another large donor was Leverett Belknap, who gave over 75 books, almost all of which are Hartford imprints or in some way connected with Hartford. From the Connecticut Board of Lady Managers of the Columbian Exposition was received an elegant case of books, 151 in number, written by women of Connecticut, which formed a part of the exhibit in the Woman's Building at Chicago. In addition to present issues of the Smithsonian Institution there were applied for and received seventy-five of its earlier publications which were previously wanting, making our set almost complete. One of our corresponding members, Hon. Samuel A. Green, has added to the library about 30 pamphlets. Dartmouth College forwarded to us last July 80 of their catalogues and other pamphlets, which form an interesting addition to our large collection of college matter. Four volumes of the Stevens Facsimiles, the gift of the late Junius S. Morgan, Esq., of London, were received during the year. These make twenty volumes now on our shelves, and it is promised that the remaining five necessary to complete the series will be issued during the present year. An important work issued and forwarded by the Government is the Diplomatic Correspondence of the American Revolution in six volumes, edited by the late Francis Wharton. Clarence Winthrop Bowen, in behalf of the committee on literary exercises, has favored us with the work edited by himself giving the history of the centennial of the inauguration of George Washington. This magnificent volume is all that its title indicates and much more. The collection of portraits here reproduced is almost invaluable. All the known portraits of Washington, Franklin, and Lafayette are here; also portraits of the members of the first Congress, and of many other men and women famous at that time. To Francis H. Parker, Esq., we are indebted for a manuscript genealogy of the Post family, compiled by the late F. W. Chapman, author of the Chapman, Bulkeley, and other genealogies. Mr. V. E. Merwin of Cornwall Hollow, Conn., added to our manuscripts an original treaty with the six nations of Indians in New York State. This treaty contains Morwin of Cornwall Hollow, Conn., added to our manuscripts an original treaty with the six nations of Indians in New York State. This treaty contains among others the autograph of Eleazer Williams, the supposed Dauphin of France.

The library has received during the year by gift 1,780 books, 2,401 pamphlets, and 3,418 miscellaneous, including manuscripts; by exchange 5 books and 39 pamphlets; and by purchase 13 books, 1 pamphlet, and 3 miscellaneous — in all 1,798 books, 2,441 pamphlets, and 3,421 miscellaneous — a total of 7,660 pieces. This is, without doubt, the largest number of accessions ever received during one year in the history of the Society.

The necessity for a full catalogue noticed in my last report still continues, and is made more apparent by the increasing use of the library. Especially is this true of the departments of American, United States and local histories.

It is to be hoped that by an auction sale or otherwise a disposition will soon be made of the large number of duplicates at present on our shelves. They now occupy room which is much needed for other books and are in many ways a continual inconvenience. Besides, their sale would doubtless supply ready money which could be applied to the purchase of new books.

Perhaps the most urgent need of the Society at this time is some provision in the way of funds by which the various new genealogies and local histories most needed can be obtained as soon as they are issued. Of the older standard works we have as good a collection as can be expected, but in the recent works we are sadly deficient. Our readers seeing notice of the publication of a certain book come and ask for it, naturally expecting to find it here. In this they are far too often disappointed, and it is humiliating to hear them frequently remark that they must wait until they are in some other city before seeing the book.

There is one subject which, though it has been discussed by some of our members, has, I believe, never been formally brought to the attention of the Society; that is, the matter of the publication by the Society of a quarterly magazine. Not as ambitious a publication as the New England Historic Genealogical Register should be attempted, but perhaps one more in the style of the Dedham Historical Register. Such a magazine would be a benefit to us in many ways. It would make the Society more widely known, and its purposes better understood by historical and genealogical workers; would be a means of increasing our exchanges with other societies; would give opportunity to print short series of manuscripts, the monthly papers read before the Society, and various historical notes which do not readily find a place in the more pretentious volumes of our "collections." Such magazines are published in Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania, and other states, but as yet Connecticut is an untried field for such a publication, and this the oldest and largest historical society in the State is preëminently the one to occupy it.

Appended to this report will be found a list of the genealogies on our shelves.

Respectfully,

ALBERT C. BATES,
Librarian.

By-Laws of the Society.

[In force, May, 1895.]

I. MEMBERS.

1. The Society shall consist of Resident, Corresponding, and Honorary Members.

Resident members shall be persons residing in the State of Connecticut; and no others shall be entitled to vote in any meeting of the Society.

Honorary and corresponding members shall be persons residing out of the State of Connecticut, and shall not be subject to any admission fee or tax.

Honorary members shall be persons who may have rendered important public service to the State of Connecticut, or to the cause of historic inquiry, or literature generally.

2. No person shall be voted for as an honorary, corresponding, or resident member, until at least one month after his nomination by the Committee on Membership; and every such vote shall be taken by ballot, at a regular meeting, at which not less than ten members are present.

3. Every nomination for the election of honorary or corresponding members shall be based on the application, in writing, of two resident members, stating the reason for such nomination, and the qualifications of the persons proposed for membership.

4. Whenever a vote shall be taken on the admission of a member, and there shall be found two ballots against his admission, the presiding officer shall declare the election postponed. At the next regular meeting, if the recommendation of the committee shall be renewed, he may be admitted by the votes of two-thirds the members present.

5. Resident members shall pay, on admission, three dollars, and two dollars every subsequent year, if they reside within, and one dollar if they reside without, the limits of the town of Hartford; or, in lieu thereof, any person entitled to be a member may constitute himself a life member by paying at one time the sum of twenty-five dollars.

6. Should any person elected as a resident member omit to signify his acceptance of such election within one month after receiving notice thereof, and to pay the admission fee, he shall forfeit the privilege of becoming a member. The payment of the annual assessment shall hereafter constitute a condition of continued membership, and the neglect or refusal to pay the same for the period of six months after the annual meeting of the Society shall be deemed a withdrawal from the Society.

7. A copy of the by-laws shall be presented, within one month after the adoption of this by-law, by the Recording Secretary, to every resident member, to be signed and returned to the Secretary; and members who shall subscribe the same shall thereafter be considered as accepting the provision respecting the annual assessment and the conditions of membership.

Of our deceased members, in the order of their admission, Hon. Rodrigo Battell (Oct. 4, 1870) died at Norfolk Jan. 26, 1895, in the house in which he was born, in his 76th year. He was graduated at Yale in 1839. He was an ardent patriot, and was a member of the Peace Congress. When the civil war came he was a staunch supporter of Lincoln, and spent time and money freely for the good cause. Unofficially he was one of Governor Buckingham's most trusted advisers. He represented his town in the General Assembly in 1852, 1858, 1860, 1880, and was elected Comptroller in 1866. He was some years a trustee of the Connecticut Hospital for the Insane at Middletown. He was much interested in horses, and bred many fine ones. In art matters his influence was marked, and he was owner of a collection of paintings by representative artists. In music his taste was of the nicest. He composed a number of well-known hymn tunes, including one for the hymn "Abide with Me." He was much interested in matters pertaining to local history, and he was for a year president of this Society. He published in two large volumes the diaries of his uncle, Rev. Dr. Thomas Robbins, long our librarian. He was a great benefactor to his college and to his native town. His later years were mostly spent in New York. Mr. Battell was a life member of this Society.

William A. M. Wainwright, M.D. (April 6, 1886), the youngest child of Bishop Jonathan Mayhew Wainwright of New York, sometime rector of Christ Church in this city, was born in New York Aug. 13, 1844, and graduated at Trinity College 1864. He took much interest in the work of this Society, of which he was a life member, and in the Society of Sons of the American Revolution, and was one of the board of managers of the Connecticut branch of that Society.

Henry W. Taylor (Nov. 13, 1888) was born in Deerfield, Mass., Dec. 23, 1822, and died at Crescent Beach Aug. 20, 1894, after an illness of about two years. He was for several years employed in the Society for Savings, and in later years was agent for the Bible Society.

William H. Lee (July 2, 1889), born in New Britain May 19, 1818. Most of his life was spent in business in

Buckingham's most trusted advisers. He represented his town in the General Assembly in 1854, 1855, 1860, 1880, and was elected Comptroller in 1866. William H. Lee (July 2, 1850), born in New Britain May 19, 1818. Most of his life was spent in business in

New York city, in which he was quite successful. Mr. Lee presented the Society with a number of valuable books, and contributed to our archives a valuable paper on General Patterson. He died in Hartford April 9, 1895.

Hon. SENECA O. GRISWOLD (Oct. 6, 1891) was born in Windsor in 1823, and graduated at Oberlin College in 1845. A great part of his life was spent in Ohio, where he practiced law. He was a member of the constitutional convention of that State in 1873. After his return to Connecticut he continued the practice of law, and was greatly interested in the cultivation of tobacco. He was a prominent member of the Connecticut legislature of 1891, and took much interest in State and local affairs. He had made extensive researches as to the genealogy of the Griswold family. He died suddenly at his home in Poquonock, Windsor, Feb. 17, 1895.

WILLIAM S. WILLIAMS (Nov. 3, 1891), born in Bozrah Dec. 20, 1821; descended from Dr. Thomas Williams, brother of William Williams, signer of the Declaration of Independence, and Ezekiel Williams, long sheriff of Hartford County. In early life he taught school in Massachusetts. Later he was concerned in manufacturing. He was a modest, retiring man, but always responsive to the duties of citizenship, and was called to serve his town in local affairs. He was its representative in the General Assembly in 1886. He died suddenly at the house of his son, B. T. Williams, Nov. 12, 1894.

The honorary members who died during the year were Rev. GEORGE E. ELLIS, elected Aug. 20, 1844, who was President of the Massachusetts Historical Society at the time of his death, and Hon. ROBERT C. WINTHROP, LL.D., the predecessor of Dr. Ellis in the same office.

The deceased corresponding members were DAVID PULSIFER, elected Jan. 11, 1859, editor of vols. 9–12 of the Plymouth Colony Records, and, as I have been told, of the earlier volumes, though Dr. Shurtliff has the credit for the work; and JAMES C. WELLING, LL.D., elected June 2, 1874. Dr. Welling had, not long before his death, resigned the presidency of Columbian University, Washington, D. C., and as he spent more time in Hartford than formerly, we had good reason to expect some historical work from him.

The Annual Field Day was appointed for June 13th, at Lexington and Concord, Mass. Mr. Bates has given me this account of it: On the afternoon of the previous day a majority of the party went as far as Boston, stopping over night at the United States Hotel. On the following morning the members, together with their wives and friends, to the number of sixty all told, assembled at the Boston & Maine Railroad station and took the train for Lexington. Immediately upon their arrival a visit was paid to the historic Green, the scene of the affair of April 19, 1775. After the incidents of that day had been recalled by several members of the party, a visit was paid to the public library and the museum, where the many historical relics and portraits were viewed with much interest by the party. 'Busses were there taken, and a visit paid to the old church and the old house which, after serving Major Pitcairn for headquarters, was later used by the Continentals as a hospital. A pleasant drive was then taken along the line of the British march to Concord. There the party was received by the grandson and heir of Col. James Barrett, who commanded the provincial troops and directed their movements on the day of the battle. After a short address of welcome he took the party in charge and a visit was paid to the Bridge, a most beautiful as well as historic spot; then to some of the old houses which still show the marks of bullets fired on that memorable April day; then to the old cemetery.

After dinner at the hotel a drive about the town followed, to view the places round which cluster so many literary and historic associations.

The train was taken in time to reach Hartford at a late hour that evening. All agreed that the trip had been a pleasant success, and seconded the remark of one member, who said, "that it had been the most unbrokenly enjoyable field-day trip the Society had ever taken."

PAPERS BEFORE THE SOCIETY.

It had been expected that the late Dr. James C. Welling would have read the opening paper before the Society on Oct. 2. After his death, two other gentlemen who had promised papers were applied to, but as they were unable to finish their papers in time, the president read The Case of Catharine Harrison of Wethersfield, indicted for witchcraft, convicted, but released after a long imprisonment.

At the November meeting Charles S. Ensign, LL.B., read a paper on Marshal Jonathan Gilbert of Hartford, Merchant and Indian Commissioner. "A happy commingling of local and family history and antiquarian lore."

The paper Dec. 4 was by Professor Henry Ferguson of Trinity College, on The Loyalists of the American Revolution. "A broad historical statement of the rights and the wrongs of that class."

Hon. Morris W. Seymour of Bridgeport, at the January meeting, read a paper on The Hiding of the Charter, a defense of the commonly accepted story.

Rev. George Leon Walker, D.D., Feb. 5, gave the history of The Old Hartford Burying Ground, and advocated better care for it, as well as its enlargement by clearing

Rev. George Leon Walker, D.D., Feb. 5, gave the history of The Old Hartford Burying Ground and advocated better care for it, as well as its enlargement by clearing out all the old buildings between it and the north line of Gold Street. This paper has been published, not only in the newspapers, but in a pamphlet by the Daughters of the American Revolution, before whom it was also delivered.

At the March meeting Rev. Dr. Joseph W. Backus of Plainfield gave a graphic account of the political and social life of a minister (Samuel Nott, D.D., of Franklin) in a New England country town during the last part of the 18th and first part of the 19th century.

A paper by Mr. P. H. Woodward, on Early Marine Insurance in Connecticut, was read at the April meeting, in which were given sketches of many well-known Connecticut business men of a generation ago.

Mrs. Ellen Terry Johnson read at the May meeting a paper on Bermuda of a Century Ago — an account drawn from the Wadsworth papers of a visit to the island in 1792 by Daniel Wadsworth and his sister, on account of the health of the latter, who died there.

PUBLICATIONS.

Besides the Annual Report for 1894, a pamphlet of 62 pages, the third volume of Collections, which was nearly through the press twenty years ago, has been published, the printer's bill being paid and the volume presented to the Society by the generosity of ex-Governor Morgan G. Bulkeley and his brother, General William H. Bulkeley.

Progress has been made on volumes 5 and 6 of our Collections, and it may be expected that both will be published during the coming year.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

The report of the Librarian notices the increased use of the library by students of local history and genealogical investigation; the large number of visitors to view the relics and curiosities preserved in our hall; the rarity of some of our genealogical and historical books; the lack of sufficient funds for purchasing books; statistics as to books bought and bound during the year; a list of donations, with particular mention of a few special ones.

The Librarian has also in preparation, to be appended to his report when printed, a list (by towns) of our books and pamphlets on Connecticut Local History. This will not only show our deficiencies, but also be found extremely useful to investigators in that line.

Librarian's Report.

Mr. President and Members of the Society:

THE following report, having been submitted to the Library Committee, is now presented to the Society: —

The patronage of the library by readers has been greater than last year and more evenly distributed through the year. During the winter ten readers at one time was a frequent occurrence, and the number sometimes reached fourteen and sixteen. In the near future more table room must be provided for their accommodation.

As heretofore, a large majority of our readers have been genealogical workers; but this term "genealogical workers" has, in this library at least, come to cover a very wide field. It may mean an extended search for all discoverable descendants of a certain known ancestor, together with such acts of theirs as are worthy of a place on the printed page; or, as is frequently the case, it means a search for the different lines of one's own ancestry, which, in this country alone, if the person is descended from early immigrants, means at least five hundred different names, and often the record is carried far back into old England. Not content with the names and usual dates of the ancestors, their worthy acts are next sought out and recorded, and from this it is but a short step, and one very often taken, to a study of the history of the places and the times in which they lived. Thus the search for a great-grandfather often leads to a

Librarian's Report.

Mr. President and Members of the Society:

THE following report, having been submitted to the Library Committee, is now presented to the Society:—

The patronage of the library by readers has been greater than last year and more evenly distributed through the year. During the winter ten readers at one time was a frequent occurrence, and the number some times reached fourteen and sixteen. In the near future more table room must be provided for their accommodation.

As heretofore, a large majority of our readers have been genealogical workers; but this term "genealogical workers" has, in this library at least, come to cover a very wide field. It may mean an extended search for all discoverable descendants of a certain known ancestor, together with such acts of theirs as are worthy of a place on the printed page; or, as is frequently the case, it means a search for the different lines of one's own ancestry, which, in this country alone, if the person is descended from early immigrants, means at least five hundred different names, and often the record is carried far back into old England. Not content with the names and usual dates of the ancestors, their worthy acts are next sought out and recorded, and from this it is but a short step, and one very often taken, to a study of the history of the places and the times in which they lived. Thus the search for a great-grandfather often leads to a genuine study of American history, and genealogical research is coming to be looked upon as something more than a source of diversion for cranks.

It is with pleasure that I call attention to the fact that a number of times during the year, persons from other cities have been supplied with information from our library when their own city's libraries did not contain the books desired. In two instances this was the case with residents of New York city. In this connection I may quote a distinguished corresponding member of the Society, recently deceased, who, upon finding certain data here for which he had searched in vain among the government archives at Washington, remarked that he was continually being surprised by the amount and variety of rare material which, upon occasion, this Society could turn out.

Our library room is so arranged that, with reasonable limitations, a free access to our shelves is allowed to members and other well-known users of the library. This is a favor which is greatly appreciated by our patrons. It is believed that no loss of books has resulted from this privilege.

The number of people who annually visit the hall of the Society and examine the interesting collection of historical objects there displayed, is surprising. The number must reach into the thousands, without taking into account those very frequent visitors, the children of Hartford. And it includes persons from all parts of the country — Massachusetts and Minnesota, California and the Carolinas have been represented during the year; and even the European traveler, after a due study of his guide book, searches out our rooms.

Under the direction of the Library Committee, the fifty dollars appropriated for the purchase of books has been expended as follows: —

Life and times of Henry Burt of Springfield.
Champion genealogy.
Birth, marriage, and death records of Lancaster, Mass.
Military annals of Lancaster, Mass.
Huntington, Long Island, town records, 3 vols.
East Hampton, Long Island, town records, 4 vols.
Births, marriages, and deaths of Concord, Mass.
Old burying ground of Fairfield, Conn.
Magazine of New England history, 3 vols.
History of Medfield, Mass.
Smithsonian Institution, 8th annual report.
Worcester, Mass., records, 2 vols. and 6 parts.
Miscellaneous pamphlets, 12.

The necessity for more funds for the purchase of needed books is very apparent, and it is much to be regretted that the Society is unable to purchase all important American historical and genealogical works as they are issued. Several hundred dollars would be required each year to purchase all that are needed.

The two hundred dollars set aside for binding has been nearly all expended. Two hundred and forty-eight pamphlets have been separately bound in cloth, at a cost of fifteen cents each; and one hundred and forty-eight volumes, including several long sets, one volume of newspapers, and fifteen volumes of pamphlets, have been bound, at an average cost of ninety-nine cents each. Much more binding remains to be done, but a noticeable improvement has been made in this direction during the last two years.

The most notable event of the year is the reissuing of the unfortunate third volume of the Society's Collections. This was accomplished through the interest and generosity of ex-Governor Morgan G. Bulkeley and General William H. Bulkeley, who defrayed the expense of printing the volume, which was edited under the careful supervision of our president. The volume will, by means of our exchanges, bring many important additions to our library, while the receipts from its sale will go to swell our publication fund.

While a gift of the importance of the one just mentioned is not to be expected from a majority of our members, yet let each one remember our library and collections as often as possible. How many of you have local histories, genealogies, old pamphlets or newspapers, various annual reports, pictures or engravings, or interesting relics relating to Connecticut or colonial history for which you have no particular use? Let all such find their way into our Society. Even if some are duplicates of what we already have, they will be useful for exchange with some other society.

The accessions during the year have been: By purchase, 22 volumes, 12 pamphlets; by exchange, 3 volumes, 20 pamphlets; by gift, 312 volumes, 346 pamphlets, and 671 miscellaneous, including manuscripts and relics — a total of 335 volumes, 384 pamphlets, and 671 miscellaneous, or 1,390 in all.

Among the donations a few may be noted as being of special interest: from the State, through our president, volume 1 of the State records; from the late Junius S. Morgan, volumes 21 and 22 of the great Stevens facsimiles; from W. H. Hapgood, the scarce history of the town of Harvard, Mass.; from the Department of State, numbers 3, 4, and 5 of the bulletin of the bureau of rolls and library, containing a calendar of the Washington, Madison, Jefferson, Hamilton, Monroe, and Franklin papers in the government archives; from Mrs. J. I. Havemeyer, the history of New London County; from the Massachusetts Publishing Co., "Representative Men of Connecticut"; from Dr. H. R. Stiles, the author, and his co-laborer, Miss R. T. Sperry, the "History and Genealogies of Ancient Windsor"; from the Long Island Historical Society, volumes 1, 2, and 4 of its Memoirs; from James J. Goodwin, the record of marriages in the Reformed Dutch Church in New York city from 1639 to 1801; from R. C. Winthrop, Jr., the speeches and addresses of his father. Miss Lucy A. Brainard, who has been, in point of numbers, our largest donor, has given, besides pamphlets, about 200 old manuscripts, among them a diary written in 1775 which is of much interest. Among other manuscripts received are record books of the Hartford Bridge Company, from P. H. Woodward; records of the disbursing committee of Hartford during the civil war, from Charles S. Ensign; volume of records of the first or separatist Congregational Church in Canterbury, with over 300 miscellaneous papers relating to the separatist movement in New England, from Mr. James Terry. The sword of the late George S. Burnham, colonel of the twenty-second Connecticut volunteers, was presented by his heirs. By Mrs. M. E. Gould of East Granby, was presented a beautiful Chinese embroidered shawl. From Dr. Walker was received a beautiful series of photographs of Hertford, England. A maul used by Abraham Lincoln in splitting rails was presented by Mr. J. F. Morris.

Among the new genealogies acquired are Blackman, Buck, Burbeen, Burt, Champion, Doolittle, Hoadley, Leete, Lincoln, Randall, Start, Thayer ancestry, and Tomlinson.

During the year a little cataloguing of local histories has been done, but the wants of readers, the correspondence, and other daily duties of the library, and the making of considerable copy for a forthcoming volume of Collections, have for the most part prevented cataloguing except to keep up in the departments already commenced.

As to duplicates, I can only repeat what was said in a previous report, that they are many in number, some of them quite valuable, and that some course should be taken to dispose of at least a part of them.

Appended to this report will be found a list of our principal books and pamphlets relating to Connecticut local history.

Respectfully,

ALBERT C. BATES,

Librarian.

By-Laws of the Society.

[In force, May, 1896.]

I. MEMBERS.

1. The Society shall consist of Resident, Corresponding, and Honorary Members.

Resident members shall be persons residing in the State of Connecticut; and no others shall be entitled to vote in any meeting of the Society.

Honorary and corresponding members shall be persons residing out of the State of Connecticut, and shall not be subject to any admission fee or tax.

Honorary members shall be persons who may have rendered important public service to the State of Connecticut, or to the cause of historic inquiry, or literature generally.

2. No person shall be voted for as an honorary, corresponding, or resident member, until at least one month after his nomination by the Committee on Membership; and every such vote shall be taken by ballot, at a regular meeting, at which not less than ten members are present.

3. Every nomination for the election of honorary or corresponding members shall be based on the application, in writing, of two resident members, stating the reason for such nomination, and the qualifications of the persons proposed for membership.

4. Whenever a vote shall be taken on the admission of a member, and there shall be found two ballots against his admission, the presiding officer shall declare the election postponed. At the next regular meeting, if the recommendation of the committee shall be renewed, he may be admitted by the votes of two-thirds of the members present.

5. Resident members shall pay, on admission, three dollars, and two dollars every subsequent year, if they reside within, and one dollar if they reside without, the limits of the town of Hartford; or, in lieu thereof, any person entitled to be a member may constitute himself a life member by paying at one time the sum of twenty-five dollars.

6. Should any person elected as a resident member omit to signify his acceptance of such election within one month after receiving notice thereof, and to pay the admission fee, he shall forfeit the privilege of becoming a member. The payment of the annual assessment shall hereafter constitute a condition of continued membership, and the neglect or refusal to pay the same for the period of six months after the annual meeting of the Society shall be deemed a withdrawal from the Society.

7. A copy of the by-laws shall be presented, within one month after the adoption of this by-law, by the Recording Secretary, to every resident member, to be signed and returned to the Secretary; and members who shall subscribe the same shall thereafter be considered as accepting the provision respecting the annual assessment and the conditions of membership.

II. OFFICERS.

1. The Officers of the Society, to be elected at the annual meeting by ballot, and to hold their offices for one year and until others shall be chosen, shall be — a President, not exceeding eight Vice-Presidents, a Recording Secretary, a Corresponding Secretary, a Treasurer, a Committee on Membership, to consist of seven members; Committees on the Library, and on Publication, each to consist of three members.

5. Annual Address.

WHEN I accepted the presidency of this Society, to which your kindness had elected me, I expressed my fears that it would not be possible to give to the Society so much time as should be given. Those fears have been realized, and what leisure other duties permitted has been largely absorbed in preparing for publication the Revolutionary Records of the State.

I am indebted to Mr. Bates, our Librarian, for the statistics of the Society for the year past.

MEMBERSHIP.

Our present number is 345, comprising 321 resident members, of whom 55 are life members, 5 honorary members, and 19 corresponding members. During the year 32 resident members have been elected, one of whom has constituted herself a life member; and two members formerly chosen have done the same. Eight resident members have died, one of whom was a life member.

Of the resident members who have died, the first in order of admission is HENRY A. CHITTENDEN, who died at Montclair, N. J., May 23, 1895. He was born in the ancestral homestead, Guilford, April 29, 1816. At an early age he began a business career in New Haven, and came thence to Hartford, where he was a prosperous merchant and a leading spirit in the temperance cause. He built the block on the south corner of Main and Morgan streets, where his dry-goods store was. From Hartford he went to New York city, where he was in the wholesale dry goods business, removing thence in 1858 to Montclair, N. J. He was a pioneer in the anti-slavery movement and active in the "underground railroad," and once narrowly escaped lynching in consequence of his prominence in that work.

In 1845 he issued A Reply to the Charge of Heresy, a pamphlet still in circulation in its two hundredth edition.

His wife and six children survive him.

Mr. Chittenden's death leaves but one (Curtis Judson) surviving "Athenæum Member" of this Society. These persons were in 1842 admitted life members in consideration of subscriptions to a certain amount for the erection of the Wadsworth Athenæum.

JOHN W. STEDMAN, admitted Oct. 5, 1875, late President of the Society, died at his home in this city Feb. 10, 1896, aged 76. He learned the trade of a printer with Philemon Canfield and with Case, Tiffany & Co. When 24 years of age he went to Norwich, where he continued in the printing and publishing business until 1870. He held the important offices of Bank Commissioner and of Insurance Commissioner, and in 1880, after his return to Hartford, was chosen Secretary and Treasurer of the State Savings Bank, which position he held until his death.

He was the editor of the Report of the Celebration of Norwich, Connecticut, on the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the Settlement of the Town, September 7 and 8, 1859.

The Society passed the following resolution at its April meeting: —

The Society passed the following resolution at its April meeting: —

The Connecticut Historical Society places on record its sense of the great loss which it has sustained in the death of its former President, the Hon. John W. Stedman. He was always interested in the purposes and the work of the Society; and in particular while he was its President he ungrudgingly devoted both time and labor to promote its usefulness. Under his administration its membership was largely increased and its meetings became a potent influence in encouraging historical research. Genial, kindly, and earnest, his very presence inspired confidence and good will. He will long be missed in this Society and elsewhere as a counselor and friend.

Resolved, That this minute be entered upon the records of the Society, and that a copy of the same be transmitted to Mrs. Stedman.

Irving Whitall Lyon, M.D., admitted April 6, 1886, died suddenly at his home in this city March 3, 1896. As a man and a friend he was honored and respected by all who knew him. In his profession he stood high. He had been chosen by his associates as president of the Hartford County Medical Society, and had been medical examiner of the Hartford Life and Annuity Company since the formation of the company. In the midst of his busy professional life he found time to gratify his antiquarian tastes, and in 1891 he published as the result of years of research his Colonial Furniture of New England, a volume which at once became the recognized authority upon its subject and made its author known throughout this country and Europe. As soon as this work was published he began upon another, which would have added still further to his renown, and which his sudden death has left uncompleted. This last was a study of the architecture of the early houses of New England.

Rev. Edward Alfred Smith, admitted March 5, 1889, a resident of Hartford for the past eight years, died Oct. 26, 1895. He was born in East Woodstock,

REV. EDWARD ALFRED SMITH, admitted March 5, 1889, a resident of Hartford for the past eight years, died Oct. 26, 1895. He was born in East Woodstock,

Conn., in 1835, but passed his early years in New York; was graduated from Yale in 1856, and from Andover Theological Seminary in 1859, after which he studied at German universities. He was in the service of the United States Sanitary Commission in 1864, and in 1865 began to preach in Chester, Mass., where he remained until 1874, when he was installed over the church in Farmington, Conn., continuing there until ill health forced him to resign in 1887. He was elected a member of the Yale corporation in 1889.

Rev. Dr. Lewis H. Reid, admitted Dec. 3, 1889, died at his home on Atwood street, Monday, July 10, 1895, in the seventy-first year of his age. He was born in Charlestown, N. H., in 1825, and early entered upon a mercantile career in New York city. Relinquishing his business prospects, he was graduated from Yale College in 1847, and from Union Theological Seminary in 1850. His first pastorate was at Fayetteville, N. Y.; in 1862 he accepted a church in Syracuse, N. Y., and six years later was called to Chicago. In 1874 ill health forced him to give up his pastorate, and for the past fifteen years he has been engaged in teaching, coming to Hartford in 1888. He has published three volumes of sermons and many excellent tracts. His wife and three sons survive him.

Hon. Thomas Warham Loomis, of Windsor, admitted Oct. 7, 1890, died Aug. 3, 1895. He was of the seventh generation from Joseph Loomis, the emigrant ancestor, and lived on the same homestead where the six generations before him had lived, which lot had been "granted" to the first settler "on Plymouth meadow and upland adjoining" (called the Island because it is surrounded by water in freshet time).

Conn., in 1832, but passed his early years in New York; was graduated from Yale in 1856, and from Andover Theological Seminary in 1859, after which he studied at German universities. He was in the service of the United States Sanitary Commission in 1864, and in 1865 began to preach in Chester, Mass., where he remained until 1874, when he was installed over the church in Farmington, Conn., continuing there until ill health forced him to resign in 1887. He was elected a member of the Yale corporation in 1889.

Rev. Dr. Lewis H. Reid, admitted Dec. 3, 1889, died at his home on Atwood street, Monday, July 10, 1895, in the seventy-first year of his age. He was born in Charlestown, N. H., in 1823, and early entered upon a mercantile career in New York city. Relinquishing his business prospects, he was graduated from Yale College in 1847, and from Union Theological Seminary in 1850. His first pastorate was at Fayetteville, N. Y.; in 1862 he accepted a church in Syracuse, N. Y., and six years later was called to Chicago. In 1874 ill health forced him to give up his pastorate, and for the past fifteen years he has been engaged in teaching, coming to Hartford in 1888. He has published three volumes of sermons and many excellent tracts. His wife and three sons survive him.

Mr. Loomis was a farmer by occupation. He held the office of Judge of Probate for Windsor district, served in both branches of the Legislature, and took an active part in the affairs of the town; in politics a Democrat.

His only son having died in 1884, and there being no male heirs living among the grandchildren of his uncle, the late Col. James Loomis of Windsor, the original homestead has been dedicated to the purposes of education, with a large fund ultimately to come into the hands of the Loomis Institute, a corporation chartered for the purpose.

CHARLES J. COLE, ESQ., admitted June 6, 1891, was born in Chatham in 1839, and his boyhood was spent in East Berlin. In 1863 he graduated at the Harvard Law School, and the following year established himself in legal business in Hartford. He was a successful corporation lawyer, and also paid particular attention to points of constitutional law. He was a man of energy and tireless industry in his profession. As a useful citizen and an upright man he was highly esteemed by all. His death occurred at Norfolk, Aug. 16, 1895. He leaves a wife and three children.

PROF. DANIEL CADY EATON, of New Haven, admitted May 1, 1894, died June 29, 1895, in the 61st year of his age. While in Yale College he was already a zealous student of botany, and the three years after graduation were spent in the Lawrence Scientific School of Harvard University, where he received the degree of Bachelor of Science in 1860. During the civil war he was in the service of the U. S. Commissary Department as clerk and inspector of subsistence stores in New York City. Professorship of Botany at Yale, which he held until his death. His instruction was mainly given in connection with the Sheffield Scientific School. Professor Eaton published many botanical papers, chiefly in reference to ferns, the cryptogamic plants being his special field of study. His most elaborate single publication was a standard work on the Ferns of North America, in two quarto volumes (1879–80). His knowledge was exact and minute and remarkably at his command, and was seconded by a clear and precise literary style. The same qualities shone in his work as a teacher, and corresponded to the whole manifestation of his transparently pure and upright life.

During the year the death of two corresponding members not heretofore reported has been brought to our notice: one, Fred A. King, of Rhode Island and Canton (China). Mr. King and Henry M. Olmsted (who is still living), both at the time residents of Canton, were elected to membership in June, 1847. The other death hitherto unreported was that of Edward Herrick, Jr., of Athens, Pa., which occurred in 1890. He was elected Oct. 7, 1862, when, through the late D. W. Patterson, he presented to the Society the original MS. records of the Susquehanna Company in several volumes.

The only corresponding member whom we know to have died during the year is Philip Ripley, elected June 3, 1862, who died in New York city, Jan. 26, 1896. Mr. Ripley was born in Hartford, the youngest son of Hon. Philip Ripley, sometime Mayor of Hartford and a member of this Society. The younger Ripley was graduated A.B. at Union College in 1848, and the next year took the same degree at Trinity, where he had formerly been a student. He began his work as a

PAPERS BEFORE THE SOCIETY.

At the October meeting, 1895, Mr. J. G. Woodward read a paper on The Havana Expedition, 1762. The paper was prepared by Major Asa Bird Gardner and procured from him by the president, with permission to read it before the Society. Very little is known of the details of this expedition, in which the mortality was frightful.

The paper at the November meeting was by Hon. Orville H. Platt, U. S. Senator from Connecticut, on The Encounter in Congress between Matthew Lyon, a Representative from Vermont, and Roger Griswold, a Representative from Connecticut, — the first Congressional fracas. It gave a very interesting picture of the times.

On Dec. 3 a paper was read by Mr. Lemuel Welles of Newington, on The Causes which Led to the Constitutional Convention of Connecticut in 1818. Mr. Welles' paper was based almost entirely on original contemporary manuscript material.

The first meeting of 1896 was entertained by Mr. Homer W. Brainard with a paper on David Brainerd, the Missionary, which showed a close and careful study of the life of that famous man.

At the February meeting an interesting and instructive paper was presented by Judge Sherman W. Adams on The Native Wild Mammals of Connecticut.

At the April meeting Rev. Dr. William Copley Winslow, one of our corresponding members, favored us with an interesting paper on Edward Winslow and his Leadership in the Plymouth Colony.

The last paper for the year, May 5, was by Mr. Joseph G. Woodward, on General Samuel Holden Parsons: Was he a Traitor? A vindication of one of Connecticut's most famous Revolutionary leaders from certain charges lately made against his honor.

FIELD-DAY.

(The account of the Field-Day is taken from the report of the committee.)

The Field-Day committee, appointed by the President, consisted of B. R. Allen, C. S. Davidson, J. G. Woodward, J. C. Hills, and H. P. Hitchcock. On May 14 they reported that the annual excursion would occur June 11, 1895, visiting Groton and New London, Conn.

June 11 was a charming day, and a party of about fifty took the 6.40 a. m. train on the Valley road, in a private car, for New London. Arriving at Saybrook the party was met by the Hon. John Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hart, and others, who pointed out to the party the original site of Yale College, the old Fort, and Lady Fenwick's tomb. At New London the party took carriages for Groton, visiting the Monument, the Fort, and the Bill Library, where the sword of Col. Ledyard was exhibited. Returning to New London the party took the shore drive to the Pequot House, where dinner was served and short addresses made by P. H. Woodward, Rev. J. H. Twichell, J. L. Denison, and J. C. Ware. Continuing the drive after dinner, interesting places of historic days were visited, one of special interest being the old "Winthrop Mill,"

The "Ancientest" burying-ground was visited, where the Hon. Augustus Brandagee, who could not join us, sent his compliments and a historic pamphlet for each member of the party.

The return trip was by the Valley road, reaching Hartford about 8.30 p. m.

The laughable incident of the day was when Mr. J. F. Morris thought he discovered the remains of the Saybrook platform.

PUBLICATIONS.

The Publication Committee is enabled to lay before us this evening the second and final volume of the Talcott Papers, which forms volume V. of our collections. The edition will be ready for distribution in a few days. It is to be hoped that within a reasonable time the correspondence of other Connecticut colonial governors now in our manuscript vault may be published.

Some progress has been made on another volume of Collections, about half of the book being now in type. Copy is in preparation for still another volume, to contain the early votes of the town of Hartford prior to 1716. The expense of this latter volume is defrayed by the liberality of one of our members.

During the year the Ruth Wyllys chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and the Society of Colonial Wars in the State of Connecticut have held meetings in the Society's hall; and the Connecticut Society of Colonial Dames of America has lately given a worthy and interesting exhibition of colonial historical relics in our lower room.

A larger proportion than in the previous year of the money appropriated for the purchase and binding of books has been expended in buying books, with the result that a considerable number of genealogies and local histories has been added to our shelves.

A resolve was passed by the General Assembly in 1895, that every town clerk should examine carefully the town records of his town, and make a true copy of all that relates to the Revolutionary War in such records, between the year 1774 and the year 1784 inclusive, and mail the same to the State Librarian. There are 168 towns, of which 80 were incorporated before 1785; 63 of these towns have complied with the resolve by sending in copies of their revolutionary records; seven said they had no such records, and ten made no report at all. I have been unable to find leisure to examine these copies.

A newspaper paragraph informs us of the discovery of an old town record book of Fairfield, which it seems was secreted in 1779 when the British invaded that town, and had not been since seen. I have not particulars as to this record book, but have understood that a partial copy had been in the possession of the town for many years, and that the copyist had omitted all matters relating to the church and school.

The reports of the Treasurer and the Librarian will be laid before you, which will furnish you with various details as to the condition of the Society.

Librarian's Report.

Mr. President and Members of the Society:

THE year now brought to a close has differed in no especial manner from the year preceding it. The average number of readers has been about the same, and practically the same lines of research have been pursued. During the winter months the greatest use of the library occurs, the daily average of readers, at that period, being about 25, from 12 to 16 of them being present at one time. A noticeable increase has occurred in the number of readers from out of town who make use of the library. Hardly a week passes without bringing readers from other towns, while not infrequently they come from other and distant States.

As heretofore, family history and genealogy has occupied the attention of a great majority of our readers, and our library appears to be a most fertile field for the growth of the family tree. In a few cases the tree springs up full grown almost in a day; but usually the growth is slow with long periods of vexatious and enforced rest, and a stunting of occasional branches.

The number of books of genealogy and local history which the present interest in such matters has caused to be published recently is very large, and to keep up with them, as they are issued, would mean an expense of several times the amount the Society now spends annually for books. As a consequence we are gradually falling behind, and an immediate extra expenditure of at least a thousand dollars is needed to bring our library up to date in the recently published genealogies and local histories.

Last autumn the library committee planned to sell at auction the numerous duplicate books and pamphlets which have so long encumbered our shelves and yielded us no income; but unfortunately, the illness of the librarian prevented this from being done. This spring, however, the work was undertaken, and thirteen cases were packed and shipped to the auction room, where they were sold on Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

The Patterson library, which the kindness and liberality of our members and friends enabled us to obtain, was quite fully described in my report for 1894. Its value becomes more and more evident as time goes on. Not a day passes but that some of the books from it are used. This magnificent donation added to our library over eight hundred volumes and almost eleven hundred pamphlets, as well as seventy-five manuscript genealogies, and a large amount of miscellaneous genealogical notes and scraps. In addition, the debt contracted at the time of the purchase of the library has been reduced about $250; and 450 duplicate volumes and 300 duplicate pamphlets have been sent to the auction room. The proceeds from the sale of these will, it is hoped, almost if not quite cancel the remainder of the debt.

Let me call your attention to one matter which greatly interested me. A gentleman who was doing some literary work in this city stumbled, almost by accident, upon our collection of works relating to English history. On looking over our various series of old chronicles, debates, state papers and trials, and the old standard histories, from all of which the later writers have drawn much of their material, his amazement was very evident. "Why," he exclaimed, "I had no idea such a collection of the standard English historical works could be found in this country outside of a few of the largest libraries; now I shall be easily able to do work here that I had expected to do in the British Museum." Among these works may be named Rymer's Fœdera, the Somers Tracts on history and constitution, Hargrave's State Trials, Rushworth's Historical Collections, Thurloe's State Papers, and various 16th to 18th century histories and chronicles, such as Rapin, Tindal, Guthrie, Kennet, Smollett, Granger, Baker, Holinshed, and Speed. This is a side of our library that is little known, and so not appreciated.

Let me call your attention to one matter which greatly interested me. A gentleman who was doing some literary work in this city stumbled, almost by accident, upon our collection of works relating to English history. On looking over our various series of old chronicles, debates, state papers and trials, and the

As showing the richness of our library I note the fact that that great treasure-house of books, the Lenox Library, was pleased to send bids to the auction-room for not a few of our duplicates.

For some time our ever-active member, Miss Lucy Brainard, had been in correspondence with Miss Clara Field of Stockbridge, Mass., concerning the books and manuscripts left by the Rev. David Dudley Field, and his son David Dudley; and the very generous offer was made by Miss Field, in behalf of the family, to give to this Society such of them as would be acceptable. One dull rainy day, almost a year ago, I took the train for Stockbridge in a somewhat downcast mood for fear the books would be found not worth the trouble and expense of the trip. As the train crawled slowly up the hills towards Norfolk the sun came out in all the beauty of a June afternoon, and my hopes revived correspondingly. Arriving at the beautiful old town of Stockbridge just before evening, my anticipation would hardly let me wait the passing of supper

This is a side of our library that is little known, and so not appreciated.

As showing the richness of our library I note the fact that that great treasure-house of books, the Lenox Library, was pleased to send bids to the auction-room for not a few of our duplicates.

For some time our ever-active member, Miss Lucy Brainard, had been in correspondence with Miss Clara Field of Stockbridge, Mass., concerning the books and manuscripts left by the Rev. David Dudley Field, and his son David Dudley; and the very generous offer was made by Miss Field, in behalf of the family, to give to this Society such of them as would be acceptable. One dull rainy day, almost a year ago, I took the train for Stockbridge in a somewhat downcast mood for fear the books would be found not worth the trouble and expense of the trip. As the train crawled slowly up the hills towards Norfolk the sun came out in all the beauty of a June afternoon, and my hopes revived correspondingly. Arriving at the beautiful old town of Stockbridge just before evening, my anticipation would hardly let me wait the passing of supper hour before starting in search of treasures. The next scene is one corner of a barn floor, where the dim light of a lantern revealed books which, in number and interest, were beyond my fondest hopes. They included many early American theological and religious works, early American imprints, local histories, genealogies, and the miscellaneous books which would naturally be found in the library of the Rev. David Dudley Field. The manuscripts, of which there are many hundreds, include, besides many letters, the miscellaneous historical jottings from the pen of the author of the "Statistical Account of the County of Middlesex in Connecticut," and "History of Berkshire County, Massachusetts." No time was lost the next day — a helper with a team was engaged, boxes were procured, 600 volumes securely packed and carted to the freight depot; and late in the evening I arrived in Hartford bringing with me the large basket of manuscripts. Many of the books were of great interest to our readers, and the whole formed, with the exception of the Patterson Library, the largest donation of books and manuscripts ever secured at one time by the Society. It was a worthy gift from a worthy family.

During the year we have received numerous gifts from persons who are not members of and are in no way identified with the Society, some residing in the city and others in distant States. This is very gratifying as showing an extended, and I think an increasing, interest in the Society and its work. Strange as it may seem, the various small local publications which form the present-day history of this city and vicinity are often very difficult to obtain. Certain of such publications, which are seldom if ever sent to us, are regularly sent to various distant historical societies and libraries. Let me once more remind you that for our accessions we are largely dependent upon our friends, and that hardly anything comes amiss as an addition to our library and collections.

The accessions during the year, exclusive of the manuscripts which will be noted later, have been,—by donation, 1,045 volumes, 353 pamphlets, and 41 miscellaneous; by exchange, 117 volumes, 286 pamphlets; by purchase, 64 volumes and 7 pamphlets: a total of 1,226 volumes, 646 pamphlets and 41 miscellaneous, or 1,913 pieces in all besides the manuscripts.

The purchases during the year have been as follows:

Brookhaven, N. Y., records.

DECEASED MEMBERS.

Roland Mather, admitted November 5, 1844, was born at Westfield, Mass., May 31, 1809, and died at his residence in Hartford, May 10, 1897. He was descended from Rev. Richard Mather, from whom were also descended the famous divines, Increase and Cotton Mather. In 1828 Mr. Mather came to Hartford, and from that time until 1851, when he retired from active business, he was engaged in a large and successful wholesale dry goods and commission business; for the greater part of the time under the firm name of Howe, Mather & Co., and for a lesser time in association with the late Junius S. Morgan, as Mather, Morgan & Co. Mr. Mather showed great ability in the management of trust funds and was a director in many of Hartford's leading corporations, serving on the boards of the Ætna Insurance Company and Hartford Bank for more than forty years. PAPERS READ BEFORE THE SOCIETY.

The following papers, written by our members, have been read at our regular monthly meetings during the year:

At the October meeting, 1896, by Rev. George H. Clark, on Social Life on our Southern Coast as it was before the Late War. A pleasing picture of southern home life and hospitality.

The paper at the next meeting was by Jonathan Trumbull, on The First Commissary-General of the Continental Army. A sketch of the life and labors of Joseph Trumbull.

A charmingly written paper on Elihu Burritt was read by Miss Ellen Strong Bartlett at the December meeting.

In January, Judge William Hamersley read on The Evolution of the Judiciary of Connecticut. It was a learned historical study.

At the next meeting Some Revolutionary Letters of Captain Roger Welles of Newington were read by his great-grandson, Edwin Stanley Welles. They illustrated the life of a colonial officer during the Revolution.

At the March meeting a paper written by the late Mrs. Ellen Terry Johnson, on The House of Hope of the First Connecticut Settlers, was read by Mr. P. H. Woodward. It described the early Dutch settlement of Hartford.

On April 6, Mrs. Emily Chauncey Curtis read an interesting paper on The Life and Services of Colonel John Ely of Saybrook in the War of the Revolution.

The May paper was by Judge Sherman W. Adams on The Lost Islands of Old Wethersfield. A historical description of three Connecticut river islands which have long since disappeared.

FIELD DAY.

The field day was held June 17, when the Society accepted the invitation of the Connecticut Society of the Sons of the American Revolution to be present at the exercises at the unveiling of a commemorative tablet in the old Trumbull War Office at Lebanon. All who attended reported an enjoyable time.

PUBLICATIONS.

A small number of copies of a "Proclamation for Reformation, etc.," passed by the General Assembly, June 18, 1776, and sometimes referred to as Connecticut's Declaration of Independence, have been printed with all erasures and interlineations from the original document, which is in our collection of Governor Jonathan Trumbull manuscripts.

The annual report for 1896, a pamphlet of fifty pages, contains the usual information relative to the Society and its work for the year.

Volume V. of our Collections, an advance copy of which was laid before the Society at its last annual meeting, has been bound and distributed to our exchanges. The historical importance of this second and final volume of the correspondence of Governor Joseph Talcott has been clearly presented in an able review by one of our corresponding members in the Courant of November 19, 1896.

In my last address it was noted that copy was in preparation for another volume of Collections to contain the early town votes of Hartford down to 1716. This important volume is now all in type except the index, and will be ready for issue in a few weeks.

On January 25, 1897, a celebration almost national in its scope was given to our honored ex-president, Dr. Henry Barnard, in the Hall of the House of Representatives on the occasion of his eighty-sixth birthday. Dr. Barnard is our oldest member both in years and in membership. He was active in the re-organization of the Society in 1839, and became a member at that time, and was its president from 1854 to 1860. Dr. Barnard's life-long work in the field of education was fittingly celebrated in this gathering of prominent educators from all parts of the country who hail him as the founder of the present system of common school education in the United States.

By invitation of the Hartford librarians the annual meetings of the Connecticut and New England Library Associations were held in this building on February 3; the general meeting being held and the papers presented in our rooms. About 175 librarians and interested friends were in attendance. The papers read were of interest and value; and the opportunity given to appreciative persons from other places to inspect our library and miscellaneous collections cannot but be of benefit to us.

Within a few weeks the Bishop of London has delivered to United States Ambassador Thomas F. Bayard, to be by him delivered to the Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the original manuscript of William Bradford's history of the Plymouth Colony, sometimes, though incorrectly, known as the log-book of the Mayflower. This document, a foundation of New England history, formed long ago a part of the New England library which was deposited by Rev. Thomas Prince in the steeple room of the Old South Church in Boston. More than a hundred years ago it disappeared from that collection and was found in 1855 in the library of Fulham Palace near London, Rev. John S. Barry thinking he recognized some citations from it in Bishop S. Wilberforce's (Oxford) History of the Protestant Episcopal Church in America.

Robert C. Winthrop, Jr., of Boston, has recently made a very important and valuable donation to Yale College. It consists of sixty-six manuscript letters and documents relating to early New England history. Many of them are previous to 1650. Among them are autograph documents of Governors Haynes, Hopkins, Leete, Saltonstall, Winthrop, Talcott, and Treat, of John Davenport, Theophilus Eaton, Lion Gardiner, George Fenwick, Captain John Mason, Captain William Whiting, Sir Edmond Andros, Roger Williams, and Cotton Mather.

During the week of May 24–31, 1896, the First Congregational Church of Danbury, celebrated its bi-centennial anniversary. The proceedings have been published in book form. The First Church of Old Saybrook celebrated its 250th anniversary on July 1, 1896. The proceedings and addresses on the occasion have been published.

A recent circular announces that arrangements have been perfected for printing the early records of the Town of Fairfield, from 1649 to 1698.

The Connecticut Quarterly, now in its third year, continues to cover in a very entertaining manner, a portion of the extensive field of Connecticut history.

The much needed work of widening Gold Street and thus improving the present condition of the historic old Centre Church burying ground in this city has been energetically taken up by the Ruth Wyllys Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution. The project seems now in a fair way to be carried through.

The reports of the Treasurer and the Librarian, which will be laid before you, will furnish you with various details as to the condition of the Society.

CHARLES J. HOADLY,
President.

Librarian's Report.

Mr. President and Members of the Society:

BEGINNING on August 17, 1896, when the library was reopened after the summer vacation, the number of readers has been carefully noted. No person has been counted more than once in a day, and no account is made of persons coming in and asking questions, or who, in passing through the library, look into a book as a matter of curiosity. But of actual readers during the last 236 days we have had 4,030, the daily average for the month varying from 10 in August to 23 in February. In 1894 the number of readers during January, February and March was a little less than 1050, while for the same months in 1897 the number was 1571, an increase of one-half in three years.

A matter which deserves the Society's attention is the enormous amount of wear to which our books are now being subjected. Not a few of them are rapidly becoming worn beyond repair, while many are becoming loose in the covers or the covers are getting badly broken; others are becoming dirty and grimy from handling and the edges of the leaves much worn and frayed, with an occasional leaf or signature loosened. A large amount of re-binding and some purchasing to replace worn out books must soon be done.

It is surprising to note the carelessness, or worse, which many readers exhibit in handling and using our books; and it may be doubted if they would use their own books in the same manner. Probably a majority of our readers are not members of, and have no other interest in the Society than that of obtaining all they can from our books; so that, in effect, we are maintaining a free library for the benefit of the public, and the public is rapidly wearing out our books. Were it not for the aid granted us by the State we should be unable to serve the public as we are now doing.

A large amount of re-binding and some purchasing to replace worn out books must soon be done.

It is surprising to note the carelessness, or worse, which many readers exhibit in handling and using our books; and it may be doubted if they would use their own books in the same manner. Probably a majority of our readers are not members of, and have no other interest in the Society than that of obtaining all they can from our books; so that, in effect, we are maintaining a free library for the benefit of the public, and the public is rapidly wearing out our books. Were it not for the aid granted us by the State we should be unable to serve the public as we are now doing.

A large number of our duplicate books and pamphlets were sold at auction by C. F. Libbie & Co., of Boston, on May 20 and 21, 1896. No report from the sale had been received when our last annual meeting was held, the week following the sale. The net return from the sale was $1,379.86. Of this sum $906.53, the proceeds from the sale of Patterson Library duplicates, was credited to the Patterson Library account and indorsed on the Society's note. This leaves a balance due on this account (May 1, 1897) of $184.79, which is about the estimated value of Patterson duplicates still remaining unsold in the Society's hands. About one hundred books and pamphlets which were retained when the Patterson duplicates were being boxed for the sale, have been placed on our shelves. The balance from the sale, $473.33, was, by a vote passed October 6, appropriated to the library committee to be expended in the purchase of books for the library.

Among the more important purchases of the year are genealogies of the following families: Avery, Bartlett, Carpenter, Chatfield, Choate, Clapp, Cogswell, Collin, Davis, Dodge, Felton, Gould, Greene, Hale, Howland, Hull, Huntoon, Johnson, Learned, Leonard, Maltby-Morehouse, Martin, Norris, Orton, Pitts, Rollo, Swift, Thompson, White; also histories of the following places: Antrim, Boscawen and Webster, Chester, Exeter, Fitzwilliam, Gilsum, Hancock, Rochester, Salisbury and Swansey, N. H.; Pittsford, Vt.; Ashburnham, Bedford, Connecticut Valley, Deerfield, Hawley, Holden, Lowell, Lunenburg, Medway, Methuen, Milton, Murrayfield, North Middleborough, Rehoboth, Rutland and Weston, Mass.; Danbury, Hartford County, Montville, North Haven, Seymour, Tolland County and Waterbury, Conn.; Southampton, N. Y.; Salem, N. J.; and Detroit, Mich. Other purchases include Bodge's King Philip's War, English's Conquest of the Northwest, Perry's History of the Church in Pennsylvania, Stone's Our French Allies, Kings County Genealogical Club publications, Bunker's Long Island Genealogies, Barber's New York Historical Collections, Baxter's New France in New England.

an arrangement has been made with the Hartford Scientific Society by which that society has placed in the east end of our lower room the ornithological collection which it has recently acquired from the heirs of the late Dr. William Wood of South Windsor. Cases have been built and the collection has been unpacked and placed in the cases, and is now being arranged and catalogued for exhibition. It is hoped that this will prove to be a first step towards the establishment of a museum worthy of the city.

The following letter, written more than half a century ago by the Society's then president, is not without interest to-day:—

HARTFORD, Dec. 16th, 1840.

Dear Sir:

Your very acceptable and interesting letter of the 14th inst. has been received. The Historical Society will place a high value on the documents you propose to communicate. We have lately received from the administrator of the late Wm. T. Williams of Lebanon three large trunks filled with original letters and other documents that belonged to the first Gov. Trumbull and his son-in-law, Col. Wm. Williams. Among them are letters to and from Gov. Saltonstall, Gov. Talcott, Gov. Law, Gov. Roger Wolcott, the first Gov. Trumbull and others. We now feel that we have got something that those who come after us will think worth taking care of. I hope myself to live to see a suitable fire-proof building erected to receive and preserve them. Indeed, I have full confidence that it will be done shortly.

Accept my thanks in behalf of the C. H. S., my grateful acknowledgments of your past kindness to myself, and the assurance of my entire respect and sincere friendship. THOMAS DAY.

During the year the Connecticut Society of Colonial Dames of America has deposited with us a number of important genealogical works which that society has recently purchased, and which were not previously on our shelves. This deposit is a very pleasing recognition of, and return for, the privilege accorded to all in the free use of this Society's library. The books deposited are:—

Browning's Americans of Royal Descent, 4th edition, 1897, 2 vols.
Ladd's Ladd Family, 1890.
Ely's Descendants of Nathaniel Ely, 1885.
Pierce's Whitney Genealogy, 1895.
Kulp's Families of the Wyoming Valley, 1885–89, 3 vols.

A volume of manuscript and print obtained by exchange is of considerable interest. The volume was formed by roughly sewing the material into a rude parchment cover. It contains in manuscript "the spiritual travels of Nathan Cole" of Kensington, who "was born Feb. 15th, 1711 and born again octo 1741," which gives a spirited account of Whitefield's preaching in Connecticut, and other religious writings and poetry(?). There is also given a copy of the membership roll from 1747, to October, 1777, containing 117 names, of a church which "began to covenant together" at Wethersfield in January, 1747. This church, originally formed as a "Separatist" church, is now the Second Congregational Church of Middletown and all of its records previous to 1780 are lost. The printed matter in the volume includes Rev. Samuel Wakeman's Connecticut election sermon of 1685 (slightly imperfect); Israel Holly's sermon at Suffield in 1773, after the news of the destruction of "a large quantity of tea" at Boston; Jacob Johnson's Zion's Memorial, 1765, which appears to be of much rarity; Extracts from votes of American Congress, New London, 1774; Considerations with respect to the British Colonies in North America, Hartford, 1774; A congratulatory letter from a gentleman in the West to his friend in the East, New Haven, 1755.

Nathan Whiting, whose portrait hangs on our walls, was born in 1724, the son of Rev. Samuel Whiting, of Windham, graduated at Yale College in 1743, and settled in New Haven as a merchant. In February, 1745, he was appointed "ensign of a company in the regiment of foot to be raised and sent from this government against his Majesty's enemies of Cape Breton," and was commissioned as such March 16. On December 9, while in garrison at Louisbourg, he was made a lieutenant in Colonel Pepperel's regiment of the British army. In 1755 he was appointed lieutenant colonel in the 2d Connecticut regiment, and later, a colonel. He died at New Haven in 1771. In March, 1745, Jeremiah Miller, Jr., of New London, was appointed commissary for the Cape Breton or Louisbourg expedition, and in the following August the General Assembly desired him "to continue in his office of commissary there." But a little later, possibly in the latter part of September, Mr. Miller gave to Nathan Whiting "a power of attorney to act as

But a little later, possibly in the latter part of September, Mr. Miller gave to Nathan Whiting "a power of attorney to act as commissary of the stores and muster rols," as is shown by a manuscript which has recently come to light among our French War papers. This manuscript, a small book of fifteen leaves indorsed Commissary's Book, contains "A List of The Officers & Men In the Connecticutt Regiment When Mr. Miller Left The Care of the Stores with me" (Whiting). The pages have the following headings: "Men's Names, Dismissed, Dead, Deserted, Advanced, Exchanged;" and show to whose company each man belonged. The list contains about 470 names, and forms practically a complete semi-official roll of the Connecticut land force at the siege of Louisbourg. The present general interest in the prerevolutionary American wars makes its discovery at this time an important incident.

During the year two boxes of books and pamphlets have been sent to Boston for binding. The results, in style, finish, apparent durability, and price, appear to justify the experiment.

Miss Helen E. Smith of New York City has presented us with the correspondence and papers of her grandfather, John Cotton Smith, Governor of Connecticut from 1813 to 1817, and for some years an honorary member of this Society. This correspondence consists of about 1,750 letters to, and drafts of letters by, Governor Smith covering the whole period of his active life. It is especially full during the period of his governorship, which covered the time of the War of 1812. The official correspondence of the State's executive at that time cannot but be of interest; in fact, it is almost the history of the State's part in the war. Many letters relate to the militia and their doings, describe their uniforms, the changes or advancements of their officers, the number of cannon in the State, with their size and where located, and the measures taken for the protection of the coast towns. There are numerous petitions from the coast towns explaining their exposed situation and asking for still further protection against anticipated raids by British men-of-war. The raid up the Connecticut river to Essex and the burning of shipping there to the estimated value of $120,000 is described. The petition of one town asks for the calling of a convention of delegates from the New England States to discuss measures of relief from the present course of the general government—possibly the germ of the famous Hartford convention. A large number of miscellaneous business papers also accompany the letters. Altogether it is a most valuable correspondence and a great historical addition to our manuscript collection.

The Sedgwick family of Sharon has presented us with almost a hundred volumes from the library of the late General Charles F. Sedgwick. They consist of an interesting selection of general and local American history, genealogy, biography, newspapers and miscellaneous works.

So many inquiries are made about the early probate districts of this State, and their various divisions and sub-divisions into new districts, that it has seemed suitable to append to this report a list of the present districts, with a list of the various districts in which each town has been included since its incorporation, and the dates of transfers of towns from one district to another.

Respectfully,

ALBERT C. BATES,
Librarian.

Historical Notes on the Probate Districts of Connecticut.

THE TOWNS comprising the early Hartford and New Haven Colonies were settled under different authorities, and the two colonies maintained separate and distinct governments until their final union under the Connecticut charter in January, 1665.

In the New Haven Colony, which comprised the towns of New Haven, Milford, Guilford, Branford, Southold, and Stamford, the law provided that wills should be proved in the plantation court and recorded in the plantation (town) where the deceased resided, and then filed with and an abstract recorded by the Secretary of the Colony in New Haven. Estates were to be administered under authority of the plantation court where the deceased resided. Wills are recorded on the Stamford records between 1646 and 1695. It is understood that no wills are recorded in the other towns, though there are early probate proceedings on the Guilford records.

In the Connecticut Colony, Hartford and surrounding towns, until 1666 estates were administered under orders of the Particular Court. Until 1649 its doings are recorded in the same volume with the General Court's records, and are included in the first printed volume of Connecticut Colonial Records. Its records from 1650 to 1666, and including the Hartford County Court records to 1677, are in the Secretary's office in the Capitol. The files, however, are in the Hartford Probate office.

As early as 1649 Special Particular Courts were held at Fairfield, and from that time many of the estates of the future Fairfield county were administered under orders of these special courts instead of the regular Particular Court at Hartford. The records of these special courts are in the Fairfield probate office.

Special Particular Courts were also held at New London for several years before the establishment of the County Court in 1666, and some of the estates of the future New London county were administered under orders of these special courts. Their records are with the County Court records at Norwich. On September 6, 1781, when the town was burned by the British the following New London probate records were destroyed: Record of Wills from the beginning; Journals from April, 1763; and files from 1777.

The records of the Inferior Court held at Hartford in 1688 and 1689, during the Andros government, for the Counties of Hartford and New London, which are now in possession of Hon. J. Hammond Trumbull, contain proceedings in the settlement of several estates with records of some wills and inventories.

The General Assembly at its session in May, 1666, established the four counties of Hartford, New London, New Haven and Fairfield, which included all the towns then organized and settled, and ordered that "wills and inventories of persons deceased within any of the counties of this Colony shall be exhibited and proved at the County Court to which the deceased did appertain by his habitation." This was the first actual division of the State into probate districts, although Probate Courts, as such, were not established and separated from the County Courts until 1698, and the limits of the counties and probate districts remained coterminous until 1719.

VII. ALTERATIONS.

Any alteration of these by-laws shall be submitted to a regular meeting, held prior to that on which the vote on the same is taken.

Annual Address.

MEMBERSHIP.

FIFTEEN new members have been elected to the Society during the past year; and five resident members, including three life members, and one honorary and two corresponding members have deceased. This makes the present membership 337, comprising 313 resident members, of whom 52 are life members, 4 honorary, and 20 corresponding members.

Our resident membership is sometimes considered as rather local in character, mostly confined to Hartford. An examination of our rolls will show that such is not the case. Thirty-nine towns, almost one-fourth of the whole number in the State, are represented, and every county is included. Six members who have removed from Connecticut and are now residing in five different States still retain their membership.

DECEASED MEMBERS.

EDWARD WATKINSON WELLS, a life member, admitted October 7, 1845, died at his home on Prospect street, Hartford, April 24, 1898, at the age of 77. He was a man of quiet ways, going about but little, and so was not widely known. He was, however, a public-spirited citizen, and was much interested in charitable work. In time of membership Mr. Wells was one of the earliest members of the Society, only four members, Henry Barnard, Curtis Judson, Gurdon W. Russell, and Jabez H. Hayden, now remaining who antedate him.

JAMES HAMMOND TRUMBULL, a life member, admitted February 16, 1847, corresponding secretary 1848 to 1863, president 1863 to 1889, died August 5, 1897. He was born in Stonington in 1821 and entered Yale College in his seventeenth year, but was obliged to withdraw on account of ill health. In 1847, before which time he had assisted in preparing a list of the birds, fishes, reptiles, and shells of Connecticut, he settled in Hartford and for the next five years was clerk in the office of the Secretary of State, and again from 1858 to 1861;

Edward Watkinson Wells, a life member, admitted October 7, 1845, died at his home on Prospect street, Hartford, April 24, 1898, at the age of 77. He was a man of quiet ways, going about but little, and so was not widely known. He was, however, a public-spirited citizen, and was much interested in charitable work. In time of membership Mr. Wells was one of the earliest members of the Society, only four members, Henry Barnard, Curtis Judson, Gurdon W. Russell, and Jabez H. James Hammond Trumbull, a life member, admitted February 16, 1847, corresponding secretary 1848 to 1863, president 1863 to 1889, died August 5, 1897. He was born in Stonington in 1821 and entered Yale College in his seventeenth year, but was obliged to withdraw on account of ill health. In 1847, before which time he had assisted in preparing a list of the birds, fishes, reptiles, and shells of Connecticut, he settled in Hartford and for the next five years was clerk in the office of the Secretary of State, and again from 1858 to 1861;

and was Secretary of State for the five years next following. In 1854 he became the first State Librarian. In 1863 he was appointed Librarian of the newly founded Watkinson Library, and continued in that capacity until the close of 1890, when he resigned and received the title of emeritus. As a foremost student of the languages of the American Indians he was widely known. He was the author and editor of numerous works and papers, among which are the first three volumes of the Colonial Records of Connecticut, and several works relating to the Indian languages.

William Cothren, admitted November 9, 1852, and beginning in 1857 was for twenty-eight years a vice-president of the Society. He became a life member March 3, 1896. Mr. Cothren was born in Farmington, Me., in 1819, and died in Woodbury, March 11, 1898. He was graduated from Bowdoin College in 1843, received his second degree there in 1846, and in 1847 received the degree of M. A. ad eundem from Yale. Removing to Woodbury, this State, in 1844 he was admitted to the Litchfield County Bar the next year and followed his profession during his whole life, practicing before the U. S. Circuit and Supreme Courts. He was a prominent Mason, a member of several historical societies, and of the Connecticut S. A. R. It was as a local historian and genealogist that Mr. Cothren was perhaps most widely known, his history of Woodbury in three volumes being considered a model of its kind, and being supplemented by several lesser historical works.

John Caldwell Parsons, admitted November 3, 1891, died March 11, 1898. Major Parsons, as he was usually called since his service in that capacity in the Governor's Foot Guard from 1875 to 1877, was a life-long resident of Hartford, and one of its best known and most respected citizens. After being graduated at Yale in 1855 and taking a course at the Harvard Law School he was admitted to the Bar, but his practice was largely that of counsel and advice. Mr. Parsons was of a retiring nature and never sought office; but he filled numerous positions of trust and responsibility, and was widely known for his business sagacity and universally respected for his integrity. He was always interested in whatever was for the advancement of Hartford.

and was Secretary of State for the five years next following. In 1854 he became the first State Librarian. In 1863 he was appointed Librarian of the newly founded Watkinson Library, and continued in that capacity until the close of 1890, when he resigned and received the title of emeritus. As a foremost student of the languages of the American Indians he was widely known. He was the author and editor of numerous works and papers, among which are the first three volumes of the Colonial Records of Connecticut, and several works relating to the Indian languages.

William Cothren, admitted November 9, 1852, and beginning in 1857 was for twenty-eight years a vice president of the Society. He became a life member March 3, 1896. Mr. Cothren was born in Farmington, Me., in 1810, and died at Woodbury, March 11, 1898. He was graduated from Bowdoin College in 1841, received his second degree there in 1846, and in 1847 received the degree of M. A. as a graduate from Yale. Removing to Woodbury, this State, in 1844 he was admitted to the Litchfield County Bar the next year and followed his profession during his whole life, practicing before the U. S. Circuit and Supreme Courts. He was a prominent Mason, a member of several historical societies, and of the Connecticut S. A. R. It was as a local historian and genealogist that Mr. Cothren was perhaps most widely known, his history of Woodbury in three volumes being considered a model of its kind, and being supplemented by several lesser historical works.

John Caldwell Parsons, admitted November 3, 1891, died March 11, 1898. Major Parsons, as he was usually called since his service in that capacity in the Governor's Foot Guard from 1875 to 1877, was a life-long resident of Hartford, and one of its best known and most respected citizens. After being graduated at Yale in 1855 and taking a course at the Harvard Law School he was admitted to the Bar, but his practice was largely that of counsel and advice. Mr. Parsons was of a retiring nature and never sought office; but he filled numerous positions of trust and responsibility, and was widely known for his business sagacity and universally respected for his integrity. He was always interested in whatever was for the advancement of Hartford.

Ann Aurelia Welles, admitted November 1, 1892; born in 1836, and died in this city December 4, 1896. She was a daughter of the late J. Hubbard and Susan (Bennett) Welles, a descendant in the eighth generation of Governor Thomas Welles, and also descended from the Lord, Pitkin, Ellsworth, and other well known families. She was for forty years a member of the South Church, and was always deeply interested in religious and benevolent work and in Home and Foreign Missions.

Elizabeth Chester Bacon, admitted October 2, 1894, widow of Leonard H. Bacon, and mother of Dr. William T. Bacon of this city, died at the home of her son on June 12, 1897. She was daughter of the late Deacon William W. Turner, and was a member of the First Church.

After graduation at Harvard and study in foreign universities he was appointed in 1868 as superintendent of the Boston Public Library, and continued in that capacity until 1877 when he was appointed librarian of Harvard University, which position he held until his death. He was one of the foremost librarians and historical scholars of the country. The most important among his many publications was his "Narrative and Critical History of America."

William Stevens Perry, elected a corresponding member June 2, 1874, died at Dubuque, Iowa, May 13, 1898. He was born at Providence, R. I., in 1832, and after graduation at Harvard was rector at Boston, Mass.; Nashua, N. H.; Portland, Me.; Litchfield, Conn., and Geneva, N. Y., until 1876 when he was elected Bishop of the diocese of Iowa. He was a voluminous and careful writer, especially upon matters concerning the history of the Episcopal Church in this country.

Henry Thayer Drowne, elected a corresponding member January 3, 1888, died at his home in New York city December 10, 1897. He was born in Woodstock, Conn., in 1822, but removed to New York in 1841, where he entered the dry goods business. MEETINGS AND PAPERS.

Our meetings during the year have been almost without exception well attended. At five of them the attendance has been thirty-five members, besides the few friends who almost always drop in to listen to the paper. At one meeting, owing to unpleasant weather, only eighteen members attended.

At the October meeting Captain Charles J. Fuller, on behalf of the Regimental Association of the 13th Connecticut Volunteers, presented to the Society a now tattered and frail but precious relic, the regimental flag presented to the 13th C. V. in 1862 by the loyal women of New Orleans. A paper was read by Thomas Snell Weaver on Col. Eliphalet Dyer of Windham. It was a careful account of his life and public services, and was printed in full in the Courant of October 6.

Attention was called at the next meeting to an interesting case of relics from ancient Egypt, presented by the Egypt Exploration Fund at the request of two of our members who are subscribers to the fund, Charles Dudley Warner and Prof. Charles C. Stearns. A formal vote of thanks was extended to our second vice-president, Mr. James J. Goodwin, for "the signal service rendered by him to all students of Connecticut history in providing for the publication of the first volume of Hartford Town Votes as the sixth volume of the Society's Collections." The paper of the evening was by President George Williamson Smith of Trinity College on The French, the Dutch, and the Six Nations. It was a broad review of the contest for supremacy among the different nationalities inhabiting the present State of New York.

A Sketch of the Development of the Presidential Office in Yale College by Prof. Franklin B. Dexter was the paper at the December meeting. It gave a sketch of each successive presidency, showing the gradual increase of the president's powers and duties.

On January 4th Hon. Lucius P. Deming read on Jack, the Free Slave, telling what little is known of Jack and describing his former owners, with general remarks on slavery in New England.

On January 4th Hon. Lucius P. Deming read on Jack, the Free Slave, telling what little is known of Jack and describing his former owners, with general remarks on slavery in New England.

At the February meeting, which was postponed until the fifteenth of the month, Miss Mary L. Bartlett read a paper on The American Colonies and the Idea of Independence, showing that at first it was freedom of action, not independence, that was sought.

Attention was called at the March meeting to a smelling bottle presented by Mr. Henry Woodward of Middletown, which was formerly the property of Napoleon Bonaparte, and was used by him while at St. Helena. At this meeting an amendment was voted to Article 2, Section 2, of the Society's By-Laws. A paper was read by Prof. Williston Walker, on Rev. John Cotton, giving an interesting sketch of his life and labors, and describing his published works.

A letter was read at the April meeting from Rev. Charles E. Stowe, accompanying the gift from him of the enormous petition signed by more than half a million of the women of England, and presented by them in 1853 to the women of America, urging the abolition of slavery in this country. This petition was formerly the property of his mother, the late Harriet Beecher Stowe.

The paper of the evening was by Mr. Horace Day of New Haven on The Regicides. It gave a detailed account of the troubles in England which culminated in the execution of King Charles.

At the May meeting a paper was read by Albert C. Bates on The Connecticut Gore Land Company. It described the deeding to the company of a tract of land now in New York State in payment for completing the Connecticut State House, and the long controversy that followed ending in the renunciation by Connecticut of her title to the tract.

PUBLICATIONS.

Our sixth volume of Collections, which was noted in my last report as almost through the press, has been completed, and was forwarded to our exchanges last July. Its 339 pages of text contained a careful transcript of all the votes of the Town of Hartford from 1635 to 1716. Suffield no longer has the distinction of being the only town in the State whose early official acts have been printed.

The opening to the public on January 12 of the Wood collection of Connecticut birds and eggs, lately presented to the Hartford Scientific Society, and placed on exhibition in our lower room, has caused a large increase in the number of visitors, particularly children, to the building and to our rooms. The opening was inaugurated with a largely attended illustrated lecture on birds in our Hall by Mr. Frank M. Chapman, assistant curator of the American Museum of Natural History, New York. The collection is now open to the public every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon.

At their session in January, 1897, the General Assembly passed an act adopting a State Flag, which would seem to be not altogether necessary, since we have been able to do without such an act for more than two centuries and a half. Nor, in my judgment, is a rococo design for the shield on which the arms are depicted either in good taste or scientifically correct, nor has it the sanction of antiquity.

A bill was brought before the 1895 session of the General Assembly for the appointment of a Record Commissioner in this State, whose duties should be similar to the duties of the same official in Massachusetts. And, although the bill was received with favor by the committee before whom a hearing on the subject was given, and it was known to have many friends throughout the State, yet it failed to pass. The necessity for such a commissioner continually increases as time goes on. In many of our towns the officials having records in their charge do not appreciate the public value of many of the minor records at least, or the almost national interest which attaches to the oldest records of some of our early settled towns. They are allowed to be carelessly handled by persons who do not appreciate their value—often they are not in the possession of the person who is properly their custodian—while some records, as those of extinct churches, ecclesiastical and school societies, and proprietors of common lands, have no proper custodian. These and many others are now in private hands or in other places where they are much exposed to danger of loss or destruction by carelessness or fire. Many of the earliest records are fast becoming worn beyond the possibility of restoration, and should be copied without delay by some person competent to do the work.

The Reports of the Massachusetts Record Commissioner show that he is doing a work whose value both now and for the future cannot be overestimated; while the Reports themselves are not the least valuable part of his work.

Cannot Connecticut follow the good example of her neighbor State and appoint a person whose duty it shall be to have a general supervision of our records? Can we as a Society, or as individuals, undertake any more important work than to urge in every suitable manner the appointment of a Connecticut Record Commissioner?

A word in conclusion: By your favor I hold the office of president of this Society, an honor which one of my predecessors is reported to have said he would prefer to that of being Governor of the State; and I have held the office by four unanimous elections, for which I return my best thanks to the Society; but I now think it is time for me to retire and let some younger and more efficient person take the place, for before the first meeting after our usual summer vacation I shall have accomplished the age of three-score and ten years, and I am not insensible to various infirmities which the progress of time has brought and left with me: In particular my sight has become so much impaired that I read or write with difficulty, and have been obliged to our secretary, Mr. Bates, for making out the statistics of the Society for this year and the last. So I most respectfully think it would be for the best interests of the Society for me to decline to be considered as a candidate for reëlection at this time.

CHARLES J. HOADLY,
President.

JAMES HAMMOND TRUMBULL.

At the regular meeting of the Society, October 5, 1897, President Hoadly made the following remarks:

"Since our last meeting one of my predecessors has passed away who had filled the office of president of this Society for more than a quarter of a century. The general outline of his life has been published in the newspapers, so that I need not detail it. I have known Dr. Trumbull for nearly fifty years. He was a most industrious person and his information upon almost any and every subject that could be started was very extensive. His memory was ready and his knowledge accurate. I think we shall agree that he was the foremost scholar in Hartford. The State is much indebted to him for editing the first three volumes of our Colonial Records. It is not likely that there was any one living in the State who could have done the work so well, and if any one should say that it could now be better done it is certain that it could not were it not that through Dr. Trumbull's labors we are better acquainted with the earlier settlers. His doctorate was received from three universities, and it is seldom that the degree is so worthily bestowed. The crowning work of Dr. Trumbull's life was the building up of the Watkinson Library. I do not know of any one in Hartford who could have done so well in his position there as he did."

On motion of Dr. Hart it was voted that a committee be appointed to prepare further minutes upon the death of Dr. Trumbull. The committee chosen consisted of Dr. Samuel Hart, Dr. Charles J. Hoadly, and Frank B. Gay.

At the regular meeting of the Society November 3, 1897, F. B. Gay, for the committee appointed at the last meeting, presented the following minute, which was approved and ordered to be entered on the records:

of the Hon. James Hammond Trumbull, LL. D., for more than twenty-five years its president, and long one of its most honored and valued members. And the Society desires to convey to his family the assurance of its respectful sympathy.

of the Hon. James Hammond Trumbull, LL. D., for more than twenty-five years its president, and long one of its most honored and valued members. Conspicuous as he was for his learning in various departments of knowledge, he will always be remembered for his wide acquaintance with the history of this Colony and State, and for the contributions which he made to its published annals. While others will gratefully acknowledge their indebtedness to him in other matters, this Society knows him as an historical student of rare ability, unwearied patience of investigation, and great clearness and accuracy of statement. And the Society desires to convey to his family the assurance of its respectful sympathy.

Librarian's Report.

Mr. President and Members of the Society:

THE year 1897 brought to the library 4,868 readers, a greater number unquestionably than has ever before used the library in any one year, their number varying from 344 in July to 533 in February, and making a daily average for the year of over sixteen and one-half. Unless the library grows beyond present expectation the yearly average of readers will probably not increase beyond this record for 1897. Already, I regret to say, some of our readers from other parts of the State have discovered that we are not keeping up with the new local histories and genealogies as they are issued, and they are beginning to visit other libraries rather than ours. I do not wish to bore you with a statement of the wants of the Society, and will only say that the need for further funds for the increase of the library is great.

Among the books of interest acquired during the year and not elsewhere mentioned are Vivian's Visitations of Devon and the Herts Genealogist and Antiquary, vol. 2, the gift of our vice-president, James J. Goodwin; the 25th volume, the index, of Stevens's Facsimiles of Manuscripts in European Archives relating to America, the gift of the late Junius S. Morgan of London, and without doubt the finest series of reproductions ever issued relating to American history; the Delaware Historical Society has sent us volumes 1 and 2 of its papers and the Records of Holy Trinity Church, Wilmington; the new edition of Miss Sanford's History of Erie Co., Penn., has been sent us by the author; the Berkshire Historical Society's collections were procured by exchange; the publishers, Houghton, Mifflin & Co., have sent the new illustrated edition of Fiske's Critical Period of American History. The Society has also purchased History of Little Nine Partners, New York; Records of New Amsterdam; Hammett Papers; Essex Co. Historical and Genealogical Register; Vital Record of Rhode Island, vol.

Our collection of old almanacs, particularly of Connecticut imprints, is quite extensive, but many issues are yet needed to make the sets complete. Members are requested to have the Society in mind whenever any early almanacs come to their notice.

The Society possesses a small but very representative collection of stone implements and ornaments made and used by the Connecticut Indians. The collection includes mortars, pestles, corn crushers, hoes, axes, celts, spear and arrow points, pipes, pendants, gorgets, ceremonial axes, knives, etc. There are also a few almost invaluable pieces made and used by the Eastern Indians, such as woven cloth, bead and porcupine quill work, copper and shell beads, wampum, bows, clubs, etc. It is very desirable that a local collection such as this should be increased, and any additions to it will be welcomed.

Two large portfolios have been procured, into which have been laid many of our engravings, pictures, and smaller maps.

Attention was called in my last report to "the carelessness, or worse, which many readers exhibit in handling and using our books." The importance of the subject calls for further remark. The books here are freely open to the use of all, and all are welcome, member of the Society or non-member, friend or stranger, resident of Connecticut or of California. They are the Society's and the public's books, not the property of any individual. The individual may use his own books as he pleases; but he has no right to handle the Society's books carelessly or thoughtlessly. Some readers thoughtlessly mark books with ink or pencil, or moisten their fingers to more easily turn the leaves, or turn down parts of leaves. Others force a book to remain open by stretching it until the back cracks, or stretch it open until its covers meet at the back, or place one book upon another which is open, or lay an open book face downwards. These things, as well as the use of pen and ink or the making of tracings except by permission, should be avoided.

My attention has been called to two errors in the "Historical Notes on the Probate Districts of Connecticut," printed as an appendix to my last report. The records of Sharon District previous to 1847 are not in Salisbury, but in Sharon; although the law says that they shall "be deposited with and kept by" the Judge of the District of Salisbury. The Town make the sets complete. Members are requested to have the Society in mind whenever any early almanacs come to their notice.

The Town of Colchester was in New London District until October session, 1708, when it was transferred to Hartford District.

Many questions are asked about the New London Probate records, and in response to an inquiry Judge Coit sends me the following:

The Probate Records are as follows: Journals from May 29, 1700, to April, 22, 1763, and from September 14, 1781, to the present day. The original files are in existence except from 1777 to 1781. These files may not be seen as they are in a dilapidated condition, but they are being copied into record books, which books are accessible to the public. The first paper thus recorded is dated January 16, 1675, and the fourth volume, now completed, extends to 1742. There are very few papers recorded prior to 1700. Our records since 1781 are complete.

A matter worthy of the Society's consideration is that of some better arrangement of our manuscripts. They at present lie in piles and bundles upon the shelves of our manuscript vault. I would suggest the propriety of suitably arranging and binding many of them. Some of the series were mounted preparatory to binding many years ago. It would be an easy matter to have these placed in suitable covers. Others, such as the Gov. John Cotton Smith, the Jeremiah Wadsworth, the Jonathan, Joseph and David Trumbull papers, and other smaller series should be mounted according to more modern methods and suitably bound. Still other manuscripts which are of sufficient size and importance should be separately bound. Seven volumes of the Patterson manuscripts and one presented by Mr. F. H. Parker have already been bound, and some twenty-five other genealogical manuscripts should be similarly treated.

One collection of papers which is well worth binding is that relating to the "Seperatist" movement in this State. The Wadsworth Athenæum has deposited with us a collection of papers on the subject recently presented to it by Prof. and Mrs. S. F. Upham of Madison, N. J. This with the collection presented some three years since by our vice-president, Mr. James Terry, form an interesting lot. It may surprise you to know that there were "Seperate" churches in the following Connecticut towns and villages, and possibly in others: Bozrah, Canaan, Canterbury, Colchester, Cornwall, East Lyme, Enfield, Franklin, Hamden, Killingly, Lyme, Middletown First and Second Churches, Montville, New Milford, North Groton, North Stonington, Norwich, Plainfield, Preston, Prospect,

Annual Address.

MEMBERSHIP.

In the course of the past year the roll of the Society has been increased by the election of nineteen resident members, two of whom have become life members, and one corresponding member; and the names of eight resident members have been removed from the roll by death. The present membership is 347, comprising 322 resident members, of whom 51 are life members, 4 honorary, and 21 corresponding members.

NECROLOGY.

John Williams, elected to membership in 1849, was born in Deerfield, Mass., August 30, 1817, and died at his home in Middletown, February 7, 1899. He was of distinguished New England descent, and received his collegiate education at Harvard and Trinity (then Washington) Colleges, being graduated from the latter in 1835. He studied theology with the eminent Dr. Samuel Farmar Jarvis, and was ordained in 1838. In 1848 he was called from a rectorate in Schenectady, N. Y., to the presidency of his Alma Mater, and in 1851 he was elected Assistant Bishop of Connecticut. Three years later he resigned the presidency of the College, and established at Middletown the Berkeley Divinity School, of which he was Dean until his death. In 1865, on the death of Bishop Brownell, he became the fourth Bishop of Connecticut; in 1887, the Presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church in the United States; and in 1894, the senior by consecration of all the Bishops in communion with the English Church. He rendered distinguished services to the cause of academic and theological education, and was one of the best known and most highly honored citizens of Connecticut. He travelled more than three hundred thousand miles in the State, and was familiar with its topography and its civil and ecclesiastical history, in which he took great interest, and to the records of which he made valuable contributions in numerous historical discourses.

Jonathan Flynt Morris, who became a member in 1871, was born in Belchertown, Mass., March 20, 1822, and died at his home in Hartford, January 30, 1899. He was well and honorably known in the community, being for forty years an officer of the Charter Oak Bank, and taking a constant interest in religious and educational institutions; and he was one of the organizers of the Republican party in this State. He was a constant attendant on the meetings of this Society, to the value of which he added by his antiquarian and historical knowledge, while by his gifts he enriched its collections and by his services as Treasurer for twenty-four years he cared for its material prosperity.

Sherman Wolcott Adams, whose name has been on our roll since 1875, was born in Wethersfield, May 6, 1836, and died in Hartford, October 19, 1898. He was descended from several of the earliest settlers of Wethersfield and Windsor, and took a lively and unfailing interest in matters connected with the history of the State. He served in the Civil War as an assistant paymaster in the navy, and then entered upon the practice of law. He framed many of the public statutes of the State, made valuable collections of public documents, was a patient investigator in historical research, and contributed interesting articles to the Memorial History of Hartford County; but he was best known in this city for his indefatigable labors in the care of Bushnell Park, as president and secretary of the board of park commissioners. Like Mr. Morris, he was regular in attendance on the meetings of the Society, and his papers and remarks were always heard with interest. He received the honorary degree of Master of Arts from Trinity College.

Henry Rogers Hayden, who was admitted to membership in 1890, was born in Seneca Falls, N. Y., November 23, 1836, and died at his home in East Hartford, March 2, 1899. In early life he was a printer and newspaper correspondent, and then for many years a newspaper publisher; in 1873 he founded the Insurance Journal, and as its editor he became one of the best known insurance men and writers in New England.

Mrs. Angeline Lee Howard, a member since 1890, died at her home in California in April last. Though of late years rarely in Connecticut, she never lost her interest in this State and this Society.

MARVIN HUTCHINS SANGER, who became a member in 1889, was born in Brooklyn, April 12, 1827, and died at his home in Canterbury, June 3, 1898. He was honored with the confidence of his fellow-citizens, represented his town in the General Assembly, from 1873 to 1877 was Secretary of the State, and Treasurer from 1893 to 1895.

MRS. SARAH DAY HOLLEY, admitted to membership in 1890, died at her home in Lakeville in March of the present year. She was the daughter of Thomas Day, the Society's second President, and Secretary of the State, and wife of Alexander H. Holley, Governor of the State.

CLARENCE CATLIN HUNGERFORD, elected to membership in 1894, was born in Harwinton, October 2, 1844, and died at his home in Hartford, May 2, 1899. He was a man of feeble health and unable to engage in active business, but one whose true character commended him to those who knew him.

Note should also be made of the death of a member which escaped record at the time. JOSEPH S. HUNTINGTON, elected a member in 1854, died at his home in Lyme in 1893.

MEETINGS.

The first meeting of the year was held in October, when Mr. P. H. Woodward read to a large audience a paper on "New England and the Regicides." At the November meeting the Hon. John Hooker favored the Society with selections from his personal "Reminiscences." At the meeting in December the Rev. Dr. Love made a most valuable communication in regard to the Charter, which the Librarian has embodied in his report; and Dr. Henry Barnard gave an address on "The Life and Times of Dr. Eli Todd, first physician of the Hartford Retreat for the Insane," and presented a portrait of Dr. Todd. A paper by Judge David S. Calhoun on "The Influence of the Supreme Court upon the Constitution" was read at the January meeting. The address at the February meeting was by Mr. Wilbur F. Gordy on "The Influence of the West upon American History." In March the Society listened with much interest to a paper by Judge Epaphroditus Peck on "Moses Dunbar, Loyalist," the only person ever hanged in Connecticut for high treason. At the next meeting, in April, Mr. Charles Sidney Ensign gave an entertaining address on "Church-yard Witticisms." And at the last regular meeting, in the early part of the current month, Dr. Charles C. Stearns spoke on "The Early History of Egypt."

PUBLICATIONS.

The Reports and Papers presented at the last annual meeting were published in a pamphlet of fifty pages. The Librarian added to his report, as a special appendix, lists of the volumes of Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont Local Histories in our Library.

The seventh volume of the Society's Collections, carefully edited, well indexed, and beautifully printed, has been recently published. It contains one Orderly Book and seven Journals, all from hitherto unpublished manuscripts, and all written by Connecticut soldiers, covering the period from the outbreak of the Revolutionary War to the summer of 1778.

STATE RECORD COMMISSION.

At the last annual meeting a committee was appointed to present a petition to the General Assembly of the State, in the name of this Society, asking that provision be made for the appointment of a State Record Commission, as urged by the President in his annual address; and the committee was desired to ask for the coöperation of the other Historical Societies in the State. Attention was called to the matter by the Governor in his message in the following words:

"There is much uncertainty in regard to the condition and lawful custody of many of the records of the State and of its towns, its counties, and its courts. The State should inquire into this matter, and should see that the preservation of these records is made certain, and their accessibility secured to those who have the right or the duty to use them."

After consultation, a petition was presented to the General Assembly, asking for the appointment of a preliminary Record Commission, to inquire into the condition of the public records and to report to the next General Assembly as to the action deemed necessary for their proper care and preservation; and like petitions were presented by representatives of the New Haven Colony and the Fairfield County Historical Societies. Members of your committee appeared before the legislative committee to whom the matter was referred; and a report favoring the passage of a resolution embodying the proposed action has been reported to the General Assembly.

GENERAL MATTERS.

The report of the Librarian will, as usual, bring before you many matters of interest. It is a great satisfaction that we now have upon our walls portraits of all our Presidents since the reorganization of the Society in 1839. The appropriation of $500 from the Wadsworth Athenæum, which it is expected will be annually renewed, has come at an opportune time, and will enable us to satisfy the reasonable demands of the public, not as well as we should like to do, but better than ever before. The large list of donors shows that many persons in the State and elsewhere are interested in the library and collections of the Society.

The last day of May, 1900, will mark the close of seventy-five years since the organization of this Society. The time will be most opportune, in my judgment, for a commemoration, which may well include an address on some topic of historical importance, and a sketch of the work already done by the Society and of that which lies before it; and at such a time an appeal may well be made to the public for some substantial recognition of the services which have been rendered, such as shall provide for more extended services as the years pass on.

SAMUEL HART,
Vice-President.

Librarian's Report.

Mr. President and Members of the Society:

In presenting to the Society another annual report there is little that is extraordinary or startling to submit. The library is a rather quiet place where time usually moves in even course with only an occasional rarity among the accessions, or the knowledge of some new historical discovery to punctuate the placidity, not monotony, of its course. Readers from near and far come and go, some making but a single visit and then leaving their places at the readers' table to be filled by others, while others come so regularly that they seem almost to be a part of the place and their absence rather than presence is a matter of note. But though the readers change there is another company which to the librarian does not change—the books. They remain, and the outside at least of every one of them grows more and more familiar. Each one comes at last to be an acquaintance or a friend, each has an individuality almost a personality of its own entirely distinct from the subject matter it may happen to contain.

The most important event of the year in connection with the Society was the passage by the Wadsworth Athenæum at its last annual meeting of a vote appropriating the sum of five hundred dollars to the Connecticut Historical Society. This sum, by the terms of the vote, is to be expended by the Society in the purchase of books. The books thus purchased are to be placed upon the shelves of the Society's library as a deposit, and to be subject to the usual rules of the Society. They are, however, to remain the property of the Wadsworth Athenæum, and are subject at any time to that corporation's recall or further disposition. It is anticipated that the appropriation will be continued from year to year. Pursuant to this vote the money has been placed in the hands of our treasurer, and fifty-five works amounting to seventy volumes and pamphlets have already been purchased from this fund at a total cost of $208.24. A new Accessions Register with the heading "Wadsworth Athenæum deposit with the Connecticut Historical Society" has been procured, in which these books are entered. A book plate stating that the book is "deposited with the Connecticut Historical Society by the Wadsworth Athenæum" is placed in each volume.

At our December meeting the following most interesting communication was read by Dr. Lover:

The Corresponding Secretary asks leave to present a communication to the Society from Mr. Hubert Hall, F. S. A., the distinguished expert of Her Majesty's Public Record Office, relative to the "original" and "duplicate" of the Charter of Connecticut.

It may be well before reading this letter to state the occasion of it and review briefly the points involved. In the preparation of a chapter on the charter for Principal Twitchell's forthcoming book "Hartford in History," your secretary had occasion to examine the charters themselves—one framed at the Capitol and the other, a fragment, exhibited in the box by this Society. The question has been which of these was the original; the other was the duplicate. It has been generally concluded that the box was made for the original, which was kept in it and so appeared in the presence of the General Assembly on the 19th day of June, 1687. The charter at the Capitol was written on three skins; the one here on two. Naturally the lines would be different in length and one parchment wider than the other. A computation based upon careful measurements revealed the fact that the box would have exactly taken in the one of which a fragment is now preserved and that the other was some two inches narrower. This of itself would not have been conclusive evidence; but it was the source of a suspicion which led to further inquiry.

The hope of establishing the identity of the original has rested on the meaning of the words "Pr fine five pounds." This clause was appended to one parchment, as proven by several early manuscript copies. Our Society has one and Dr. Hoadly has another probably made before the year 1700. There is also in our archives a certified "Copy of the original charter remaining in the Secretary's Office," October 30, 1782. All these copies have the added words. Now as they are not found on the charter at the Capitol, they must have been on the one exhibited in the box. It has been hitherto thought that they noted the cost of the duplicate, which would be the natural inference. The suspicion, however, which the measurements aroused, that they might after all mean something else, led your secretary to write a letter to Mr. Hall asking for his interpretation of them. He has kindly made a search and sent to the Society in a letter dated October 26, 1898, documentary evidence as to their meaning, being a copy of the entry made in the accounts of the Clerks of the Hanaper at the granting of our own charter. This proves conclusively that the parchment having the words "Pr fine five pounds"—the one in the box with this Society—was the original and that the other is the duplicate.

The original charter passed the seals May 10, 1662, was brought to this country, and read to the freemen on the 9th of October. The Assembly then committed it to Samuel Wyllys, John Talcott and John Allyn for safe keeping. When Governor Winthrop arrived the following spring he was requested by that body to deliver the duplicate to the same magistrates. With these keepers they remained until June 15, 1687 when the Assembly ordered the charter brought into their presence, and "The Governor bid the Secretary [him] put it into the box again and lay it on the table and leave the key in the box, which he did." This was doubtless the charter then regarded as the original. Passing now a discussion of the hiding of the charter, it is conceded that about that time Captain Joseph Wadsworth obtained possession of the duplicate, for the

Colonial Records give us this action of the General Assembly in 1715: "Upon consideration of the faithful and good service of Captain Joseph Wadsworth of Hartford, especially in securing the Duplicate Charter of this Colony in a very troublesome season when our constitution was struck at and in safely keeping and preserving the same ever since unto this day: This Assembly do, as a token of their grateful resentment of such his faithful and good service, grant him out of the Colony treasury the sum of twenty shillings."

How did this duplicate come to be substituted in the Secretary's office for the original? In a legal sense both may have been regarded as originals: the surrender of either would have answered the purpose of Governor Andros. We conjecture that the historical original remained such in fact until a few years after the Revolution and was then discarded by the Secretary of State for the duplicate, because the former was so worn and stained and the latter so well preserved. There was no reason why this should not be done except a respect for the original document, the identity of which might not then have been known. As the one now known to have been the original was certified to as such in 1782 and was recovered from a bonnet maker in 1817, this exchange must have happened between those dates.

The information contained in the entry of the Clerks of the Hanaper does not of course, throw any light directly upon the hiding of the charter. Historians are left to accept any story of that incident which the evidence may seem to justify. It does, however, identify the original and the duplicate. This too is established, if Wadsworth hid the one which he secured in the oak it was that now framed in the capitol.

Mr. Hall's letter is as follows:

ROYAL HISTORICAL SOCIETY, LONDON,
60 CHANCERY LANE, Oct. 26, 1898.

DEAR SIR:

The question raised in your letter of the 3d inst. is one which relates to a matter that has always presented great difficulties to antiquarians.

At first sight it would seem that the fine of 5£ was paid for the duplicate, but I agree with you that this is not so probable for other reasons. The point is, however, to prove this. If I had seen the originals I might have formed an opinion from the attachment of the seals and general character, but failing this one can only proceed from the analogy of other charters or from official evidence respecting your own.

Colonial Records give us this action of the General Assembly in 1715: "Upon consideration of the faithful and good service of Captain Joseph Wadsworth of Hartford, especially in securing the Duplicate Charter of this Colony in a very troublesome season when our constitution was struck at and in safely keeping and preserving the same ever since unto this day: This Assembly do, as a token of their grateful resentment of such his faithful and good service, grant him out of the Colony treasury the sum of twenty shillings."

How did this duplicate come to be substituted in the Secretary's office for the original? ROYAL HISTORICAL SOCIETY, LONDON, 60 CHANCERY LANE, Dec. 26, 1895.

DEAR SIR:

The question raised in your letter of the 3d inst. is one which relates to a matter that has always presented great difficulties to antiquarians.

At first sight it would seem that the fine of £4 was paid for the duplicate, but I agree with you that this is not so probable for other reasons. The point is, however, to prove this. If I had seen the originals I might have formed an opinion from the attachment of the seals and general character, but failing this one can only proceed from the analogy of other charters or from official evidence respecting your own.

As to the former line of research, originals of this date are rare and even if the words "pur fine — £" were found it would not be real evidence that they were originals and not copies any more than in your own case. Again the inrolments do not help us. I have seen the Privy Seal and Patent Roll (Pat. 14) entry of your charter but they have no words of this kind at the end.

Fortunately I happened to be aware of a unique source of information which with some difficulty I have obtained access to, namely, the Accounts of the Clerks of the Hanaper (see my exchequer book under word Hanaper) who took the office fees from grantees in respect of such Patents, just as they are now taken by the Patent Office.

These Accounts are preserved in the Audit Office Records, and turning to the 10th day of May, 1662, I found the entry opposite, which settles the point that the copy bearing the words "pur fine 5 li" is the original and the other the duplicate.

As I have the honour to be a foreign member of the American Antiquarian Society and as I have also many good friends and correspondents in New England it gives me great pleasure to be of any service to your society.

Believe me

Yours very faithfully,

HUBERT HALL.

Since the last annual meeting our honored President, Dr. Hoadly, has presented to the Society an excellent portrait of himself which he had had painted for that purpose by Mr. Charles Noël Flagg. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stoeckel of Norfolk, have presented at the suggestion of our President, a portrait, painted by Mr. Frederick Dielman of New York, now President of the National Academy, of Mrs. Stoeckel's father, the late Hon. Robbins Battel, sometime President of the Society; thus completing the gallery of our Presidents since the reorganization of the Society in 1839. Mr. and Mrs. Stoeckel have also presented a beautiful etching entitled the marriage of Francis Le Baron and Mary Wilder, Plymouth, 1695. This couple were ancestors of both Mrs. Stoeckel and Rev. Thomas Robbins, our first librarian. From Hon. Henry Barnard has been received a portrait of Dr. Eli Todd, first physician of the Hartford Retreat for the Insane; and from Mr. John Elderkin of New York, a portrait of the Revolutionary patriot Col. Jedediah Elderkin of Windham.

The Publication Committee of the Second (South) Church in Hartford, through its chairman, Rev. E. P. Parker, pastor of the church, has presented to us the remaining copies of Dr. Parker's History of the Church. The gradual dispersal of this considerable number of volumes by exchange or direct sale will bring to our library many valuable additions, which will be credited as gifts from the Second Church's Publication Committee.

The Connecticut Society of Colonial Dames has deposited the following books with us during the year:

Annual Register of the Colonial Dames of the State of New York, 1893–1898.
Putnam's Putnam genealogy, vol. 1. 1891.
Sargent's Sargent genealogy. 1895.

The Ruth Wyllys Chapter, D. A. R., has also deposited with us the first eight volumes of the Lineage Book of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The binding during the year has been for the most part done in Boston. Sixty-three volumes have been bound or rebound, some in cloth, the others in one-half morocco, the price per volume ranging from 60 cents to $1.50. Thirty-one pamphlets have been bound at a cost of from 15 to 25 cents each, and four volumes of manuscript at a total cost of $5. The appropriation made for binding during the year was $75.

During the year 37 family genealogies have been added to our collection. This raises the total now on our shelves to more than 1000.

The largest donation received during the year was from the family of Hon. Gideon Wells, consisting of 100 volumes and 500 pamphlets. The majority of these were government documents, some of which being at the time of the civil war are of much interest. Mr. J. F. Morris' heirs presented his fine collection of books and pamphlets, about 200 in number, relating to the West Indies, particularly to Hayti.

The number of readers since the last annual meeting is 3,872, a daily average of between thirteen and fourteen, the attendance during each month being as follows: May (five days), 67; June, 280; July, 269; August (15 days), 157; September, 291; October, 294; November, 352; December, 328; January, 338; February, 371; March, 387; April, 448; May (20 days), 290. This number shows a decrease of readers as compared with the calendar year 1897 of a little more than twenty per cent. A like falling off is reported from some other similar libraries, and may be in part at least attributed to the excitement incident to the late Spanish-American war. The increase of purchases contemplated for the coming year will doubtless tend to increase the number of readers.

The accessions for the year, exclusive of manuscripts, are: by donation, 612 volumes, 1,207 pamphlets, and 71 miscellaneous; by purchase, 48 volumes, 80 pamphlets; and 1 miscellaneous; by exchange, 2 volumes. This makes a total of 662 volumes, 1,287 pamphlets, and 72 miscellaneous, or 2,021 in all. To these may be added the Athenæum deposit of 69 volumes and 1 pamphlet, making a grand total of 2,091 pieces.

A brief account of the manuscripts presented during the year will not, I trust, be without interest. They are as follows:

Sherman W. Adams, Hartford.

Applications for membership to the Naval Veteran Association of Connecticut, dating from 1884 to 1890, after which time the organization ceased to exist. Each application gives the record of service, and is signed by the applicant.

Stephen Ball, Hartford.

Documents signed by Noadiah Russell, 1680; Eliphalet Ball, 1749; Thomas Clap, 1759.

Dwight E. Bowers, New Haven.

Several business papers of Horace Belden of Hartford.

Mrs. Edward Day, Springfield, Mass.

Nine letters, including two poems, from Mrs. Lydia Huntley Sigourney to Mrs. Hannah Porter of Hartford and Munson, Mass., 1842 to 1850.

Miss Emma S. Forbes, Burnside.

Genealogical notes on the Buckland, Carver, Easton, Flint, Gilman, Roberts, and Treat families.

The accessions for the year, exclusive of manuscripts, are: by donation, 612 volumes, 1,207 pamphlets, and 71 miscellaneous; by purchase, 48 volumes, 80 pamphlets, and 1 miscellaneous; by exchange, 2 volumes. This makes a total of 662 volumes, 1,287 pamphlets, and 72 miscellaneous, or 2,021 in all. To these may be added the Athenæum deposit of 69 volumes and 1 pamphlet, making a grand total of 2,091 pieces.

A brief account of the manuscripts presented during the year will not, I trust, be without interest. They are as follows:

Sherman W. Adams, Hartford.

Applications for membership to the Naval Veteran Association of Connecticut, dating from 1884 to 1890, after which time the organization ceased to exist. Each application gives the record of service, and is signed by the applicant.

Stephen Ball, Hartford.

Documents signed by Noadiah Russell, 1680; Elphalet Ball, 1746; Thomas Clap, 1759.

Dwight E. Bowers, New Haven.

Several business papers of Horace Belden of Hartford.

Mrs. Edward Day, Springfield, Mass.

Nine letters, including two poems, from Mrs. Lydia Huntley Sigourney to Mrs. Hannah Porter of Hartford and Munson, Mass., 1842 to 1850.

Miss Emma S. Forbes, Burnside.

Genealogical notes on the Buckland, Carver, Easton, Flint, Gilman, Roberts, and Treat families.

William Goodrich, Philadelphia, Pa.

Account book, with loose papers laid in, kept by Thomas Bull of Farmington about 1672–1692. Deacon Bull was a smith, and such charges are found as the making of irons and hinges for the stocks, hooks for the pound and meadow gates; also accounts with individual Indians for hoes and hunting hatchets furnished them.

James J. Goodwin, Hartford.

List of the taxpayers of New London, June, 1781, comprising about 1,000 names, divided into thirty classes, and giving the amount upon which each person was taxed. It was the duty of each class to furnish the town's bounty for paying one soldier to enlist into the Continental Army, the town's full quota at the time being sixty-eight men. Also a list of more than eighty men who were serving or had served in the war. Almost all of these were from New London, but a few were "disputed" or "adjudged to" some other town. A number of the names here given do not appear in the printed record of Connecticut Men in the War of the Revolution.

George E. Hoadley, Hartford.

Notes on the Wood family.

Samuel J. Kirk, Hartford.

The first pass issued to leave the State of Virginia after the breaking out of the civil war. The pass was issued to Mr. Kirk by his friend Governor Letcher, who arose from bed at 6:30 A. M., April 20, 1861, to sign it.

Rev. W. DeLoss Love, Hartford.

Sermon by Rev. Moses Hemenway of Wells, Me.

John E. Marsh, Hartford.

Account book kept by John Marsh at Hartford and Litchfield, about 1705 to 1780, containing a short record of marriages at Hartford as printed in Hinman's Catalogue of the Puritan Settlers of Connecticut, first edition, and some Marsh family records.

Ens. Louis F. Middlebrook, Hartford.

Pay roll, with autographs, of the Second Division Naval Battalion, C. N. G., June 6–15, 1898.

Heirs of Jonathan F. Morris, Hartford.

Several thousand letters and documents constituting a portion of the papers and correspondence of Commissary-General Jeremiah Wadsworth from the time of the Revolution to his death. Also many papers of his son, Daniel Wadsworth, and pertaining to Daniel's estate. Correspondence of Elisha Babcock of Hartford with his sons, 1804–1810, about 125 letters, containing many interesting local notes. Whitman correspondence, nearly 100 letters, about 1830. These Wadsworth papers, together with the large number previously in the Society's possession, many of which were Mr. Morris' gift, form an extremely interesting and valuable collection relating to a little known and but half appreciated side of the Revolutionary struggle—that of the Commissary Department. With these were also received forty-five letters and documents relating to Hayti, a number of them being signed by Toussant L'Ouverture and others of the black patriots of that island.

while employed as a workman about the building in September, 1898. In February of the present year Mr. A. G. Pearl of this city secured a bit of a rafter from Faneuil Hall, Boston, during the making of repairs on that building, which he has presented to us. A most interesting relic, the gun carried in the Revolution by Asher Wright, the servant, friend, and companion of Nathan Hale, was presented by Thomas E. Porter of South Coventry, who also presented a woven sash and rapier said to have been worn and carried in the French and Indian war by Thomas Stanley Porter of South Coventry. Another interesting gift came from William A. Saunders of Cambridge, Mass., consisting of a piece of charter oak given to the donor by the poet Longfellow; and a fragment of a green wax seal with this inscription in the handwriting of Abiel Holmes, the annalist: "A piece of the seal that was annexed to the Connect Charter by Charles II. brot from Connect. (from the Wyllys family) in 1804 to Camb. A. H." From Mrs. Jane T. Smith, Hartford, a piece of green silk from a dress that belonged to Elizabeth Whitman (Eliza Wharton). From George O. Stevens of Boston, a cane which belonged to Rev. Timothy Stone, pastor of the church in Glastonbury from 1692 to 1726. And Edgar T. Welles of New York gave us a piece of the first flag of truce sent to the "rebels" during the late war.

In addition to the corrections made in my last annual report, your attention is called to two other errors in my Historical Notes on the Probate Districts of Connecticut, printed in the report for 1897. The towns of Harwinton and Torrington were both in the probate district of Hartford until 1742; not in the New Haven district as printed.

Appended to this report will be found a list of our family genealogies additional to the list published in the report for 1896.

Respectfully,

ALBERT C. BATES,
Librarian.

Annual Address.

SINCE our last annual meeting the membership of this Society has been increased by the election of fourteen resident members. Three of our members, viz., Mrs. Mary R. Perkins of Hartford, Ebenezer S. Phillips of Bridgeport, and Carl Stoeckel of Norfolk, have transferred themselves from annual dues to life membership. Twelve resident members have been removed from the roll by death. Of these three were life members. Two have resigned. Thus our total membership remains the same as reported at the last annual meeting, viz., 347, comprising 322 resident members, of whom 51 are life members, 4 honorary, and 21 corresponding members. This membership covers every county in the State and nearly one-half of the towns, and has extended into Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania, and South Dakota.

DECEASED MEMBERS.

Of the twelve whom death has removed from our midst ten were residents of Hartford.

RODNEY DENNIS, a descendant of the early New England settlers, was born in Topsfield, Mass., January 14, 1826. Coming to Hartford at the age of sixteen, he entered business, in which he continued some years, when he removed to Augusta, Ga., and later to Albany, N. Y. He returned to Hartford in 1855, and accepted a position with the Phœnix Bank, where he remained until 1864, when he was chosen the first secretary of the Travelers Insurance Company. This position he held until shortly before his death. Having been prominent in business and Christian work for more than half a century, Mr. Dennis was one of Hartford's best known citizens. The high esteem in which he was held is shown by the number of trusts with which he was associated. His death, which resulted from a severe attack of the grip, occurred June 2, 1899. He was made a life member in 1890.

As a member of the Board of Trade he was deeply interested in the welfare and prosperity of Hartford. He was born in Avon, November 10, 1826, and had been a member of this Society since April, 1891.

On the morning of February 17, 1900, the Rev. John S. Davenport, a lineal descendant of the Rev. John Davenport of the New Haven Colony, died at his home on Asylum Avenue. He was born in Stamford, September 26, 1808, and graduated from Yale in the class of 1833. Having studied theology in New Haven, he entered the Congregational ministry and occupied pastorates in Connecticut and Massachusetts. Later he took orders in the Episcopal Church and held rectorships in New York. In 1854 he became identified with the Catholic Apostolic Church, in which denomination he served as pastor and evangelist. He was a man of ability and a strong preacher. Having surmounted many difficulties and possessed himself of a good fundamental education, he determined to enter the legal profession, but was thwarted in this through change of circumstances and a severe illness. Although in broken health, his prospects frustrated and his friends discouraged, he was determined if possible to become a minister. In August, 1857, he was licensed to preach by the Rutland (Vt.) Association, and soon after entered the Andover Seminary. His remarkable power in the pulpit and his ready sympathy and helpfulness with all in suffering and bereavement, speedily won the affection of all with whom he came in contact. His first pastorate in Connecticut was in 1868, when he was called to the First Church in New Haven, where in 1870 he received the degree of D. D. from Yale.

Being forced by ill-health to again retire from active pastoral work in 1873, he went abroad for a vacation. Coming to the First Church in this city in 1879, he became the embodiment of its interests as he had been the spirit of Congregationalism. He was one of the commission to prepare the "Creed of 1883." He has been closely identified with the work of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, and a member of the Corporation of Yale University. He was a fearless, incisive debater, but possessed a judicial mind. His studies in New England religious history are of a lasting character. Like his discourses, they bear the stamp of earnestness, directness, and conviction. Of especial interest to Connecticut is his "History of the First Church in Hartford, 1633–1883."

MEETINGS.

Eight regular meetings have been held during the year. The papers presented have been varied in subject and well received.

The first paper of the year was presented by Gilbert O. Fay, Ph. D., upon "The Relation of Hartford to the Education of the Deaf." At the November meeting, Rev. L. W. Hicks told us of the life and work of "Mr. Ralph Wheelock, Puritan." This paper has been privately printed. The December meeting was occupied by F. Clarence Bissell, chief clerk in the Comptroller's office at the Capitol, who gave an account of the "Rev. Samuel Peters and his slaves." This paper has since been read before other associations. The address at the March meeting was delivered by Judge Simeon E. Baldwin upon "The American Jurisdiction of the Bishop of London in our Colonial Era." This address has also been printed. A., of London,—a native of Vermont,—presented to the Society a beautifully bound volume containing transcripts of the muster rolls of the said proposed expedition, recently discovered by him in the English archives.

STATE RECORD COMMISSION.

As a result of the petitions presented to the General Assembly of 1899 by the New Haven Colony Historical Society, the Fairfield County Historical Society, and our own, asking for the appointment of a preliminary Record Commission to inquire into the condition of the public records and to report to the General Assembly of 1901 as to the action deemed necessary for their proper care and preservation, the General Assembly passed the following Special Act:

PROVIDING FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF A COMMISSION OF PUBLIC RECORDS.

Resolved by this Assembly:

SECTION 1. That the Governor be and he is hereby authorized to appoint a commission of public records consisting of three persons, whose duty it shall be to inquire and report to the next General Assembly the condition of the public records of the State, including court, county, town, society, and parish records, and to recommend to the General Assembly of 1901 the best methods of preserving the same from loss or injury.

SEC. 2. The expenses of the said commission in making inquiries shall be paid upon bills duly audited by the Comptroller, provided the total amount so paid shall not exceed three hundred dollars.

Approved June 13, 1899."

Governor Lounsbury has accordingly appointed Dr. Samuel Hart and Albert C. Bates, of this Society, and Dwight E. Bowers, treasurer of the New Haven Colony Historical Society, members of said committee.

Governor Lounsbury has accordingly appointed Dr. Samuel Hart and Albert C. Bates, of this Society, and Dwight E. Bowers, treasurer of the New Haven Colony Historical Society, members of said committee.

The following Public Act was also passed by the General Assembly of 1899:

AN ACT CONCERNING THE PRESERVATION OF TOWN RECORDS.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Assembly convened:

It shall be the duty of selectmen in the month of September in each year to inquire into the condition of all the records of their respective towns, and to cause any volume of such records to be carefully repaired, arranged in order of pages, and rebound whenever such repairs and rebinding are necessary for the preservation of the records contained in such volume.

Approved June 9, 1899.

The special report upon the condition of our ancient court records made to the General Assembly in 1889 showed the condition of those records at that time. Only a glance at the reports of the Record Commissioners of Massachusetts and Rhode Island is necessary to show us the startling conditions and dangers which surround the greater part of our other public records. Connecticut should follow the good example of her neighbor States, and appoint a competent person whose duty it shall be to have a general supervision of public records.

As usual the reports and papers presented at the last annual meeting have been published by the Society. This pamphlet of forty-six pages also contains a list of the Family Genealogies acquired by the Society since the last report on the same in 1896.

In closing, I wish to repeat what I said at a former annual meeting. I hold the office of President of this Society by your favor. Five times in succession have you unanimously elected me to that position of honor, for which I return my best thanks; but now having passed my three-score and ten years, and finding bodily strength and sight will not permit me to do and go as I would, I most respectfully think the interests of our Society will be best served by letting some younger and more efficient person assume the duties and enjoy the honors of the office, which is second to none in our State.

Librarian's Report.

Mr. Chairman and Members of the Society:

THE question of room for our books, to accommodate the growth of the library, will soon become a serious one. A slight relief has been gained by the addition in the sections devoted to local history and genealogy of twenty-four feet of new shelving, and of another twenty-four feet for miscellaneous uses; and two small cases loaned by one of our members are proving very useful. But this relief is only temporary, and before another year has passed all of our available shelving will be solidly filled. Already in one alcove it has been found necessary to place one row of books on the shelves behind another, and in another case to pile pamphlets and magazines on the top of the book cases. From time to time books that are little used have been taken to the store room down stairs, but that room has become so filled, especially by the growth of our newspaper files, that now its only available space is floor space not already occupied. Some duplicates, for the most part those of little value, have been removed to the basement; but for a number of reasons this is an undesirable step. Some action, perhaps the building of movable temporary cases, is greatly needed during the coming year.

Attention was called in the last annual report to the appropriation of five hundred dollars made by the Wadsworth Athenæum for the purchase of books to be shelved in this library, and a list was given of the books already purchased. The appropriation was generously renewed at the last annual meeting of the Athenæum, the sum granted for the current calendar year being three hundred seventy-five dollars. The sum of two hundred ninety-one dollars and seventy-six cents remaining at the time of the Society's last annual meeting has been expended, together with one hundred fifty-four dollars and eighty-nine cents from the current year's appropriation. Of this amount eight dollars was expended in the binding of Three files of recent daily newspapers, the Hartford Courant and Times and the New York Tribune, chiefly the property of the Public Library but supplemented by some belonging to the Society, have been bound and placed in our newspaper room. They comprise, as bound, seventy-three volumes.

The addition of eighty-nine genealogies during the year brings the total number now on our shelves to more than eleven hundred.

The number of readers since our last annual meeting has increased thirteen per cent. over that of the previous year, the monthly record being: May (5 days), 93; June, 364; July, 304; August (16 days), 220; September, 389; October, 422; November, 326; December, 342; January, 429; February, 441; March, 440; April, 326; May (25 days), 275; a total of 4,371, and a daily average of almost 15.

Several of the papers read by members at our monthly meetings during the last three years have been printed and can now be found on our shelves. They are The House of Hope of the First Connecticut Settlers, by Mrs. Ellen Terry Johnson, now deceased; Sketch of the Development of the Presidential Office in Yale College, by Prof. Franklin B. Dexter; The Connecticut Gore Land Company, by Albert C. Bates; Reminiscences, by John Hooker, in a volume bearing the same title; Mr. Ralph Wheelock, Puritan, by Rev. Lewis W. Hicks; American Jurisdiction of the Bishop of London during our Colonial Era, by Judge Simeon E. Baldwin.

The accessions by gift during the last twelve months have fallen considerably short of the average for recent years. In addition to the manuscripts noted below the accessions are as follows: by donation, 538 volumes, 600 pamphlets, and 17 miscellaneous; by exchange, 2 volumes; by purchase, 69 volumes, 135 pamphlets, and 10 miscellaneous; making 608

At the May meeting, in connection with the paper of the evening, Dr. Love read the following letter:

To the Connecticut Historical Society:

FELLOW MEMBERS:—On the 8th of December last a letter was addressed to this Society by Mr. Benjamin F. Stevens,

F. S. A., of London, making inquiries as to certain papers relating to the proposed expedition for the reduction of Canada in 1746. He especially mentioned the Muster Rolls of the ten companies raised in the Colony of Connecticut for the above purpose, which had been recently found in the Public Record Office of England; and offered, in case these were new historical material, to have careful transcripts made of the rolls and a few related papers and present the same to this Society. It required only a glance at Connecticut history to assure us that a discovery had been made of invaluable manuscripts which have been missing from our State archives for more than one hundred and fifty years. Our honored correspondent was accordingly advised of the facts, and his generous offer was gratefully accepted in behalf of this Society.

The later researches which we have made reveal an astonishing poverty in the archives of all the New England colonies as to the proposed expedition. The Massachusetts muster rolls have long been missed and the state papers on the subject are comparatively few and unimportant. The same may be said of New Hampshire and Rhode Island. All the colonies seem to have sent their rolls to England as vouchers in the claim for reimbursement. It appears from Mr. Stevens's "Prefatory Letter" that only those of Connecticut have been recovered. The most valuable historical material on this subject which we have found anywhere is in the Governor Law collection of manuscripts in the archives of this Society. Therein we have gathered in the main the facts which have enabled us to tell the story of this expedition.

The volume which Mr. Stevens has so kindly presented was received a few days since and is now before you. It is an oblong folio of 115 sheets, elegantly bound in green morocco, and is a beautiful specimen of the copyist's art.

The Transcriber's Prefatory Letter, which is dated "London, 9 April, 1900," the anniversary of the Duke of Newcastle's letter commanding the expedition, is as follows:

"In respectfully proffering this volume of Transcripts to the Connecticut Historical Society a few words about this unique Muster Roll may not be unacceptable.

"The original book in its contemporaneous canvas binding is made up of broadside sheets of paper of different sizes. It

"In respectfully proffering this volume of Transcripts to the Connecticut Historical Society a few words about this unique Muster Roll may not be unacceptable.

"The original book in its contemporaneous canvas binding is made up of broadside sheets of paper of different sizes. It has no title page. The first sheet, written on both sides, contains the Resolution of the General Assembly of Connecticut in May, 1746, to raise and maintain Troops. The seal is lost. The second sheet, also written on both sides, contains further Resolutions of June, 1746. This has the Colonial Seal in red wax. The third sheet is a proclamation or certificate by Governor Law enumerating the officers of the different companies. The Governor's seal on this is an imperfect impression. On the fourth sheet the Muster Rolls begin and are continued to the eighty-third, where the book ends. The first and first only of these rolls bears the title heading, 'A Muster Roll of the Regiment of foot under the command of Col. Elisha Williams raised for His Majesties Service for an Expedition against Canada by Order of the General Assembly of this Colony pursuant to his Majesties Directions signified to the same by his Grace the Duke of New Castle in a letter dated April 9th, 1746.' The Rolls are for each of the ten companies, and give the names of the officers, non-commissioned officers and privates, with the dates of enlistment, and are respectively for these eight periods: 30 May to 24 August, 1746; 25 August to 24 October; 25 October to 24 December; 25 December, 1746, to 24 February, 1747; 25 February to 24 April; 25 April to 24 June; 25 June to 24 August; and 25 August to 31 October, 1747. They each bear the autograph signatures of their respective captains and lieutenants and all are countersigned by Governor Law and Commissary Herpin. The eighty Rolls are here transcribed page for page with their respective originals, with a single exception that it has been more convenient to copy the one title heading on a separate preliminary sheet.

"As the Acts of the General Assembly and this Mustering of the Connecticut Forces for an Expedition against Canada were 'pursuant to His Majesties Directions signified by the Duke of New Castle in a letter dated April 9, 1746,' and as that letter is not in the book with the Muster Roll, I add a copy from its official draft (A. W. I. 63) in the Public Record Office. I also add the Abstract of Mr. Palmer's letter received August, 1747, and the Extract of Governor Law's letter of 17 October, 1747, received from Governor Shirley, but in quoting these three papers pertaining to the Muster Roll merely for convenient reference I am not opening for discussion the general subject has no title page. The first sheet, written on both sides, contains the Resolution of the General Assembly of Connecticut in May, 1746, to raise and maintain Troops. The seal is lost. The first and first only of these rolls bears the title heading, 'A Muster Roll of the Regiment of foot under the command of Col. Elisha Williams raised for His Majesties Service for an Expedition against Canada by Order of the General Assembly of this Colony pursuant to his Majesties Directions signified to the same by his Grace the Duke of New Castle in a letter dated April 6th, 1746.' The Rolls are for each of the ten companies, and give the names of the officers, non-commissioned officers and privates, with the dates of enlistment, and are respectively for these eight periods: 30 May to 24 August, 1746; 25 August to 24 October; 25 October to 24 December; 25 December, 1746, to 24 February, 1747; 25 February to 24 April; 25 April to 24 June; 25 June to 24 August; and 25 August to 31 October, 1747. They each bear the autograph signatures of their respective captains and lieutenants and all are countersigned by Governor Law and Commissary Herpin. The eighty Rolls are here transcribed page for page with their respective originals, with a single exception that it has been more convenient to copy the one title heading on a separate preliminary sheet.

"As the Acts of the General Assembly and this Muster Roll of the Connecticut Forces for an Expedition against Canada were pursuant to His Majesties Directions signified by the Duke of New Castle in a letter dated April 6, 1746,' and as that letter is not in the book with the Muster Roll, I add a copy from its official draft (A. W. I. 63) in the Public Record Office. I also add the Abstract of Mr. Palmer's letter received August, 1747, and the Extract of Governor Law's letter of 17 October, 1747, received from Governor Shirley, but in quoting these three papers pertaining to the Muster Roll merely for convenient reference I am not opening for discussion the general subject of the concerted action of Connecticut with the other colonies for the reduction of Canada or the Louisburg expeditions. Of course the fair copies of the Duke of Newcastle's draft when written out for signature and dispatch would be addressed in the usual terms to the respective governors. In the body of the instructions 'Connecticut' or 'Rhode Island' would be substituted for 'New Hampshire' now in the official draft.

"The spelling of names, abbreviations, capitals, punctuation and similar peculiarities have been carefully followed throughout the transcripts. Only the foliation on the eighty Muster Rolls has been added.

"This original Muster Roll recently discovered in the Public Record Office of England by Hubert Hall, Esq., F. S. A., Custodian of the Government Search Room, is perhaps the only complete Muster Roll of the Colonial forces raised for this expedition, now preserved in the English Archives. Its present reference mark and number is War Office, Original Correspondence No. 1.

"In the hope of making my Transcript better available for historical and genealogical purposes, I have put at the end of the volume an alphabetical list of the names of the one thousand officers and men borne on the Muster Roll."

It gives me great pleasure in behalf of Mr. Stevens to present this volume, entitled "Transcript of the Connecticut Muster Roll, 1746–7," to this Society as a contribution to the history of Connecticut and, I venture to add, in testimony of his affection for his native land. It will be proper for us to take such action as may duly express our gratitude for his invaluable service and generous gift.

Very respectfully yours,

W. DeLoss Love,

Corresponding Secretary.

The Pennsylvania State Library has completed our set of the second series of Pennsylvania Archives. Vol. 18, consisting of "Documents relating to the Connecticut Settlement in the Wyoming Valley," is of particular interest to students of Connecticut history. Sixteen volumes, 1883 to date, of "Reports on Canadian Archives" have been received from Hon. Douglas Brymner, Archivist. The "William and Mary College Quarterly" from its beginning in 1893, the "Quarterly" of the Ohio State Archæological and Historical Society from its beginning in 1888, and the "Old Northwest Genealogical Quarterly" from its beginning in 1898, have been added to the list of our current historical periodicals. Mrs. L. N. Karr of Hartford, now of New York, presented us with 173 volumes of a miscellaneous nature, including a number that are of considerable interest, and Dr. Hart gave us 225 pamphlets, including several scarce local imprints. A complete bound file (1886–1894) of the Connecticut Home and its continuation, the New England Home, was presented by the publisher, Mr. Allen B. Lincoln of Hartford. The Hartford Printing Co. has again favored us with directories of different cities, 61 volumes. Col. Charles M. Joslyn, administrator on the estate of the late Col. William B. McCray, has presented us with the sword and belt worn by Commodore William Bainbridge when in command of the Constitution.

Respectfully,

ALBERT C. BATES,
